EIGHT ARE SLAIN AND 70 INJURED IN GENEVA RIOT

SMALL CHILD'S JAW SHOT OFF IN BATTLE

Disturbance Is Culmination of Bitter Agitation on Regime's Policies.

Geneva, Switzerland, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Eight men were killed and 70 were wounded by machine-gun fire turned on a crowd outside a political meeting at Community Hall, near the university, tonight.

A small child's jaw was shot off.

Police said the shooting began when a crowd hissed soldiers for brandishing arms in the streets of the "disarmament city." The crowd snatched rifles from militiamen and smashed them on the pavement.

Young Troops Blamed.

The firing was done by a company of soldiers called out to disperse an immense, excited crowd which sought to gain entrance to the Community Hall, where an anti-Socialist meeting was in progress. Police said it was an attempt to break up the meeting.

The riot was the culmination of several weeks of bitter political agitation between socialists and supporters of the Geneva government. The Socialists charged the government with corruption and a number of financial scandals.

Two companies of young recruits in training at Lausanne were brought here this morning in anticipation of trouble. Their youthfulness and inexperience were blamed by many in the crowd for the tragic battle. They were dubbed "children's troops" by the crowd.

All Casualties Civilians.

The anti-Socialist gathering was protected by a strong force of gendarmes. When the auditorium was filled to the doors the gendarmes forbid others to enter. The crowd broke through and the young militiamen were ordered to the scene armed with machine guns and automatic rifles.

The sight of the arms and the soldiers irritated the crowd, which began to boo and seize the guns. Machine guns suddenly began to roar. The crowd thought blank cartridges were being used, but men began to fall and bullets to spatter against the buildings in the square.

All the dead and wounded were civilians, except one soldier who was cuffed by the crowd.

Roosevelt Answers President's Message

"I appreciate your generous telegram for the immediate as well as for the more distant future. I join in your gracious expression of a common purpose in helpful effort for our country."

Brewers Planning For Beer's Return

One Company Announces It Is Prepared to Spend $2,000,000.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Confident that the election results mean the early return of beer, brewers in Milwaukee and St. Paul announced plans today to prepare for its manufacture when legalized.

Edward Landsberg, of the Blatz Brewing Co., said his company was prepared to expend $2,000,000 and to add from 700 to 800 employes as soon as the Volstead act is modified. W. H. Kraft, of the Miller Brewery, said: "We are prepared to produce beer on short notice." S. E. Abrams, of the Schlitz Brewing Co., said approximately 2,000 employes would be added to his firm in such an event.

Fred Pabst, of the Pabst Corporation, reported his employes would be increased from 600 to 2,000 by beer's return.

Dearborn, Ford's Home, Is 7 to 5 for Roosevelt

Detroit, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Returns from Dearborn, home of Henry Ford and many of his employes, gave Gov. Roosevelt a 7-to-5 lead over President Hoover. Twenty-four of the city's 30 precincts gave Roosevelt 7,664 and Hoover 5,173.

Henry Ford, in a radio address, urged the reelection of President Hoover and the Ford Motor Co. in a circular to employes advocated the President's reelection, although disclaiming any attempt to "control any man's vote."

Sale Tax Drive Due At December Session

Postage Rise, Bank Check and Other Levies Would Be Eliminated; Dry Law Showdown May Be Delayed.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Congress must pass a new revenue bill at the December session and there is an active move under way to make a sales tax the vehicle for needed new levies, The Post reliably was informed yesterday.

A plan being considered in authoritative Senate quarters would substitute the sales tax for some of the nuisance taxes under the present revenue act, notably the taxes on postage and bank checks, yield from which is falling below expectations.

It was said in informed Senate circles that urgency of this revenue legislation, coupled with the press of eleven appropriation bills and probable relief measures, might delay the final showdown on Volstead act modification until after March 4.

Postponement until legislative and executive branches are definitely in control of the Democrats would be in face of the fact that Senator Carter Glass' repeal resolution is the Senate's unfinished business. Those who favor this course believe Democrats themselves, with the consent of Glass, would agree to having the resolution referred back to committee for redrafting.

Proponents of the plan feel it would be better to deal with the question of modification and repeal at one time, as a coordinated whole, than to enact "piecemeal" legislation at the short session of Congress.

A growing deficit makes it inevitable new sources of revenue must be considered soon after Congress convenes. With existing sources tapped to the limit, it was held altogether probable the next revenue bill would take the form of a sales tax, with many who fought that form of taxation at the last session of Congress supporting it at the next.

Probability that another economy bill will be drawn, possibly as a rider

FAMILIAR LEADERS IN SENATE DROPPED

Watson, Smoot, Moses and Jones, G.O.P. Veterans, Will Be Absent.

By J. BERNARD McDONNELL.

The terrific back-wash of the anti-Hoover voting Tuesday carried out of office one after another of the Republicans in the Senate, including several who have been so long in the Senate it is probable they will feel a loss after next March 4.

Senator Reed Smoot of Utah, tall, unoratorical high priest of Republican protectionism; Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, his party's leader in the Senate; the slim, silver-haired Hiram Bingham, of Connecticut, leader of the vets on the Republican side of the Senate aisle; the saturnine appearing, quiet-voiced Wesley L. Jones, of Washington, author of the "five and ten" prohibition law and chairman of the powerful appropriations committee, and the attention attracting, scrappy, wise-cracking George H. Moses, of New Hampshire, were among the Republican stalwarts who were swept out of office.

The election wrought havoc among the Republican holy of holies in the Senate. The party saw struck down by the holocaust most of the remaining members of the little Senate group which a few years ago were sometimes described as the Senate oligarchy, and who, in truth, felt they were the elders of the Nation charged with determining the course of its government.

The Democratic victory, on the other hand, not only brought reelection of those Democratic candidates

Chicago Politician's Son AndChauffeur Kidnaped

Chicago, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—The 13-year-old son of John J. Touhy, reelected yesterday as a trustee of the Chicago Sanitary District, was kidnaped tonight along with his father's chauffeur by three men. Both were released about an hour later in an outlying district of the city.

Their release came as Mayor Anton Cermak personally instructed a city-wide search for the kidnapers. Touhy said he believed the kidnapers intended to abduct him.

TAXICAB MONOPOLY NEAR HOTELS ENDED

P. U. C. Approves Regulations Setting Up 210 New Hack Stands.

Taxicab stands, open to all cabs, will be established on streets adjacent to all downtown hotels, which have heretofore sold the privilege of private parking to a single company, principally the Black & White and Yellow and the Mayflower companies.

The traffic coordinating committee yesterday afternoon approved the new regulations setting up 210 hack stands, 10 sightseeing stands, and 5 express parking places. Thirty taxi stands, one sightseeing stand, and one express stand that existed under the control of the Police Department were abolished.

The Public Utilities Commission today will give formal approval to the new hack stand locations.

An appeal from the order as it affects the hotel parking stands is expected to be taken by the companies adversely affected. District authorities have tried for several years to break up the monopoly, but without success. A test case is now pending in the courts.

The new regulations are issued following a public hearing and a painstaking investigation of all stands as established by the Police Department. The commission was given control of the stand by the recent license act.

Barbour Leads Stewart With Count Near Finish

Newark, N. J., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—With only 29 Districts unreported, U. S. Senator W. Warren Barbour, Republican, was leading the Democrat Representative Percy H. Stewart by a margin of more than 8,000 votes.

The returns from 3,386 of 3,415 Districts gave Barbour 727,234 to Stewart's 718,804. The outstanding precincts are in Republican territory.

Just Plain 'Mrs. Roosevelt'

Doesn't Want to Be Called "First Lady," She Says, Adding She Never Desired to Be Wife of a Chief Executive.

(EDITOR'S NOTE—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, an outspoken, vigorous woman of many interests, says she will be "plain, ordinary Mrs. Roosevelt" when she goes to the White House, in the first of a series of three articles by Lorena Hickok, who was with her almost constantly in the campaign that made her husband President-elect.)

By LORENA HICKOK.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

New York, Nov. 9.—"If I wanted to be selfish," said Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt today, "I could wish that he had not been elected."

The voters settled that matter yesterday, however, and on March 4 Mrs. Roosevelt will acquire the title bestowed upon her so often in the last few months by the toastmasters.

"I suppose they will call me that," she said, "but there isn't going to be any First Lady of the Land."

There is going to be plain, ordinary Mrs. Roosevelt, and that's all."

She was smiling, but the expression in her eyes was serious.

"I never wanted it," she said softly, "even though people have said my ambition for myself drove him on—even that I had some such idea in the back of my head when I married him.

"I never wanted to be a President's wife, and I don't want it now. You don't quite believe me, do you? Very likely no one would—except, perhaps, some woman who had had the job. Well, I don't, anyway.

"For him, of course, I'm glad—sincerely. I couldn't really have wanted it to go the other way. I am a Democrat, too. Being a Democrat, I believe this change is for the better.

"And now—I shall have to work out my own salvation.

14 FEARED DEAD AS STORM HITS COAST OF CUBA

Vast Damage to Towns and Sugar Crops Is Reported.

Jamaica Is Hard Struck as $3,000,000 Banana Yield Is Destroyed.

Havana, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—A tropical storm which has kept the West Indies in apprehension for the last week struck the three eastern provinces of Cuba today, killing ten persons, injuring more than 200 and causing great property damage.

The department of sanitation in Havana was informed that need for medical supplies in Canajuani, a city of 23,000 in Santa Clara Province, was imperative. Supplies and physicians were sent from Cienfuegos and 200 doses of antitetanus serum were rushed from Havana.

A special rescue train will leave Havana for Camaguey, in Camaguey Province, as soon as possible. All physicians and nurses in municipal hospital were ordered to be ready to leave at a moment' notice.

Plane Service Suspended.

Almost all the usual means of communication with the three stricken provinces were cut, and Pan-American Airways canceled all West Indies flights, as well as service to Miami.

Available reports indicated that Camaguey Province suffered most, although there was considerable damage in Oriente and Santa Clara. The Belen Observatory in Havana learned that in the Town of Nuevitas in Camaguey the wind reached a speed of 130 miles an hour.

In midafternoon the storm was moving to the northeast—in the morning the center of disturbance had passed just east of the City of Camaguey—and it was expected it would leave the island somewhere east of Nuevitas.

Bahamas in Path.

Observers said the disturbance might strike the Bahamas some time tonight, and then possibly move on through a low-pressure area between Jacksonville and Charleston.

The information that ten persons had been killed and more than 200 injured reached the department of sanitation from Canajuani. Police in that city informed the secretary of the interior they were giving first aid to the injured. Numerous houses there were destroyed.

The Government station at Holguin, in Oriente, the extreme eastern province, sent a radio message to Havana saying the area about that city was not damaged. It added that information from Bayamo, about 50 miles to the southwest, was that many houses had been destroyed and

River Overflows Sea Wall in Park

A swollen and yellow Potomac slopped over the seawall in East Potomac Park at high tide last night. The flood water receded as the tide went out, but with the continuation of the rain the overflow is threatened again.

Roads in Anacostia Park were inundated. High water in Rock Creek caused park police to close all fords. Harbor police were twice called to catch boats which had slipped their Washington Channel moorings due to the high water. The northeast gale raging along the coast was felt at Chesapeake Beach and North Beach. At North Beach giant waves crumpled more than 100 feet of the sea wall.

HOOVER AND ROOSEVELT WILL JOIN IN EFFORTS TO ROUT DEPRESSION; PRESIDENT-ELECT MAY ANNOUNCE MAKEUP OF CABINET AT EARLY DATE

May Confer Soon To Arrange Policies.

G. O. P. Leaders Plan to Aid Harmony in Congress.

New York, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Franklin D. Roosevelt is likely to break another political precedent, his associates said tonight, by announcing the makeup of his Cabinet earlier than is customary.

Dozens of names have been suggested by those who guided his campaign to triumph, and even before the President-elect leaves for a vacation at Warm Springs, Ga., it is considered probable he will begin to weigh these possibilities.

It was disclosed at Democratic national headquarters that many of his advisers are counseling that he make public the names of at least some of those he will gather around him at Washington as soon as possible.

Tentative List Drawn Up.

Secretary of State—Owen D. Young, Newton D. Baker, Breckinridge Long, and Norman Davis.

Attorney General—Arthur Mullen, Felix Frankfurter and Senator Thomas J. Walsh.

Secretary of the Interior—George Dern.

Secretary of the Navy—Senator John S. Cohen, Clark Howell, sr., Albert C. Ritchie and Josephus Daniels.

Other names being advanced are those of Richard Washburn Child, former Ambassador to Italy, who headed the Republicans-for-Roosevelt League; Bruce Kremer, Montana national committeeman, who was active in the preconvention campaign; Robert Jackson, New Hampshire national committeeman, who headed the Roosevelt-Garner speakers' bureau; John W. Davis, 1924 Democratic presidential nominee and an active campaigner this year; Joseph P. Kennedy, Boston and New York financier, and Sumner Wells, a "career" diplomat.

There is also speculation as to whether any of the Republican insurgents who supported Roosevelt will be considered. Among them are

Roosevelt to Visit London, Paper Says

British Journal Reports He Is Anxious to Contact Foreign Leaders.

London (Thursday), Nov. 10 (U.P.).—The News-Chronicle today said that Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt intends, if possible, to visit London before his inauguration as President of the United States next March.

The News-Chronicle said the information had been gained by its New York representative, A. J. Cummings, in an interview with Roosevelt before the election. The newspaper quoted Roosevelt as saying:

"I am little acquainted with the statesmen of these later years, wherefore I am eager to contact personally the leading Englishmen, to discover something first hand of modern Britain and the new spirit of Europe."

OLD-FASHIONED BALL IS PLANNED MARCH 4

Advertising Club Informs Roosevelt and Urges His Indorsement.

"We Americans truly love a parade, and the inaugural ball was as traditional as the measures of the dance."

In such words, the Advertising Club of Washington yesterday asked President-elect Roosevelt to restore the lavish pomp of former days at his inaugural.

In pleading for an old-fashioned day of festival and celebration for next March 4, the club's telegram to Roosevelt requested that he neither exercise nor permit opposition to the plans of citizens for "good old American displays that were formerly the forerunners of prosperity."

The club's wire congratulated the victor and added:

"There has been a truly grand and glorious custom of inaugurating the President of the United States. It was formerly done on a scale befitting the office.

"It seems incongruous that American enthusiasm should be confined to a national partisan campaign and not vented on the accession to office of one who is to be the President of the United States.

"There has been a tendency in later years—and they were the lean ones, by the way—to make balls, parades and demonstrations taboo out of respect to the personal desires of the successful candidate.

"The wholehearted inauguration of the President of the United States offers an exceptional opportunity for citizens generally to come to the Nation's Capital and pay their respects to the newly elected President.

"What finer time could be had for

HOOVER TO RETURN TO PRIVATE ROUTINE

Enjoying Rest at Palo Alto; Says He Will Quit Public Life After March 4.

Palo Alto, Calif., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Herbert Hoover, private citizen and business man, was the ticket President Hoover wrote for himself today as of next March 4.

As the final straggling returns from yesterday's polls poured in, showing even more clearly the overwhelming victory of Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Chief Executive told newspaper correspondents quietly but with a smile, that after the inauguration of his opponent he would definitely leave public office and return to private life.

A half an hour after he arose this morning, following what he termed his "best night's sleep in years," Mr. Hoover received newspapermen in the spacious living room of his home.

Standing in front of a huge stone fireplace in the dimly lighted room, still decorated with some of the flowers of yesterday, he talked informally of his plans.

The Chief Executive reported the receipt of "a pleasant acknowledgment" from President-elect Roosevelt of his own telegram of last night, in which he declared that "in the common purpose of us all, I shall dedicate myself to every possible helpful effort."

"Literally thousands of telegrams have come to me last night and today," the President said, "all of them fine in their tenor. They especially express the determination of the Republican party to put in four years of constructive work."

The President said he intended

Election Betrayed Wish

Grover Cleveland Hoped Roosevelt Would Never Undergo Tribulations of Presidency When New Chief Executive Visited Him as Boy.

(EDITOR'S NOTE—Grover Cleveland made a wish for Franklin D. Roosevelt when the latter was 5 years old, a wish that the American people have snowed under with an avalanche of ballots—the hope that young Roosevelt would never be President. Here is the first of a series of six articles, revealing many interesting facts about the President-elect.

By GARDNER BRIDGE.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

New York, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Franklin D. Roosevelt stood in the White House study when he was five years old and heard President Cleveland say:

"I'm making a strange wish for you, little man. I hope you will never be President of the United States."

That was President-elect Roosevelt's first experience in the White House, and he still remembers it. At the time, however, the incident had little meaning to the boy; he could not comprehend the anxieties that inspired Grover Cleveland's words, nor could he perceive the unremitting toil that lay behind the weariness in Cleveland's eyes as he stroked the boy's blond head.

The country then, as now, was in the stress of economic adversity and Cleveland was tired, mentally and physically.

The boy, who has grown up to become the thirty-second President of the United States, stood quietly in his sailor suit, blue eyes turned upon the President's haggard face, and said nothing. Soon his father, who was a close friend of Cleveland and who had brought young Franklin with him on a visit to the Nation's Capital, took up the thread of the conversation and the episode fades from Franklin D.'s memory.

Now, almost a half century later, students of history see a curious

Governor Is Likely To Set Political Precedent.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

With late returns still swelling the tide of Democratic victory in Tuesday's elections, leaders in both parties turned their attention yesterday to plans for organizing an era of effective political cooperation in national affairs until the reins of Government formally pass to the new administration on March 4.

On every hand responsible leaders acknowledged the vital necessity for maintaining the quickening pulse of business and avoiding every economic setback which might flow from hesitation or uncertainty regarding fundamental policies of the Federal Government.

So firmly had this idea taken hold last night that responsible members of both parties were discussing frankly the possibility of an early meeting between President Hoover and President-elect Roosevelt, with a view to arranging a shock-proof period of transition during the next four months.

State Department Plans.

Confirming these informal discussions, high officials of the Department of State acknowledged yesterday that no important foreign problem would be advanced beyond its present stage in conflict with any revealed prospective policy of Gov. Roosevelt.

President Hoover probably will return to Washington early next week, in the opinion of his close advisers here. It also is regarded as likely that Gov. Roosevelt, who soon will be en route to Warm Springs, Ga., for a rest, may stop in Washington for a conference with the President.

The anticipated nonpartisan working agreement would apply most directly to foreign affairs, for it is in this field that many vital problems now are awaiting decision and action, among them the Geneva disarmament discussions and the world economic conference. A clearly defined and continuing American policy in these important matters could be achieved only by some measure of cooperation between the outgoing and incoming administrations.

Action on Domestic Issues.

To a lesser degree, the same principle is held to apply to a half dozen or more major domestic questions slated for attention in the December session of Congress, among them taxation, Federal reorganization and prohibition.

President Hoover is widely regarded as having suggested such a method of inter-party cooperation in his message congratulating Gov. Roosevelt upon his election.

"In the common purpose of all of us," Mr. Hoover wired from Palo Alto, "I shall dedicate myself to every possible helpful effort."

SHORT SESSION VOTE ON BEER IS QUESTION

(Associated Press.)

Out of a maze of conjecture born of Tuesday's great Democratic victory emerged into new prominence yesterday the question: Will December's session of Congress vote beer?

From wets, encouraged by the success of a national ticket committed to modification of the Volstead act, came a confident "yes." It was supported by predictions of beer legislation from Speaker John N. Garner, Vice President-elect, and Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania, Republican stalwart, while Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, the Senate's Democratic leader, added that he saw "no reason" why the short session should not consider a beer bill.

But the drys answered "no" just as emphatically. They cited quickly the sizable majorities by which this same Congress refused beer last session—two to one in the Senate and 228 to 169 in the House. To maintain this alignment they plan an intensive campaign against dry-law changes, reaching directly to each senator and representative regardless of party label.

Lame Ducks "on Spot."

But more than all else, the wets rested hopes of immediate beer legislation upon a belief that "lame duck" members of the Seventy-second Congress will be influenced vitally by the voting sentiment registered in electing Franklin D. Roosevelt and a Democratic Congress. Based on preelection classifications of candidates by wet organizations, returns showed antiprohibition sentiment in the next Congress mounting rapidly to a point where a majority of both the House and Senate favored either repeal or submission of such action to the people.

These antiprohibition groups also counted heavily on the pressure for beer as a means of raising revenue to balance the Federal budget. Still unanswered, however, was the question whether President Hoover would sign or veto such a measure.

Senator Robinson included in his statement the possibilities of considering at the short session repeal or amendment of the eighteenth amendment. This would require a two-thirds majority, while a simple majority would suffice to change the Volstead law.

Pickett Denies Wet Victory.

Senator Pat Harrison, Democratic whip in the Senate, has said the Democrats would take immediate steps in the December session of Congress to modify the Volstead law to permit manufacture and sale of beer within constitutional limitations.

Deets Pickett, of the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the Methodist Episcopal Church, said in a statement yesterday that Roosevelt's election "is in no sense a wet victory." He added:

"The acceptance speech of Mr. Hoover had eliminated the prohibition issue from the campaign as a clear-cut issue. * * * Those believing that prohibition is the best method of dealing with the liquor traffic can and will win any national election in the United States when the people are not deprived of an opportunity for choice."

Daniel A. Poling, chairman of the Allied Forces for Prohibition, extended best wishes to Roosevelt, but reserved a statement on prohibition until next week.

Sees Dry Rout.

Rufus S. Lusk, legislative spokesman of the Crusaders, an antiprohibition organization, said:

"It's a wet landslide, an Antisaloon League rout. The prohibition issue was clean-cut between the two candidates * * * the lame duck session of Congress should certainly follow the mandate of the people and pass a beer bill before March; it means a quarter of a billion dollars in needed revenue for a sorely pressed Treasury."

Mrs. William Beverley Mason, chairman of the national legislative division of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, commented:

Mrs. Mason said the women voters had "a large share in this notable victory," and added, "no man or woman elected to the seventy-third Congress can conscientiously be evasive in acting on repeal legislation."

Only 15 States Free.

Organized drys contend that few States could take advantage of an act legalizing beer and that therefore the argument that such a law immediately would produce large revenues falls flat.

They pointed out before the election that only six States—Maryland, Massachusetts, New York, Montana, Nevada and Wisconsin—were without statutory or State constitutional restriction on liquor production.

In Tuesday's election, however, nine more States, on the basis of latest returns, voted repeal of their constitutional bone-dry laws or State enforcement acts.

These were Louisiana, Michigan, New Jersey, California, Washington, Oregon, Colorado, Arizona and North Dakota.

In Connecticut the voters carried by 7 to 1 a proposal to petition Congress to propose prohibition repeal to the States, while Wyoming balloters went on record for repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Shouse Predicts Early Repeal of Prohibition

(Associated Press.)

Jouett Shouse, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, in a statement issued yesterday, said Tuesday's balloting represented an "overwhelming victory for repeal of the eighteenth amendment."

Reports so far received from referenda in eleven States bearing on prohibition questions "indicate a definite trend toward repeal," he asserted.

"The verdict of the voters in outstanding senatorial and congressional races, where the issue of repeal was clearly drawn, appears to have been almost as sweeping and general as in the case of State referenda," the statement said.

"Such prominent members of the Senate as Smoot of Utah, Watson of Indiana, Moses of New Hampshire and Jones of Washington, author of the obnoxious 'five and ten' law, have been discarded."

HOOVER WILL COOPERATE WITH ROOSEVELT POLICIES

day. Gov. Roosevelt telegraphed the President from New York City:

"I appreciate your generous telegram for the immediate as well as for the more distant future. I join in your gracious expression of a common purpose in helpful effort for our country."

The cordial basis for discussions established by this exchange was widely interpreted in business and financial circles yesterday as a happy omen for a quick end of "depression politics" both in and out of Congress.

War on Depression.

On the Republican side, a similar note was sounded by Senator Charles L. McNary, of Oregon, assistant Republican leader in the last session and prospective minority leader in the next Congress.

"We feel that the big thing now is to get this depression over with," Senator McNary said. "To that end, the Republicans will give the Democrats as much support as they expect from members of their own party."

Asked if he spoke for the Republican party or merely as an individual, Senator McNary said he interpreted party opinion generally as disposed to whole-hearted cooperation to maintain the notable business advances registered since mid-July.

On the basis of returns last night from more than two-thirds of the country's 120,000 voting precincts, the Roosevelt-Garner ticket was swept into power by the greatest electoral majority in American history.

A total of 472 electoral votes from 42 States represented the Democratic national victory, against 59 votes for President Hoover and Vice President Curtis, from Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Connecticut, Delaware and Pennsylvania.

As computed from these returns, the final Democratic majority in the popular vote was placed a little above 7,000,000.

Big Majority in New York.

Associated Press returns from 87,379 precincts out of 119,714 in the country, many complete, gave Roosevelt 17,248,872 and Hoover 12,588,841.

It was estimated by party managers that approximately 10,000,000 presidential ballots were yet to be tabulated in some 40 States.

Virtually complete returns from New York State placed the Roosevelt majority there at 800,000 votes, approximately 680,000 of the Democratic advantage having been gained in the Tammany strongholds of the metropolitan area.

Herbert H. Lehman was swept into the governorship to succeed Mr. Roosevelt on January 1 by a margin on 815,000 over Col. William J. Donovan, his Republican opponent.

Senator Robert F. Wagner, Democrat, was victorious over former District Attorney George Z. Medalie by approximately 900,000 votes.

Pennsylvania remained in the Republican presidential column by a margin of only 125,000 votes, which compares with a Hoover majority of 990,000 in 1928. Senator James J. Davis was reelected by about 125,000 plurality in a total vote of close to 2,000,000. Lawrence C. Rupp was his Democratic opponent.

Senate Majority Assured.

In the Senatorial elections, the Democrats recaptured every one of their own seats at stake and replaced Republicans in California, Washington, Nevada, Utah, Idaho, Colorado, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, Connecticut and New Hampshire. Senators Watson, Smoot, Moses, Bingham, Glenn, Jones and Oddie were notable among Tuesday's casualties. A clear majority of thirteen members for the organization of the Senate in the next Congress was thus assured the Democrats.

With 60 House seats still undetermined, the Democrats had elected 275 members, against 100 on the Republican side for the Seventy-third Congress. After a hasty survey of the outstanding districts late last night, Democratic managers forecast a working majority of at least 75 members in the first Roosevelt Congress.

In 34 gubernatorial races, Democrats were victorious in 24, while the Republicans were successful only in Delaware, Vermont, New Hampshire, Kansas and North Dakota.

In five contests still undecided, last night Democrats were leading in Iowa, Nebraska Montana and Wyoming. The thirty-fourth contest was decided in favor of Floyd B. Olson, a Farmer-Laborite, in Minnesota. Republican governors were replaced by Democrats in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Missouri, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Washington, West Virginia and Wisconsin. This list of nine turnovers would be increased to 11 by final Democratic victories in Iowa and Wyoming, which appeared assured last night.

As the full sweep of Tuesday's ballot-box revolution became apparent yesterday, President-elect Roosevelt publicly characterized the vote as one transcending party lines and appealed for the patriotic cooperation of all citizens for the national advancement. Seldom in history has the feverish temper of a vigorously contested presidential campaign been so completely dissipated by the sobering thought of persisting burdens and oncoming responsibilities.

Complete returns from Maryland last night showed 316,412 votes for Roosevelt and 186,429 for Hoover. Senator Millard Tydings defeated Wallace Williams, Republican, by a vote of 292,100 to 138,804. Five Democratic members of the House were reelected and a sixth Democrat, Ambrose J. Kennedy, was elected to both the unexpired term and the full term of the late Representative Charles R. Linthicum, who died two months ago.

Virginia returned to the Democratic Solid South by giving Roosevelt a majority of 136,000 on final returns and sending a full slate of Democrats to the House.

Minnesota First Time.

Minnesota went Democratic in the presidential lists for the first time in history and Michigan was found in that company for the first time since the birth of the Republican party, before the Civil War.

Maine, which gave the first inkling on the oncoming avalanche by electing a Democratic governor last September, flopped back to her wonted berth in the Republican presidential column Tuesday, giving President Hoover a majority of 37,800 in her final returns. Only one county, Androscoggin, the home of Gov. Louis J. Brann, returned a Roosevelt majority. Roosevelt, however, polled 45,000 more votes than Al Smith captured in 1928, while the Hoover total was off 16,500 from four years ago.

Rhode Island went Democratic by 30,000 and turned out a Republican governor, Norman S. Case, by about the same margin. Theodore F. Green, a banker, was the Democratic victor, but the Republicans maintained a comfortable advantage in the State Senate.

Oklahoma Democratic.

Oklahoma sent a solid Democratic delegation to Congress for the first time in history. Gov. Roosevelt carried the State by a final margin of approximately 100,000, the largest in the State's history. Representative Milton C. Garber, the veteran Republican representative from the Eighth District, was defeated by Ernest W. Marland, one-time oil millionaire, by almost 10,000 votes in a normally Republican district. Former Gov. Jack Walton, impeached and ousted from office in 1925 after a sensational foray with the Ku Klux Klan a year before, was elected to the State Corporation Commission by 100,000 majority over his Republican opponent. Will Rogers, the unknown country school teacher with a famous name, rode the Democratic tide to a seat as representative at large.

Kansas provided one of the outstanding upsets of the entire election by rejecting a Democratic governor in favor of a Republican. The margin was so close, however, that the result was not finally revealed until late last night.

OLD-FASHIONED BALL IS PLANNED MARCH 4

the States to inform one another of their respective attractions? The Federal departments would be on dress parade. And citizens would be prouder than ever of their country.

"The Advertising Club of Washington asks that you exercise no individual opposition, nor permit it in your behalf, to the plans of citizens for an inaugural ball, a parade, exhibits and other good old American displays that were formerly the forerunners of prosperity."

John F. Costello, District Democratic national committeeman, and John P. Colpoys, Democratic State chairman of the District, are already making plans for an elaborate inaugural.

They are joined by Democrats from all sections of the country in their demands that Mr. Roosevelt celebrate his inauguration in the old-fashioned manner.

ENVOYS WIRE HOMES ON DEMOCRATIC AIM

Europeans Hoping Roosevelt Will Cancel or Slash War Debts.

(Associated Press.)

Speculation as to the foreign policy of the new Democratic administration caused European diplomats to scratch their heads for inspirations yesterday as they framed rush cablegrams to enlighten their respective governments on what to expect when President-elect Roosevelt takes office.

The views of the incoming administration on war debts and the limitation of armaments were matters which particularly interested the ambassadors and ministers in this country charged with the task of keeping their home chancelleries posted to the minute on questions of world importance.

Europe's fondest dream is for a change of policy on war debts—a change which, Europe hopes, might perhaps bring cancellation, or at least revision. Or if neither of these, then possibly more leniency than heretofore under three Republican administrations.

Congress Against Cancellation.

In the question of international debts the financial genius of the Democratic party will have plenty of opportunity to exert itself where its predecessors left off. It has not been lost sight of, however, that its platform and presidential candidate declared emphatically against cancellation.

To date the United States has insisted upon debt payments in full.

Congress has been opposed to either cancellation or further revision in view of the fact that the United States has already made considerable downward change in the funding agreements with European debtors.

Repeated intimations have reached Washington that attempts at concerted action on the part of European nations had been made designedly to bring about debt cancellation or drastic revision. These reports in the National Capital at first were considered nothing more than "feelers." But they persisted.

Then in July a letter was received by Senator Borah, chairman of the foreign relations committee, from the White House, in which President Hoover declared that the United States would not under any circumstances be influenced on the debt question by any united front of the nations on the other side of the Atlantic.

In his stand the President was backed up by Congress. At the time of his one-year debt moratorium, in 1931, a rider was attached to the resolution ratifying the agreement which flatly expressed the sense of both houses of Congress against further debt reduction.

Disarmament Problems.

Another European worry in which the United States has become vitally interested and with which the Roosevelt administration will have to contend is the question of limitation of armaments which has been agitating the minds of European statesmen for years.

The world disarmament conference at Geneva to be attended by American delegates is scheduled to reconvene early next year. It will consider as unfinished business from its last session ending in July the Hoover formula for an all-round one-third cut in armaments.

In the meanwhile both France and Japan have formulated arms limitation plans of their own, complicating considerably an already complex situation arising from lack of accord between the United States and Great Britain on battleship tonnage and Germany's refusal to participate unless her plea of equal rights in arms is considered.

There is every indication that the Geneva conference will continue functioning perhaps for months after March 4, which will permit the President-elect and his Cabinet ample opportunity to study the conference in action and make whatever suggestions or proposals they may see fit to offer.

Slemp, Losing Wager, To Ship Coal by Plane

A ton of coal will come flying through the air on a commercial plane on Friday morning to pay off the election bet of C. Bascom Slemp, secretary to Calvin Coolidge when President, with John F. Costello, Democratic committeeman from the District of Columbia.

The wager was made some months before the election. The coal is being shipped from the Camden Airport on an Eastern Air Transport plane and will be received with appropriate ceremony at the Washington Airport.

2 STATES APPROVE $50,000,000 RELIEF

(Associated Press.)

Fifty million dollars for unemployment relief in New York and New Jersey were among many State referenda approved in Tuesday's elections.

New York adopted a $30,000,000 bond issue to help the jobless, while her sister State overwhelmingly supported a proposal to transfer $20,000,000 from previously authorized highway bonds for use in providing jobs and other relief.

Louisiana voters approved an authorization of $5,000,000 in 6 per cent bonds to pay debts incurred by the State board of liquidation and Louisiana State University. They also approved proposed constitutional amendments authorizing the Cities of New Orleans and Shreveport to sell $750,000 and $900,000 in bonds, respectively, to purchase the Canal Street River Ferry System and to fund floating indebtedness.

A proposal to refund $25,000,000 to counties for road construction advances was approved in Georgia. Voters there also supported measures inaugurating the governor in January instead of June and making payment of a poll tax the sole tax qualification for voting.

Oklahoma voters rejected a proposed 10 cents a pound oleomargarine tax and a proposal to increase corporation income taxes and lower those on smaller incomes.

A measure providing for a State police system was defeated in Nebraska; Arkansas voters rejected amendments providing a 1 per cent sales tax and exempting homesteads from taxation.

Alabama voters apparently defeated proposals for a State income tax and a $20,000,000 bond issue to fund floating indebtedness.

Tennesseeans also turned down a measure to raise State legislators' pay from $4 to $10 a day.

Pennsylvania License Law Affects District

A letter received yesterday by Maj. Ernest W. Brown, superintendent of police, from M. O. Eldridge, acting director of traffic, stated that through the reciprocal agreement between the District and the State of Pennsylvania, the recently enacted law in that State requiring foreign vehicles operating on State roads for more than fifteen successive days to obtain a license, would apply to all Pennsylvania vehicles in this city.

All commercial vehicles, owned and operated by nonresidents of the State, with the exception of nonprofit haulers of agricultural products are affected by the statute. Maj. Brown pointed out that the law would apply here to Pennsylvania contractors who were working on Federal buildings.

ROOSEVELT INVITES AID IN RESTORATION

Thanks Voters for Support and Renews His Pledge to Nation.

New York, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—In his first message to the American people, thanking them for their support in yesterday's balloting, Franklin D. Roosevelt today invited their help "in the happy task of restoration."

The message was sent to the Nation from his study in the East Sixty-fifth street home of the President-elect which bore all the traces of the election night watching. Gathered around him were James A. Farley, the manager of his campaign, elated but with weariness plainly evident, and several members of his family.

Mr. Roosevelt said that "the vote of confidence" was one "that had more than party significance."

"It transcended party limits and became a national expression of liberal thought," he said.

Approval of Plan.

"It means that I am sure that the masses of the people of this Nation firmly believe that there is great and actual possibility of an orderly recovery through a well-conceived and actively directed plan of action. Such a plan has been presented to you and you have expressed approval.

"This, my friends, is most reassuring. It shows that there is in this country unbounded confidence in the future of sound agriculture and honorable industry. This clear mandate shall not be forgotten.

"I pledge you this and I invite your help in the happy task of restoration."

In the first press conference since his election was definitely disclosed, Mr. Roosevelt received two score correspondents in his study. He was sitting at a small table, littered with papers, and his daughter, Anna, was leaning over her father, whispering in his ear when the group entered. Beyond Mr. Roosevelt sat Farley and M. H. McIntyre, who has served as business representative for the President-elect on his campaign trips.

Mr. Roosevelt smiled broadly in greeting the correspondents and shook hands warmly with those who had been associated with him on the various campaign trips.

He discussed his plans for the immediate future and said there had been received several thousand congratulatory telegrams during the day and last night.

"How do you feel, Governor?" he was asked, after he had refused to allow himself to be called "Mr. President."

"Fine. I didn't get to sleep last night until after 3 o'clock, though. Jim Farley and several others came in and talked with me."

"Would you call that a drawing room cabinet meeting?"

"That's all right, just as long as you don't call it a kitchen cabinet."

"When are you going to resign, governor?" another asked.

"I'm not going to resign as governor. I have never had any thought of resigning."

Drives to Albany.

The President-elect left his Sixty-fifth street home shortly after 3 o'clock for the drive over storm-swept roads to his home at Hyde Park for supper before continuing on up the river to Albany.

Earlier in the day he had talked with Senator Byrn, of South Carolina; Raymond Moley, a Columbia University professor, and Col. E. M. House. Byrn and Moley were associated with Mr. Roosevelt during the campaign. House was a confidential adviser to President Wilson.

Mr. Roosevelt expects to remain in Albany until Friday and return to Hyde Park for the week-end. He will go to Warm Springs, Ga., to spend Thanksgiving and stay there about a week. Before and immediately after his Warm Springs visit he will work on the State budget.

Farley Sees Revival Soon; Sanders Pledges G. O. P. Aid

Republicans Will Fight Legislation Seen as Unsound.

Chicago, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—The duties of the Republican party—now the minority—during the coming administration, were outlined tonight by Everett Sanders, chairman of the Republican national committee.

In a speech Sanders challenged the victorious Democrats to redeem campaign promises after inauguration and assured them his party would not "pettyfog," but would "support any Democratic legislation which is sound in principle and practical in application."

"This has been the unvarying history of the Republican party when it was in the minority," Sanders said. "The record clearly shows it has never played partisan politics at the expense of the country or contrary to the welfare of the American people."

He warned, however, that "the Republican minority will fight to the last ditch any proposal from any source which it believes unsound economically, unwise politically or inimical to the best interests of the Nation and the people."

Sanders predicted that during the next administration the Republican minority "will be the only coherent, constructive force at work," and that it would become the "nucleus around which the constructive influences of the Nation will rally in order to get something done in behalf of the people."

Already, he said, evidences of internal discord had arisen within the Democratic party.

He quoted an editorial written by former Gov. Alfred E. Smith in the magazine, The New Outlook, as indicating that the burden of constructive action would rest upon the Republican minority during the next administration.

The part he quoted was:

"The real question is, What will the Democratic party do with its victory? With some of the elements and forces in the party I am completely out of sympathy because I believe they are inimical to the best interests of the country. In my opinion, the Democratic party must purge itself of these influences if it is to serve the Nation in this crisis.'

"There is the very real assurance of a very deadly fight for supremacy within the ranks of the Democratic party," Sanders concluded.

Chairman of Democrats Avers Roosevelt Is Not "Mortgaged."

New York, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Declaring that "no man or set of men has a mortgage" on Franklin D. Roosevelt, National Democratic Chairman James A. Farley expressed a belief tonight that "the dawn of happier days will not be long delayed."

"It is one of the blessings of the present situation," Farley said, "that the governor becomes the President without any commitments of any kind. I mean this literally. No man or set of men has a mortgage on him or on his opinions, or on his acts, no bargains were attached either to his nomination or to his election.

"He is his own man and therefore free to shape his government both as to policies and personnel, unhampered by obligations except obligations to the welfare of the whole body of his fellow countrymen; untied except by the ties that bind a conscientious statesman to do his full duty by the people who have placed their trust in him."

Farley said he supposed his listeners would like to have him name off the prospective members of Roosevelt's Cabinet, but that he doubted if there is anybody in the country "who is not as able to guess the identities of the Cabinet as I am."

"Perhaps the governor has canvassed certain names in the few moments that were his own since he was nominated at Chicago last July," Farley said. "If he has, he has kept his own counsel. At least he has never revealed these names to me."

The party chairman added, however, that he was sure from his knowledge of and familiarity with Roosevelt, that the latter "will gather around him as his advisers and his deputies in directing the great departments of the Government the very best he can command to those services."

"Because I know him well," Farley said, "I can promise the people of the United States that the administration will be wise, just, and will be devoted to the interests of the people and to none other.

"Our new President can not be partisan in his conduct of national affairs, first because his sense of duty will not permit it, and second because he must realize that he is President of all the people and not merely the President of the Democrats."

4 WESTERN STATES REPEAL DRY LAWS

Arizona, Oregon, California and Washington Pile Up Big Wet Votes.

San Francisco, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Unless there is an upset in results between now and the final canvassing of the votes, Arizona, California, Washington and Oregon will be without State prohibition laws in a few weeks.

The deluge of votes favoring repeal of the California dry law led Gov. James Rolph, jr., to announce he would ask legal advice as to the status of some 300 State prison convicts serving terms for violation of that statute. It was understood the governor's query included the question of "amnesty."

Repeal of the California antiliquor law will leave the State without enforcement measures, State officials said, adding that the repealer would become effective five days after official certification of the vote, which probably will be about December 17.

Victory for repealists in Oregon would leave the State without enforcement machinery for a "bone dry" constitutional amendment prohibiting manufacture, sale and importation of liquor for beverage purposes.

The Washington repeal measure wipes out all enforcement law except one making it a felony to sell liquor to minors, effective December 8.

Arizona will be left with only Federal prohibition enforcement as a result of the repeal of prohibition laws there. The governor must issue a proclamation validating the repeal. This is usually done about 30 days after an election.

Lieutenant Governor Is Bandsman.

Seattle, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Washington State's new Democratic lieutenant governor, who directs a jazz band, declared today: "If people think I am going to be a gag man in the senate, they are wrong." The lieutenant governor is Victor Meyers.

U. S. FARM SESSION LIKELY NEXT SPRING

Agricultural Aid Is Expected to Head Roosevelt's First Presidential Moves.

(Associated Press)

Franklin D. Roosevelt's first presidential move toward aiding America's 32,000,000 farm population is expected to be the convocation of a national agricultural conference.

He told his campaign audience at Topeka, Kans., that he would try to compose conflicting elements of the various farm relief plans, and coordinate efforts to the end that agreement may be reached on policy.

Primarily, Mr. Roosevelt has said, he wishes to give that portion of crops consumed in the United States a benefit equivalent to a tariff sufficient to produce an adequate price, and that he intends to attack the disparity between the prices of what the farmer sells and what he buys by stimulating international trade through tariff readjustments.

Leaning Toward Allotment

Some have read into the Roosevelt speeches a leaning toward the allotment plan by which an amount equal to the tariff would be added to the world price on that part of a surplus commodity consumed in this country.

He made it plain that whatever the plan, it must finance itself, make use of existing agencies, operate as nearly as possible on a cooperative basis, must not be coercive and must not employ any mechanism which would cause European customers to retaliate on the ground of dumping.

Mr. Roosevelt made it a point that whatever scheme the farmers work out for themselves with governmental cooperation to keep their surpluses from destroying them, it must have safeguards against overproduction and should be retired in direct ratio to any improvement in world prices.

Sympathetic Understanding.

President Edward A. O'Neal of the American Farm Bureau Federation, said after conferring with Mr. Roosevelt that the next President had "shown a very sympathetic understanding of the whole farm problem" and that his organization liked the idea of the farm conference.

In his Baltimore address Mr. Roosevelt characterized charges that he planned to destroy farm tariffs as "silly." But throughout his campaign he emphasized what he considered the present ineffectiveness of farm tariffs. Despite a tariff of 42 cents a bushel on wheat the top contract grade sold for 20 cents on western Nebraska farms early this month, corn sold at Iowa country elevators at 17 cents, although the tariff was 25 cents.

The Democratic tariff policy, Roosevelt has said, will consist in large measure of negotiating agreements with individual countries permitting them to sell goods to us in return for which they will let us sell them the goods and crops which we produce.

Will Rogers' Namesake Elected to House Seat

Oklahoma City, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—"I've been Will Rogers for years," retorted the mild country schoolmaster when his foes asserted he swamped opponents for Congress at large on the strength of the Oklahoma humorist's name and fame. "I was named Willie, but that's a girl's name, and I decided to use Will."

And even though the unfriendly still contend he's Willie C. Rogers, there's no doubt about the enormous majority a Democratic-minded State gave the little teacher Tuesday.

Platform of Democrats As Indorsed by Roosevelt

(By the Associated Press.)

These are the policies of the Democratic party, as expressed in its platform, which President-elect Roosevelt proclaimed he accepted "100 per cent."

Drastic reduction in Federal expenditures, a balanced budget, sound currency. Competitive tariff for revenue.

Restoration of agriculture; control of crop surpluses.

Removing the Government from "all fields of private enterprise," except to develop public works in the common interest.

For veterans "* * * full measure of justice and generosity * * *" for those suffering from disabilities incurred in service.

"Conservation, development, and use of the Nation's water power in the public interest."

"Regulation to the full extent of Federal power of (a) holding companies which sell securities in interstate commerce; (b) rates of utility companies operating across State lines; (c) exchanges in securities and commodities."

VETERANS ADVISED TO STAY AT HOMES

Atwell Urges Bonus Army to Give Gov. Roosevelt Chance to Act.

(United Press.)

Edward F. Atwell, chief of staff of the bonus expeditionary forces, appealed yesterday to veterans to stay out of Washington when Congress convenes next month, and "give Mr. Roosevelt a chance."

He asked veterans to cooperate in giving President-elect Roosevelt "the whole-hearted support of every American in his endeavors to bring back prosperity."

"There is a march starting on Washington November 11," Atwell said, "and national headquarters of the B. E. F. advise and request all veterans not to participate. The people of the United States by an overwhelming vote have given our new commander in chief, President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt, their assurance that he is the man who will solve America's difficulties. It is now up to the people to be good sports and stand by that vote of confidence and give Mr. Roosevelt a chance.

"The presence of any large aggregation of men in the National Capital will only serve to confuse the issues without accomplishing anything constructive. Regardless of any propaganda to the contrary nothing can be accomplished by a march on Washington. The overwhelming vote of yesterday would seem to indicate the people have been given back their United States."

Veterans Protest Hurley's Address

Beehan Says Hoover Defeat Was Great Boon to World War Men.

The defeat of President Hoover at the polls Tuesday was described as a great victory for veterans because of his "ruthless and heartless eviction" of the bonus army in a statement issued last night by Martin A. Beehan, executive secretary of the War Veterans Democratic Club of the District.

It was also stated that the club had filed a protest regarding the appearance of Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley as the principal speaker at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier on Armistice Day.

"The veterans feel that if Secretary Hurley participates in the service it will be the height of effrontery and an insult to the patriotism and ideals of the men who took up arms in defense of their country," the protest read.

DEMOCRATS EXPECT TO SWEEP KENTUCKY

Republicans May Lose All House Seats First Time Since Civil War.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Kentucky appeared headed tonight toward 100 per cent Democratic representation in Congress for the first time since the war between the States.

The overwhelming turn toward Franklin D. Roosevelt that swept the Nation, continued in Kentucky as tabulation of its ballots went forward and early indications were that U. S. Senator Alben W. Barkley, Democratic incumbent, and all nine Democratic candidates for Congress would win by approximately the same majorities that Roosevelt was amassing. Senator M. M. Logan who holds over, also is a Democrat.

Returns from 1,036 of the State's 4,184 precincts gave Roosevelt 147,396 votes to 93,524 for President Hoover. In the Senate race returns from 889 precincts gave Barkley 128,751 and Representative Maurice H. Thatcher, his Republican opponent, 85,388.

The congressional races were from the State at large for the first time, due to Federal Court having thrown out the redistricting act and there being insufficient time for the U. S. Supreme Court to pass upon the decision.

In the congressional races the nine Democrats, on returns from 520 precincts, ranged from 78,158 for Virgil Chapman to 76,936 for A. J. May, while the biggest Republican, George Ellison, had 44,954 and B. T. Rountree, the low man, had 44,727.

James H. Richmond, Democratic State campaign chairman, telegraphed James A. Farley today that Roosevelt would carry Kentucky by not less than 125,000, and the Louisville Times, independent, which supported Roosevelt, estimated the Democratic plurality would be around 150,000.

Senator Barkley, keynoter at the Democratic national convention, if elected, would be the first Kentuckey senator to succeed himself in more than 30 years.

McAdoo Urges Voters To Drop Partisanship

Los Angeles, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Acknowledging the large plurality given him in his election to the United States Senate, William Gibbs McAdoo today urged California voters not to consider the Democratic victory as "partisan."

It was, he said, "an expression of the deep yearning of the masses of the people for a restoration of sound and just economic conditions, under which the problem of unemployment will quickly disappear and prosperity again be brought to the homes of the farmers and the working classes and all others who have suffered as a result of the calamitous depression."

Dry Women Doubt Beer Bill's Success

Mrs. Boole Says President Would Never Sign if One Was Passed.

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—The National W. C. T. U. asserted today that the next Congress would lack the "wet" strength to adopt a prohibition repeal resolution and that legalized beer was unlikely to come from the present Congress.

Mrs. Ella A. Boole, national president of the Temperance Union, issued the statement after persuing the general election results.

"The next House," she said, "may be wet enough to pass a beer bill; the next Senate may appear wet but there is no promise it will join the House wets in nullifying the Constitution. At all events, there is not enough wet strength in the next Congress to pass a repeal resolution, requiring two-thirds of each branch. We do not feel that the present Congress will enact a law legalizing beer; nor that President Hoover would sign such a bill, even if passed."

DEMOCRATIC LEADS IN WEST INCREASED

Colorado Repeals State's Dry Law; Miller Ahead for Wyoming Governor.

Denver, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Down the slopes of the Rockies the Democratic avalanche rolled with accumulating force today as the count of ballots cast in yesterday's election progressed.

Increased totals came from each of the four States which decided definitely in favor of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt for President and, with a few exceptions, the Democratic candidates on the State tickets.

A few close contests included a short term for the Colorado United States senatorship to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the Republican senator, Charles W. Waterman.

Alva B. Adams, former United States senator and nephew of Colorado's governor, increased his lead over his Republican opponent, Karl C. Schuyler, for the six-year term. Schuyler held a lead over Walter Walker (Democrat), Grand Junction, Colo., newspaper publisher, for the short term.

Repeal Amendment Balked.

Colorado voters approved a constitutional amendment to repeal the States 18-year-old bone-dry law June 30, 1933.

Two income tax measures on the Colorado ballot were snowed under, as were a proposal to reduce the State gasoline tax from 4 to 3 cents, a proposed tax on oleomargarine, and a measure to increase terms of county officers from two to four years. A measure to reapportion legislative representation in the State carried.

Dennis Chavez, Democrat, representative at large of New Mexico, and Gov. Arthur Seligman, were reelected by safe leads. All Democratic candidates were elected in New Mexico.

Johnson Is Winner.

Lieut. Gov. Edwin C. Johnson, Democrat, who was private secretary to Gov. W. H. Adams, will step into the office of his chief next January when Adams quits voluntarily after six years. Johnson defeated James D. Parriott, Republican, Denver City attorney.

Leslie A. Miller, Democrat, who nearly became Governor of Wyoming in 1930, when he was defeated by Frank C. Emerson, Republican, by a narrow margin, took a lead over Harry R. Weston, Republican State treasurer, in a race to fill the unexpired four-year term of Emerson, who died in office.

A. M. Clark, who became acting governor, will return to the office of secretary of State, which he continued to hold while acting as governor. Weston defeated Clark in the primary.

Gov. John E. Erickson (Democrat), Montana, was in a close race for reelection, with Frank A. Hazelbaker, Republican lieutenant governor. With 713 precincts of 1,443 tabulated: Erickson, 52,555; Hazelbaker, 52,332.

Miss Ireland Reelected.

Miss Elizabeth Ireland, Montana State superintendent of public instruction, was the only Republican to survive the Democratic sweep in her State.

Representative William R. Eaton, Republican incumbent, of the Colorado First District, was nosed out by Lawrence Lewis, Denver attorney, who was defeated by Eaton two years ago. In the Second District Fred Cummings, Democrat, president of the National Beet Growers Association, was leading George H. Bradfield, Republican. Guy U. Hardy, Republican incumbent, was running behind John A. Martin, former representative in the Third District. In the Fourth District Edward T. Taylor, Democrat, was safely elected over Richard C. A. Callen, Republican, former United States marshal.

Ogden Mills Wires His Congratulations

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Mills yesterday extended his congratulations to President-elect Roosevelt and his running mate, John Nance Garner. In a formal statement the Secretary said the "American people have decided they desire a change in administration."

"It is now the duty of all of us to be helpful wherever we can to the new administration in meeting the difficult problems that lie ahead and in promoting the common wealfare," he said: "I congratulate Gov. Roosevelt and Speaker Garner on the country's vote of confidence."

(Associated Press.)

Senator White (Republican), Maine, in a statement last night discussing election results, said: "There will be new applications of Republican party principles to the shifting economic and social life of the Nation. If our party principles are so adapted, they will vindicate themselves and attract and hold to their support the people of the Nation."

Expressing disappointment, but not surprise, at the results of the election he said, "it is inevitable there shall come a healing of world troubles, and an improvement in business and agriculture in this country."

Dolly Gann Disappointed But Had Wonderful Time

Curtis' Sister Finds Campaign Was Marvelous and Says She Will Be Ready If Republicans Need Her Four Years Hence.

(Associated Press.)

She had been left to "hold down the fort" for the official set after the exodus of voters to their homes.

"Of course, I'm sorry Mr. Hoover lost," she said yesterday, "but I've had a wonderful time—wonderful! I wouldn't have missed the experiences of the campaign for anything. I like people, you know."

Three hours' sleep night sufficed to bring her up, exuberant as ever, to answer the two phones that kept up a constant jangle in her apartment.

"I really didn't think we'd lose. But now it's over, it's finished for me. I never go over things past. Today I start a new slate."

"What kind of 'new slate?'" her friends asked.

"I've had suggestions that I run for office," she said, "but what office? That remains to be seen. Politics make my life. But I like to live in Washington. Right now I've got a desk simply loaded with unopened mail. I'll clear that first."

Breakfast time came and went for Mrs. Gann without so much as a cup of coffee. The phones were ringing too insistently. Finally, in self-defense, she left for the market to do the day's shopping.

She isn't averse to the prospect of another energetic campaign four years hence. "If the Republican party needs" her, she'll be ready.

"Why, one day in Kansas I made six speeches," she recounts. "I was worried about Topeka. That's home, and I thought nobody would be out. But they were, bands, torchlights and all.

Election Bet Winners Paid With Pranks

After the election inevitably come those election wagers whose payment require farcical acts and indignities.

The first of such in Washington was paid yesterday. Early risers could have seen a young man riding through downtown streets in an express car propelled by an attractive young woman.

That's one, and the first. Others undoubtedly will follow, requiring peanut pushing, wheelbarrow riding, and the other stunts exacted for bad prognostications.

RECORD DEMOCRATIC VOTE NOTED IN DIXIE

Two House Members From Tennessee Only Southern Republicans Left.

Atlanta, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Kentucky today came into line with the other States of the South which went on to pile up unprecedented majorities for the next President of the United States.

The blue grass State under a State law had to delay the start of its ballot count until this morning. From the first it showed a two-to-one trend for Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Senator Alben W. Barkley, keynoter of the Democratic national convention and well known throughout the South, had a ratio proportionate to Gov. Roosevelt in the figures tabulated in the Kentucky senatorial race. His Republican opponent is Representative Maurice H. Thatcher.

The Democratic sweep in the South left only two Republican members of Congress, B. Carroll Reece, of the First Tennessee District, and J. Will Taylor, of the Second District in that State. These two districts have long been Republican.

Carolina Dry Loses.

Virginia, North Carolina, Florida and Tennessee, which were carried by President Hoover in 1928, returned to the Democratic ranks yesterday with tremendous majorities for Roosevelt.

Robert R. Reynolds, Democratic senatorial nominee, won by an overwhelming majority in North Carolina over J. F. Newell, Republican. Reynolds in the Democratic primary defeated Senator Cameron Morrison by a 107,000 majority on a platform advocating immediate repeal of the prohibition act. Newell was for the retention of the eighteenth amendment. Reynolds' ratio over Newell was more than 2½ to 1. The State gave an even greater ratio to John C. R. Ehringhaus, Democratic nominee for governor.

Roosevelt's majority in Florida neared the 100,000 mark, compared with the approximate 43,000 majority by which it went for Hoover in 1928. W. J. Howey, Republican, was defeated for governor by Dave Sholtz, the vote showing a ratio of approximately 2 to 1 for the Democrats.

Georgia Record Broken.

The vote in Virginia for Roosevelt was more than two to one over President Hoover, and the entire Democratic slate of congressional candidates was elected by a big majority. Virginia in 1928 gave Hoover a majority of approximately 24,000.

Hill McAlister (Democrat) won a three-cornered race for the governorship in Tennessee. His opponents were John E. McAll (Republican) and Lewis S. Pope (Independent Democrat).

Arkansas returned her woman senator, Mrs. Hattie W. Caraway, for a term of six years and piled up a great majority for the entire Democratic ticket.

There were two sets of Republican congressional tickets in Mississippi against the Democrats, but the Republicans were buried under the usual avalanche of Democratic votes in that State.

South Carolina, Alabama, Louisiana and Georgia boosted their Democratic majorities. Georgia broke an all-time record for a presidential election by the tremendous vote she gave Gov. Roosevelt.

Single Term of Six Years Advocated

(Associated Press.)

Election echoes still booming, Daniel C. Roper, internal revenue collector under President Wilson, in a statement yesterday advocated a six-year single term for Presidents.

"A study of the campaign will impress many lessons," he said. "One of the most important in my opinion is the necessity of providing against undue personal participation in campaigns on the part of the President which inevitably reflect upon the dignity of the office."

This, he concluded, could "best be safeguarded" by a single term of six years, moving the election date up a month and changing the inauguration from March 4 to the first Monday in December.

EASTERN SEABOARD SENTIMENT DIVIDED

Six of Eleven States in Atlantic Zone Stayed in Hoover Ranks.

New York, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Despite the Roosevelt triumph, Republicans and Democrats alike could find bright spots tonight by looking to the East, where several close election fights were being decided by the counting of the last ballots.

The situation in the eleven seaboard States stood:

One Republican senator, James J. Davis, Pennsylvania, and one Democratic senator, Robert F. Wagner, New York, won reelection.

Two Republican senators, George Moses, New Hampshire, and Hiram Bingham, Connecticut, were displaced by Democrats.

In the New Jersey senatorial fight, Senator W. Warren Barbour, Republican, conceded the election of his Democratic opponent, Representative Percy H. Stewart, and then saw his own total top Stewart's. The margin was so slight, however, that a recount may be necessary to settle the outcome finally.

In six States—New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Delaware, West Virginia and Massachusetts — the Democrats increased their number of seats in the House.

Three Republican governors — in Delaware, New Hampshire and Vermont—won reelection, as did the Democratic governor of Connecticut.

In New York a Democrat, Herbert H. Lehman, was elected to succeed a Democrat, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

With incumbent governors, the tally in the eleven States now is six Democrats and five Republicans.

Hoover—Connecticut, by about 6,500; Delaware, by 3,252; Vermont, by 22,914; New Hampshire, by 1,634; Pennsylvania, by about 160,000; Maine, by 37,598.

Roosevelt—New York, by about 600,000; New Jersey, by 37,314; Massachusetts, by 62,372; Rhode Island, by 31,533; West Virginia, by about 20,000.

In New York State, with only 40 of the 8,837 districts missing, Hoover had piled up an advantage of more than 262,000 outside the metropolitan area, which cut heavily into the New York City plurality of 862,000 given to Roosevelt.

In Maine, only one county went for Roosevelt, but the Hoover total was 16,000 less than in 1928.

One of the last fights to be decided was that of Representative Carl G. Bachmann, Republican whip of the House, and Robert L. Ramsay, Democrat. Ramsay's 3,000-vote victory gave West Virginia a solid front of six Democratic representatives.

Democratic Campaign Deficit Is $200,000

New York, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, said today that as soon as the "loose ends of the campaign are cleaned up" the committee will make an appeal for additional funds to wipe out the party deficit.

Although Farley did not disclose the amount of the deficit, it was understood that the intensive campaign of the last week had run the cost up beyond the amount which had been set and resulted in a deficit of some $200,000.

Gov. Hunt of Arizona In Critical Condition

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—While Arizona delivered its public offices to Democracy, that party's veteran campaigner, Gov. George P. Hunt, was in a critical condition in a hospital here today suffering from pneumonia and heart trouble.

The 72-year-old seven-times governor of the Baby State of the Union, was taken to a hospital last night as Arizona completed its casting of ballots for only the third time in its history when Hunt was not a candidate. Hunt was defeated in the primary.

Haugen Beaten After 17 Terms as House Member

Des Moines, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Representative Gilbert N. Haugen, dean of the national House of Representatives, went down to defeat in the Tuesday general election. His Democratic rival, Fred Bierman, of Decorah, goes to Congress from the Fourth Iowa District.

The veteran Iowa legislator and sponsor of the McNary-Haugen bill has served seventeen terms in Congress. He has been the ranking minority member on the House committee of agriculture.

TELEGRAPHIC DISPATCHES

Topeka, Kans., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—David W. Mulvane, Republican national committeeman from Kansas, died unexpectedly at his home today. Death was due to a cerebral hemorrhage.

Concord, N. H., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Adam Jasewich, of Claremont, charged with sending an extortion letter to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh last April, today retracted a plea of not guilty and was sentenced to serve a year in jail and pay costs. The sentence was suspended on payment of costs.

Wilmington, Ohio, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Clinton County Democrats have something to crow about. Since the Civil War only two Democrats have held office in the county. Yesterday they chose three members of their party for county offices.

North Tarrytown, N. Y. Nov. 9 (A.P.).—John D. Rockefeller, sr., left today for his winter home in Florida. The elderly oil man was driven to Pennsylvania Station in New York, where he was to board a mid-afternoon train. Details of his departure were not divulged.

Miami, Fla., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—H. M. Del Rio, said by Chief of Detectives L. O. Scarboro to be a prominent revolutionary leader in Cuba, was held incommunicado in jail here today while police investigated reports he came to Miami to purchase a supply of arms and ammunition. Leaders of a Cuban revolutionary colony here said they did not know the man.

PENNSYLVANIA G.O.P. MARGIN ONLY 160,000

Roosevelt Rolled Up Record Democratic Total for Keystone State.

Philadelphia, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Republican Pennsylvania has given President Hoover a plurality of a little less than 160,000, but Gov. Roosevelt has polled the largest Democratic vote in the history of the State.

Long rows of tabulation, unofficially accounting for more than 90 per cent of the State, show Hoover carried Philadelphia by less thna 72,000, or about half of his 1928 plurality.

Allegheny County, embracing the big Pittsburgh steel center, usually strongly Republican, ran out of Republican control and gave Gov. Roosevelt a plurality of about 36,000.

United States Senator James J. Davis scored a Republican victory by winning reelection over Lawrence H. Rupp, Allentown Democrat, but Rupp also polled a record Democratic vote.

Democrats apparently have won about 50 seats in the State Legislature, gaining them a commanding position, while Republicans swept all the major State offices.

Failure of the Philadelphia Republican organization, of which the veteran campaigner, William S. Vare, is chief, to deliever to Hoover the assured plurality of from 150,000 to 200,000 and the shifting of Washington County, home of State Republican Chairman Martin, to Roosevelt caused much comment.

DEMOCRATS CARRY SOLID MIDDLE WEST

Norbeck and Nye Only G. O. P. Senators to Withstand Avalanche.

Chicago, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—The only question in the Middle West today was how large the Democratic pluralities would be.

There were few races in doubt in the great tier of Central States of the country, which had been regarded as pivotal for Republican and Democratic hopes. The Democrats swept into almost every important office.

Tremendous pluralities for President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt mounted higher as weary election clerks tabulated a vote that shattered all records.

Illinois' preference for Roosevelt neared the 500,000 mark. Minnesota's plurality neared 200,000. Iowa will give Roosevelt better than a 200,000 plurality. In Wisconsin it will be 300,000, and in Nebraska close to 200,000.

Michigan Plurality Small.

Ohio was jarred out of the Republican column. Roosevelt seemed to have swept on to victory in Michigan, but his plurality there on the basis of returns available had not reached the lusty proportions of that in other corn belt States.

Indiana went Democratic with an indicated plurality for Roosevelt of more than 100,000.

The Democratic landslide swept Republican stalwarts of years out of Congress; snowed under Republican candidates for governor, and apparently blanketed the general assemblies.

Two Withstand Blast.

Two Republican senators in the Middle West withstood the blast. They were former Well. Digger Peter Norbeck in South Dakota, and Gerald Nye in North Dakota. Middle West Republicans in Capitol halls can repeat the copy-book poesy, "All, all are gone, the old familiar faces."

Corn belt governors will be Democratic. And the greatest upset in that regard was in Wisconsin, where Walter J. Kohler failed to follow up his unusual victory in the Republican primary when he unhorsed Gov. Philip La Follette. His Democratic opponent, A. C. Schmedeman, was chosen.

Precedents Shattered.

Judge Henry Horner, Chicago Democrat, defeated Len Small by a huge plurality in Illinois. Ohio's Governor, George White, was reelected over David Ingalls, of Cleveland. Paul V. McNutt was elected in Indiana. William A. Comstock defeated Gov. Brucker in Michigan.

In South Dakota, Republican Gov. Warren Green was swept aside in favor of Tom Berry, Democrat. Senator Norbeck was the only Republican South Dakota office holder to escape the Democratic tidal wave.

The Democratic Midwest victory shattered all precedents, and States today that had been historically Republican for generations were overwhelmingly Democratic, from top to bottom.

MRS. ROOSEVELT GETS GOOD NEWS

wearing a smile of confidence, is shown at the Democratic headquarters of the Democratic national committee, where she heard returns of the national election.

WIFE OF ROOSEVELT MAKING HER PLANS

"I am afraid it may be a little difficult I know what Washington is like. I've lived there. I shall very likely be criticized. But I can't help it."

The next mistress of the White House has two salaried jobs. One of them she is going to keep. The other—the one she likes best—she is going to give up.

Mrs. Roosevelt will continue as editor of Babies—Just Babies. On March 1 she will discontinue her teaching in the private school for girls of which she is assistant principal and part owner.

"I hate to do it," she said. "I wonder if you have any idea how I hate to do it. I've liked it more than anything else I've ever done. But it's got to go.

"For one thing, I don't think it would be fair to the pupils for me to keep on. I've managed these last four years, since we've been in Albany, but I realize that the job in the White House will probably make much heavier demands than the job in the Executive Mansion made.

"I'm going to keep my interest in the school, though. I hope to get up here every two or three weeks and meet and talk with the parents, as I've always done. And perhaps occasionally some of the girls can come down to see me in Washington."

The magazine Babies—Just Babies, Mrs. Roosevelt explained, is "quite another matter."

"I'm under contract there," she said. "The contract was signed months ago, with my husband's consent. I have the absolute say as to what goes into it—advertising, as well as editorial matter. The work does not require so much time as the teaching job takes. And—I like it.

"I went into it because I wanted money. I have a small income of my own, but I need more money to do a lot of things that I like to do. They're not important things at all. Just things that give me fun."

Among those "things," according to Mrs. Roosevelt's friends, is giving money away. Not in large sums to organized charities, but directly to people who need help. Sometimes it runs into hundreds of dollars. Sometimes it is a $5 bill. On herself she spends little. Recently she wore on a trip to Boston a dress that cost $10.

And so, there will move into the White House in Washington a new mistress who is going to try to keep on being "plain, ordinary Mrs. Roosevelt."

"Sometimes," she said today, "I daresay I shall feel a little as one of my boys—after I had lectured him on the responsibilities incumbent on the sons of a man in public life—felt when he said:

"'Wouldn't it be fun to do things just because you wanted to do them?"

(Tomorrow Mrs. Roosevelt talks of her childhood, of how the war "was my emancipation and my education," of her husband's illness.)

Vice President Amazed, But Proves Good Loser

Chicago, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Vice President Charles Curtis was surprised at the Democratic landslide which swept him out of office yesterday, but he showed himself a good loser as he passed through Chicago today on his return to Washington from Topeka, Kans., where he voted.

"I cheerfully accept the verdict," he said, between trains, "and eagerly, if not confidently, await the return of abundant prosperity that the Democrats have assured the American people they will bring about promptly and certainly, when they take over the National Government on March 4. Let us hope they prove equal to the great responsibilities that await them and that they fulfill their solemn obligations to the people."

ROOSEVELT VICTORY CONTRARY TO WISH

similitude beginning to shape itself between the careers of Roosevelt and Cleveland. They point to two factors: Economic prostration and the precampaign antics of Tammany Hall. As Tammany opposed Roosevelt at the Chicago convention of 1932, so, too, did Tammany oppose Cleveland at the Chicago convention of 1884.

The story of Franklin Delano Roosevelt's life begins on January 30, 1882, in the ancestral home in Hyde Park, near Poughkeepsie, N. Y. He was a 10-pound baby, blue-eyed, fair-haired. He was baptized in the St. James Protestant Episcopal Church, of which he is now senior warden.

His first ancestor in this country was Claes Van Rosevelt, who came over from Holland in 1636 and settled in what is now New York City. Eventually the Van was dropped from the family name and the "o" was doubled in Rosevelt, which in Dutch means a "field of roses." The name still is pronounced Rose-velt, despite the double "o." The "e" in velt is slurred.

The next President's father was James Roosevelt, who died a few months after Franklin D., then 18, matriculated at Harvard University. His mother, Mrs. Sarah Delano Roosevelt, who was James' second wife, still reigns over the Hyde Park homestead, from which vantage point she has quietly watched the steady ascension of her son's political star.

When Franklin D. was born, his fifth cousin, Theodore Roosevelt, was just beginning his career in the New York State Legislature, a career which "F. D.'s" own political fortunes were destined to duplicate, in the financial aspects at least, with striking exactness. Both followed the same routes to the Presidency, beginning at the New York Legislature and following through the Navy Department, where each served as Assistant Secretary, a vice presidential nomination, the governorship of New York, and finally the White House.

Of his childhood memories, one stands out above all others. Though he was only 3 years old at the time, Roosevelt still retains a vivid mental picture of how he and his parents nearly perished at sea when a storm overtook the liner Germanic, on which they were returning from a trip to Europe.

It was the second night out from Liverpool. Young Franklin was tucked away in his bunk, when suddenly a huge wave struck the ship, then another, and still a third. Water gushed into the cabins, the vessel lurched, the cries of terrified passengers arose above the tumult of the storm.

Franklin remembers looking out over the edge of his bunk, of seeing his most cherished possession, a jumping jack, floating around in the cabin, of calling to his parents:

"Save my jumping jack."

(In tomorrow's article Roosevelt at school—athlete, debater, editor; and his wedding, with President Roosevelt giving the bride away.)

Walton and Johnston Back in Oklahoma Fold

Oklahoma City, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Oklahoma after next January will see two former governors, both impeached, serving again in the State House. Both were indorsed by Gov. W. H. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray.

J. C. Walton (Democrat), whose removal as governor in 1923 attracted Nation-wide attention, was elected a State corporation commissioner. Henry S. Johnston, of Ferry, removed for "incompetency" in 1929, will serve in the State Senate with many of those who ousted him.

KANSAS' GOVERNOR RESULT DOUBTFUL

Texas County Judge Comes Out for House Seat Held by Garner.

Kansas City, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Election day's tumult and shouting had died away, but Kansas was still trying to find out today who will be her next governor, and Texas was already planning another election.

The Southwestern wheat, oil, live stock and cotton States learned from a mounting count how well they had held up their end of a Democratic offense, which on the political gridiron yesterday scattered the Republican line and broke through for a presidential touchdown.

Meanwhile they turned their attention to the struggle of a Republican gubernatorial nominee to withstand the Democratic victory march in Kansas; to the mixed congressional races of the State of Vice President Curtis, and to the question of a successor in Congress for John Nance Garner, now both Speaker and Vice President-elect.

The day after election brought at least one announcement of candidacy for the place Garner has said he would vacate just before his inauguration. The candidate is Oscar C. Daney, county judge of Cameron County for 12 years.

While other Southwestern States elected only Democratic congressmen, four of the six Republicans in Kansas withstood the Democratic assault.

Senator George McGill, Democrat, was reelected to the old Senate seat of Vice President Curtis, defeating former Gov. Ben S. Paulen, Republican. Harry H. Woodring, young bachelor governor of Kansas, was threatened by defeat, however. The Republican candidate, Alfred M. Landon, oil man, led by several thousand votes as the count neared completion.

Kansas was unlike Texas, in which the Roosevelt onrush carried Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson to the governor's chair, nothwithstanding a split in her party. Kansas was unlike Missouri, where Judge Guy B. Park rode to certain election on the Democratic surge. Both Texas and Missouri narrowed the battle to two party nominees; Kansas had a three-way fight, with Dr. John R. Brinkley, disturbing independent, putting on the stellar campaign show, although he fell to third in the count.

MAKEUP OF CABINET MAY BE KNOWN SOON

Senators Cutting, La Follette and Johnson.

In the present situation, two facts seemed certain—that Roosevelt, for the first time in history, will place a woman in his cabinet, and that Louis Howe and Farley, who managed the campaign, will have places in the "official family."

Farley Seems Certain.

There is little doubt in Democratic circles but that Farley will be made Postmaster General, and that Howe will go to Washington as one of Roosevelt's confidential secretaries.

Of the men being suggested for Secretary of State, Baker was Secretary of War in the Wilson Cabinet; Davis is a former Undersecretary of State, and was an armament conference delegate; Young, distinguished industrialist, was at one time being urged for the Democratic presidential nomination, and Long is a former assistant Secretary of State.

The Secretary of the Treasury possibilities include two financiers, Traylor and Baruch; the 1928 Democratic standard bearer, and the Virginia senator, who was "father" of the Federal Reserve act.

Miss Perkins, suggested for Secretary of Labor, is New York State labor commissioner; Green is president of the American Federation of Labor, and Mrs. Greenway, a successful business woman, is the widow of a copper king and a close friend of the Roosevelts.

All Three Are Lawyers.

The three suggestons for Attorney General are all lawyers. Mullen was Roosevelt's floor leader at Chcago; Walsh is a Montana senator, and Frankfurter has held many governmental posts, as well as being head of the Harvard Law School faculty.

The name suggested for Secretary of the Interior is that of the Governor of Utah, who is considered at headquarters to be a likely choice.

Naval Post Possibilities

Among those being advanced for the naval post, Howell, publisher of the Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution, was one of the most active Roosevelt supporters in the South. Ritchie has great popularity among navy people because of his long residence at Annapolis. Senator Cohen of Georgia, vice chairman of the Democratic national committee, and president and editor of the Atlanta Journal, was a naval officer at one time. Daniels was Secretary of the Navy when Roosevelt himself was an Assistant Secretary.

While election returns were still pouring in, Alfred P. Sloan, jr., in a public statement, stressed what he called "the prime importance and helpfulness" of the earliest possible announcement by Roosevelt of the policies his administration will follow, and the "names of the individuals who will be directly concerned."

SALES TAX DRIVE DUE AT SHORT SESSION

to the revenue measure, was seen in this same Senate quarter.

A number of considerations were regarded as obstacles in the immediate path of Volstead act modification at the short session of Congress, despite the clearly wet trend of Tuesday's balloting.

One was the question of whether 4 per cent beer or .18 per cent wine could be held constitutional. Injunctions might be sought and the whole question tied up in the courts for years, it was pointed out. Those who foresee that eventuality argue that the better course, and that which probably will be adopted, would be to refer the matter at one fell stroke to the people of the several States.

Thomas' Vote, Now 400,000, May Reach Million Mark

(Associated Press.)

Vote for vote, Norman Thomas was stepping last night in the shoes of the late Eugene V. Debs, who carried the Socialist party to a total just under the million mark in 1920.

With something more than a third of the country's districts heard from, Thomas' total was moving steadily toward the 400,000 mark, with indications that he might pass Debs' record of 920,000.

From 44,398 of the 110,714 districts Thomas received 371,692 votes. Although New York City gave him more than 120,000, Massachusetts, Wisconsin, Connecticut and California were making important contributions.

In 35,477 precincts dry votes totaling 2,413 put former Representative William D. Upshaw, of Georgia, second in this list. He ran on the Prohibition ticket.

William Hope ("Coin") Harvey, writer on monetary subjects, and Verne L. Reynolds, New York advertising man, who sought election on the Socialist-Labor ticket, had 1,626 and 1,538 votes respectively.

The Communists came out worst in the voting. They had only 926 votes when the one-third count was tabulated.

GIRL BRONCHO RIDER GOES TO CONGRESS

Kathryn O'Laughlin Wins Seat of Veteran Republican in Sixth Kansas.

Hays, Kans., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—A woman Democrat who grew up and rode broncbos on a western Kansas ranch and eventually became a lawyer, to escape a humdrum life of bookkeeping in her father's garage and automobile agency, is to be the first woman representative in Congress from Kansas.

Miss Kathryn O'Laughlin, of Hays, won in Tuesday's election over the Republican incumbent, Representative Charles I. Sparks, of Goodland, in the normally Republican Sixth District.

The tall, slender woman lawyer, who wears her brunette hair bobbed, is 38 years old. She had to conquer eight men in the primary last August to win the Democratic nomination.

She said she won without any organizations of women lined up in her behalf.

"My experience and observation," she remarked, "do not lead me to believe that you can have much luck in lining up lodges, church societies or social organizations at an election. Usually such efforts backfire on you and the loss is greater than the gain."

The same determination that is taking her to Congress took Kathryn O'Laughlin away from the cattle and wheat land, where as a child, she rode bareback and scurried under fences to escape charging steers which were attracted by her bright dinner pail as she trudged the three miles to a small rural school.

After finishing the Teachers College here, Miss O'Laughlin attended the University of Chicago Law School. She had her first taste of legislative life when she went with her father to Topeka to make the State bar examination.

Returning to Chicago in 1921, Miss O'Laughlin became editor of a legislative service bulletin for an insurance law firm.

Back to Kansas two years ago, she waged a successful campaign to become the first woman State representative from Ellis County and during the 1931 Legislature was an outspoken opponent of a measure which sought to oust farm corporations from Kansas.

Kansas' new congresswoman, who was born April 4, 1894, golfs and plays the violin a little, but her principal hobby is sewing.

HOOVER TO RETURN TO PRIVATE ROUTINE

"coming back to California to live" as soon as his term in the White House expires, adding that "other than that I haven't given the matter much thought."

As to his immediate program, Mr. Hoover spoke of resting here until Saturday, with automobile rides into the country and possible attendance at a football game.

He plans to recross the continent by a different route than that he followed in his campaign, going southward by way of Los Angeles and by the Southern route back to the National Capital.

He pointed out, however, that all his plans depended upon the course of national events, adding if some contingency arose in Washington requiring his presence he would start his return trip immediately.

Under the present program of stepping back into the White House by next Wednesday or Thursday, sufficient time would be allowed him to prepare his annual message to Congress, to be read upon the day of its convening, December 5, and the budget message to be presented the next day.

The President was asked today about the plans of Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior and president of Stanford University here, although on leave since 1929.

Wilbur Is Undecided.

Saying he had not yet found time to talk to Wilbur of his plans, he pointed out there was no immediate rush since the Interior Secretary's leave of absence does not expire until December.

The Cabinet officer was with him last night when he conceded the election of Roosevelt.

Although he gave "complete rest" as his immediate aim, Mr. Hoover, wearing a dark gray suit and smoking a cigar during his talk with correspondents, turned once more into the study of his home as they departed.

Later in the day he resumed more of the appearance of a private citizen.

Attention to Children.

Bright sunshine flooded the white stucco pueblo-like residence in which he lives, and the weather was unusually warm, even for California in November.

The President devoted part of his day to his three grandchildren, Peggy Ann, Peter and Joan, the small son and daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hoover, jr. Allan Hoover, too, is with him here, and the Chief Executive talked at length both with him and Herbert, jr.

Almost complete quiet surrounded the Hoover home today, in contrast to the bustle, clamor and crowds of yesterday. The driveway leading to the house was chained off and a California State policeman had orders to bar those not having particular business, including newspapermen.

Correspondents still retained, however, the cottage below the foot of the Hoover garden, outside of which a row of telephone booths were set up among the trees and shrubs.

Mrs. Hoover Enjoys Home.

Mrs. Hoover, constant companion of her husband-President on his many arduous campaign trips, shared with him the quiet of their San Juan Hill home, smilingly directing household activities and apparently enjoying the first day in many years back in home surroundings.

In company with house guests, including Mrs. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Mrs. Hoover spent part of the morning on the roof sun garden overlooking the east lawn. Part of the day was also devoted to answering correspondence with the aid of her secretary, Miss Mildred Hall.

Chatting with household guests, Mrs. Hoover's spirits seemed undampened by the defeat of the campaign.

Miss Sue Dyer, college mate of Mrs. Hoover at Stanford and coleader with her in the Girl Scout movement, is one of Mrs. Hoover's house guests. Mrs. Hoover intimated to the local Girl Scouts that if she were to be invited to a Scout meeting she would be pleased to attend.

Garner Plans Hunting Trip Before Coming to Capital

Receives Hundreds of Congratulatory Telegrams and Tells of Hopes to Return to Texas and Live Own Life After Washington Duties.

Uvalde, Tex., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Parboiled squirrel and quail were on the mind of John N. Garner, Vice President-elect, tonight as he contemplated hunting trips through the canyons of the Nueces and the Rio Grande, before reporting to Washington for the short term of Congress and the inauguration next March.

"I want to go out for a season in the open," he said. "I love this section and nothing pleases me more than to do my own cooking in the open." He explained that no matter how old the squirrel or quail, if it was parboiled and then broiled the meat would be "done to a turn."

"If I live, I shall be 68 years old when I complete this vice presidential term," he said as he paced an Associated Press correspondent's room in a hotel here.

Then he talked about a block of property he owns in this vicinity which brings him an income of $18,000 annually.

"I want to come back here and live my life in my own way after I get through in Washington," he said. "I would not have built that home, at a cost of $20,000, twelve years ago, with its pecan trees and all, if I had intended staying up in Washington all my life."

The Garner home is a great place, a retreat. It was there last night the Speaker slept while the country sat up to listen to his election as Vice President. It was there that the otherwise quiet town of Uvalde paraded, with its fire apparatus, to cheer him.

Garner came to town early today after spending a period in his office with "Etta," his wife and political adviser for more than 30 years. He read carefully hundreds of telegrams sent to him from all parts of the United States and directed how they should be answered.

Then, he went to the bank of his son, Tully Garner, where he was greeted as "Jack." He walked the sidewalks of Uvalde and received the congratulations of a townsman who had been elevated to the second highest office in the land. He then went to the hotel and called on "the newspaper boys."

Representatives of "sound pictures," however, were given a cold shoulder.

Garner, elected to Congress from the Fifteenth Texas District again, said he did not contemplate resigning until after he had qualified as Vice President.

14 REPORTED DEAD IN CUBAN HURRICANE

Sugar Cane Destroyed.

There was an unconfirmed report that four persons had been killed in the collapse of a chimney at the Violeta sugar mill at Camaguey. Verification of this report would raise the number of dead to fourteen.

The national observatory expressed the belief at about 6 p. m. that the storm was leaving the island in the vicinity of Nuevitas, in Camaguey Province about 20 miles from the Oriente border. The observatory officials said indications were the damage had been tremendous.

Sugar company officials were fearful that immense areas of cane had been destroyed.

Thirty-three of the injured were transported by special train to Santa Clara, while the remainder were being treated in various local hospitals.

Suburb Is Leveled.

The entire suburb of Ceiba was destroyed and the death list at Majagua, in Camaguey Province, was reported to be high. The roof of the railway station at Guayacanes, also in Camaguey Province, was blown off.

Belen Observatory said tonight it did not believe the storm would endanger any portion of the United States.

The Weather Bureau yesterday issued the following storm warning:

Advisory storm warnings changed to Northwest at 4 p. m., Key West to Jupiter. Tropical storm central noon about 30 miles east of Tunas south coast of Cuba, moving northeastward. Its center will pass over the Bahamas probably south of Nassau tonight. This is a very severe storm attended by winds of hurricane force over considerable area. Greatest caution advised vessels vicinity of storm.

$3,000,000 Damage

Kingston, Jamaica, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Fully 50 per cent of the banana cultivation on this island were wiped out by a terrific storm which struck West Jamaica last night and lasted over into today.

The center of the storm hit Point Negril, the western extremity of the island. The wind registered 75 miles an hour. Damage was estimated at $3,000,000.

After demolishing banana plantations and wrecking numerous buildings in the western section, the wind veered over to the northern side of the island, where it wiped out 50 per cent of the banana trees. In certain areas the storm still was raging this evening.

In Montego Bay, on the northern side, the sea rose to a great height, destroying the railway and damaging piers of the United Fruit Co. There was no loss of life. All vessels arriving here report severe weather.

Asbury Park, N. J., Nov. 9 (U.P.).—High seas and a 45-mile wind today forced abandonment of the little Egg Harbor Coast Guard Station. Seven men left the station in picket boats when the heavy seas threatened to wreck the station house.

Jersey City, N. J., Nov. 9 (U.P.).—High winds and heavy seas lashed the Jersey Coast, crushed sections of the Atlantic City boardwalk, flooded streets and caused a high tide that inundated Hudson River ferry piers.

Ships in Chesapeake Bay Seek Port as Gale Rises

Baltimore, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Winds reaching gale strength over the Chesapeake Bay today forced out-bound ships to return to port, caused other vessels to seek safe harbors in the bay tributaries, flooded Baltimore streets along the waterfront and suspended air liner traffic in and out of Baltimore.

The Weather Bureau said the wind reached a velocity of 40 miles an hour during the afternoon and early night. The bureau also forecast for tomorrow another gale, resulting from a hurricane in the West Indies.

An exceptionally high tide threatened the water front. Officials of the Maryland Yacht Club warned members to report to the clubhouse immediately and move their vessels, anchored nearby, to safer places.

The marine observatory on North Point was surrounded by water and there were prospects it would be marooned before morning. Many tugs worked steadily to remove dredges and loaded barges from the Baltimore Harbor and Chesapeake Bay.

Steamer Ingola Adrift In Hurricane's Center

Palm Beach, Fla., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—The Radio Marine Corporation station here tonight intercepted a message from the British steamer Ingola, which said the vessel had lost steerage way and was adrift in latitude 24 north and longitude 77 west. The position given places the ship about 75 miles south of Nassau, near the center of a tropical hurricane.

The Ingola did not ask for assistance nor did she give the exact cause of her distress.

FAMILIAR LEADERS IN SENATE DROPPED

who were shining marks because of the public attention they had achieved, but gave the cue for the reappearance of some of the party leaders of the past who had been absent from the official life of the National Capital since Woodrow Wilson left the White House.

Among these latter was William Gibbs McAdoo, erstwhile Secretary of the Treasury, railroad administrator and enough other things to be called the Poo-Bah of the Wilson administration. Defeated in his direct effort for the Presidency, Mr. McAdoo will make his new official bow to Washington as the new Democratic senator from California. His election means the passing from the Senate of the tall Samuel Shortridge, who believes that Bob Fitzsimmons is the greatest prize fighter of all time but who probably is best described by his press gallery sobriquet of "Solemn Sam."

Senator Robert J. Bulkley, the bell-voiced Democrat who upset modern political traditions in Ohio in the 1930 election and forecast the wet flood and the Republican debacle of Tuesday, was reelected, as was the broad-smiling Senator Millard Tydings, the Maryland Democrat, who paints pictures between his legislative battles for abolition of the prohibition amendment and its attendant sumptuary legislation.

In short the Democrats won the senatorial contests in 27 of the 33 States in which there were senatorial elections. The Republicans won contests in only six States. The Democrats elected new man after new man. The Republicans failed to elect a single new man.

Those Republicans who won through the hurricane and retained their places are: Senator James J. Davis, who squeezed through in shaken Pennsylvania; Senator Frederick Steiwer, in Oregon; Senator Gerald P. Nye, of North Dakota; Senator Peter Norbeck, of South Dakota; Senator Porter Dale, in rock-ribbed Republican Vermont, and Senator Warren W. Barbour, the former amateur heavyweight pugilistic champion, in New Jersey. And Senator Barbour only won by such a narrow margin that his secretary had conceded the victory of his Democratic opponent, the white-mustached, precise appearing Percy H. Stewart, who was another of the harbingers of the Democratic victory when he was elected to the House two years ago.

The election gives the Democrats control of the Senate as well as of the House and the White House. Senator Henrik Shipstead, of Minnesota, is the lone Farmer-Labor senator and he, too, did not have to face the revolting voters. That makes the line-up of the Roosevelt Senate 59 Democrats, one Farmer-Labor, and 36 Republicans. In other words the Democrats have 10 more than the necessary 49 for a majority, of the total membership of 96.

Senators who were elected Tuesday were:

Alabama—Hugo L. Black (Democrat).
Arizona—Carl Hayden (Democrat).
Arkansas—Mrs. Hattie Caraway (Democrat).
California—William Gibbs McAdoo (Democrat).
Colorado—Alva B. Adams (Democrat).
Connecticut—Augustine Lonergan (Democrat).
Florida—Duncan U. Fletcher (Democrat).
Idaho—James P. Pope (Democrat).
Illinois—William H. Dieterich (Democrat).
Indiana—Frederick Van Nuys (Democrat).
Iowa—Louis R. Murphy (Democrat).
Kansas—George McGill (Democrat).
Kentucky—Alben W. Barkley (Democrat).
Louisiana—John H. Overton (Democrat).
Maryland—Millard E. Tydings (Democrat).
Missouri—Bennet C. Clark (Democrat).
New Hampshire—H. Brown (Democrat).
Nevada—Patrick McCarren (Democrat).
New Jersey—Warren J. Barbour (Republican).
New York—Robert F. Wagner (Democrat).
North Carolina—Robert P. Reynolds (Democrat).
North Dakota—Gerald P. Nye (Republican).
Ohio—Robert J. Bulkley (Democrat).
Oklahoma—Elmer Thomas (Democrat).
Oregon—Frederick Steiwer (Republican).
Pennsylvania—James J. Davis (Republican).
South Carolina—Ellison D. Smith (Democrat).
South Dakota—Peter Norbeck (Republican).
Utah—Dr. Elbert D. Thomas (Democrat).
Vermont—Porter H. Dale (Republican).
Washington—Homer T. Bone (Democrat).
Wisconsin—F. Ryan Duffy (Democrat).

FAR WEST ELECTION PRECEDENTS BROKEN

Senator Steiwer, of Oregon, Dry, Survives Democratic Flood of Votes.

San Francisco, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Democracy's 1932 model broom swept the Far West as it never has been in the present century by any Democratic ticket, cleaning out most of the Republican incumbents or candidates, veteran and newcomer alike.

While the 40 electoral votes of the seven States were going into the Roosevelt-Garner hopper, a lone Republican candidate and a handful of Republican candidates for national representative managed to keep their feet.

If there was a State for Western Republicans to point to with any pride at all it was Oregon, for in that Commonwealth Senator Frederick Steiwer (Republican), was reelected and at least one of the State's three national representatives will be of the same political faith. It will be the only far Western State with two Republican senators at Washington.

Early California Warning.

California, registering a gain of nearly a half million Democrats as compared with 1928, gave warning of what was coming, but the predictions of even the most optimistic Democrat were surpassed as the lead given Franklin D. Roosevelt over President Hoover drove past the 300,000 mark. A senatorial contest was just another Democratic victory, as William G. McAdoo won. Against him ran Tallant Tubbs, Republican, and the Rev. Robert P. Shuler, Prohibitionist. The State expected to have at least 5 Republican representatives in the national House out of the 20 elected.

Veterans who fell included Reed Smoot, Republican, of 30 years' standing in the U. S. Senate, who will be succeeded by Dr. Elbert D. Thomas, emocrat.

Wesley L. Jones, of Washington, Republican incumbent, bowed before the mightiest Democratic hurricane to strike his State since Populist days of 1896. The winner was Homer T. Bone, who favors Federal power control and municipal ownership.

Senator William E. Borah lost his colleague, John Thomas, in the Idaho gale, and will stand in the Senate with a Democrat, James M. Pope.

Veteran Nevadan Loses.

Nevada, too, swept aside a veteran, Tasker L. Oddie, who first rode into the Senate on the crest of a similar Republican wave in 1920. The victor, P. A. McCarran, Democrat, pledged aid for the mining and live stock industries.

Veteran members of Congress who lost out included A. M. Free, who was active in getting the Sunyvale air base for northern California, and Albert Johnson, of Washington, who had served in ten Congresses and was noted as an author of immigration laws.

Four States elected Democratic governors—Arizona, Idaho, Utah and Washington.

For election oddities, there was the selection of a Democratic dispenser of jazz music, Victor Meyers, to be lieutenant governor of Washington, and the reelection of a personal dry, Senator Steiwer, by the same voters who chose to repeal Oregon's dry law.

Col. Anderson Urges Support of Winners

Richmond, Va., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Col. Henry W. Anderson, Republican leader, in a statement today said campaign controversies should be forgotten and that unselfish support should be given to the successful leaders in the campaign just closed.

"I thought and still feel that under prevailing conditions, the best interests of the country demanded the reelection of President Hoover. I naturally regret his defeat. It has, of course, been recognized from the beginning of the campaign that the existing economic depression and resulting unrest and discontent operated strongly against him. Such conditions nearly always result in the defeat of the party in control of the Government."

Byrd Thanked by Farley For Work in Campaign

Winchester, Va., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Former Gov. Harry F. Byrd, national Democratic committeeman from Virginia, received a telegram today from James A. Farley, national Democratic chairman, New York, expressing appreciation for the Virginian's work in the presidential campaign. The telegram follows:

"Am grateful to you for the generous assistance given in this great campaign. We won a great victory Tuesday and the result is in no small degree attributed to assistance you and other sincere and active Democrats have rendered throughout this entire campaign."

Dry Agents Catch Man With 36 Pints in Auto

Caught with 36 pints of alleged red whisky by two prohibition agents, John E. O'Herone, 32, 1508 Sixteenth street northwest, last night was charged with possessing and transporting liquor, and also for failing to show registration papers for his automobile, and driving without a tail light.

He was apprehended at Seventeenth and Church streets northwest. O'Herone made bond for $1,500 on the liquor charges and gave collateral on the traffic charges.

Richmond Democratic Offices Remain Open

Richmond, Va., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Democratic State headquarters here will remain open and functioning for a week or ten days longer, at least, it announced today. The office will close its presidential election business pending plans of the Democratic State central committee for the future.

Walker C. Cottrell, secretary, is in charge of headquarters. His staff consisted of Mrs. Ruth Caraway, of Highland; Miss Caroline Fitzhugh, of King George, and Spears Havely.

R. H. Phillips Weds Miss Taylor.

Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 9 (Special).—Robert H. Phillips and Miss Elise Fauver Taylor were married Monday night in Staunton, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. H. Lee Scott, pastor of the Waynesboro Baptist Church. The bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Phillips, of Crozet, this county, and is a graduate of the Crozet High School. The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Mary F. Taylor and the late Charles Taylor, of Waynesboro.

132 HOUSE MEMBERS NOW "LAME DUCKS"

Democratic Edge of More Than 100 in Chamber Is Indicated.

With 40 House contests still to be heard from, the Democrats early today were piling up a 3-to-1 lead in the House of Representatives, while final returns all pointed to a Democratic edge of more than 100 votes in that chamber.

On the basis of these returns, at least 132 defeated incumbents will return to the House as "lame ducks" at the December session of Congress.

Replacing them as leaders, a host of new faces have been swept into the Washington political picture, some of whom have figured before in the Congressional panorama, but most of them unknown outside their own Districts.

Among the powerful to go down to defeat was Representative Will R. Wood (Republican), Indiana, former chairman of the House appropriations committee, and a member of Congress for seventeen years. It was Wood who first raised the issue of Federal salary slashing.

Early today, 291 Democrats had been definitely elected to the new House. Only 104 Republicans were certain of seats. Twoscore contests were still doubtful. Vacancies were divided evenly between the two parties, four and four.

The House District committee lost four of its Republican members in the Democratic landslide—Representatives Frank L. Bowman, of West Virginia; Patrick J. Sullivan, of Pennsylvania; C. B. McClintock, of Ohio, and Frederick M. Davenport, of New York. All Democratic members of the local committee apparently were returned.

Bachman Defeated.

Republican stalwarts sharing the fate of Representative Wood included Representative Carl Bachmann, West Virginia, Republican whip of the House, and Representative Fred Purnell, of Indiana, assistant Republican floor leader.

A complete overturn from Republican to Democratic representation was witnessed in Idaho, Utah and Nevada, as returns from the Far West followed the trend of the East and Midwest sweep.

Republicans lost four seats in West Virginia, where all Democratic candidates were elected. There were overturns from Republican to Democratic in Missouri, South Dakota, Wisconsin, Washington and in other States.

From South Dakota came word that Representative William Williamson, Republican, who, as chairman of the House expenditures committee, was responsible for combining all veterans' activities under one administration, had gone down to defeat.

Upset in Oklahoma.

An upset of note was the Oklahoma contest, where a solid Democratic delegation was returned for the first time in history. The Republican seat of Representative Milton C. Garber, author of a pay cut bill at the last Congress session, was annexed by Ernest W. Marland. Will Rogers, school teacher, unrelated to the cowboy-humorist, was the Oklahoma choice at large.

Replacing Representative Bowman, of West Virginia, for years interested in District affairs, will be Jennings Randolph, Elkins Democrat, who promises to be equally active in local matters. He recently told a gathering at the City Club he intends to request a place on the House District committee.

Also of local interest is the election of Benjamin K. Cocht, Pennsylvania Republican, a former chairman of the House District committee, who fills the vacancy caused by the death of Edward M. Beers.

Republicans Reelected.

Republicans on the House District committee reelected include Representative Pehr G. Holmes, of Massachusetts; Representatives Gale H. Stalker and James L. Whitley, of New York.

Chairman Clarence Cannon, Missouri, of the House District appropriations subcommittee, and two of his colleagues on that committee, William J. Granfield, of Massachusetts, and Thomas Blanton, of Texas, were returned.

From Michigan came word that Representative Carl Mapes, author of the $4,000,000 District tax bills, will come back to Congress.

The booming voice of Representative John C. Schafer, ardent wet and former locomotive engineer, will be missing next session, returns from Wisconsin indicated. Raymond D. Cannon, Milwaukee Democrat, will take his seat.

Successor to Garner.

Announcement that Vice President-elect Garner will not resign from the Speakership until March 4, was followed yesterday by speculation as to who would succeed him on the Speaker's rostrum.

With many aspiring Speakers in the field, the contest, to be decided by a party caucus in March, appears pretty well narrowed down to Representative Henry T. Rainey, Indiana, House Democratic leader, and Representative John McDuffie, Alabama, Democratic whip.

Other candidates include McDuffie's Alabama colleague, William B. Bankhead, and Representative Joseph W. Byrns, Tennessee, chairman of the House appropriations committee, both prominently mentioned. Also proposed are Representative Lindsay G. Warren, of North Carolina; Sam Rayburn, Fritz G. Lanham and Hatton W. Sumner, all of Texas; John J. O'Connor, of New York; Jacob L. Milligan, of Missouri, and John E. Rankin, of Mississippi.

State Tries to Clarify Motive in Murder Case

Kinston, N. C., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—The second trial of Herman Casey on a charge of murdering J. C. Causey, Norfolk, Va., lumberman, moved slowly here today while court attaches said the State probably will rest its case late in the afternoon.

An attempt to establish a motive for the fatal shooting of Causey was made when witnesses told of having heard Casey make threats against an unnamed person, to whom he applied "bitter epithets." Court attaches said the defense probably would consume two days or longer in presentation of its evidence.

Dr. Bloxton Dies in Richmond.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Dr Benjamin Bloxton, 58, died here today. He is survived by a brother, J. W. Bloxton, Richmond, and two sisters, Mrs. C. N. Deshazo, Washington, and Miss Etta Bloxton, of Roanoke. Dr. Bloxton was a well-known dentist here.

BRITAIN MAY SEEK NEW DEBT SCALE

Willing to Settle December Installment if U. S. Demands It.

London (Thursday), Nov. 10 (A.P.).—The Daily Mail said today that an important communication to the United States Government would probably be sent shortly, wherein Great Britain's willingness to pay her war debt installment due December 15 would be restated, but her difficult position would be pointed out.

The newspaper's story was one of several which envisaged a possible suspension of Britain's debt installment as a result of the American presidential election.

The Daily Herald gave great prominence to a statement by its parliamentary correspondent, who claimed to have been informed "by high official circles" that it was exceedingly improbable the installment would be paid, for there was strong likelihood of a postponement by mutual consent.

The newspaper's correspondent said that formal negotiations between Great Britain and the United States might be opened with a view to putting the debt on a commercial basis. He stated that it is proposed to scale down the debt and float a low interest international loan in London, Paris and New York.

The Daily Mail cited the conversations which Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and Sir John Simon, foreign minister, held recently with Norman Davis, American disarmament representative, in London.

Hawley-Smoot Team Now Thing of the Past

(Associated Press)

The election finished one job that the primaries started.

The famous Smoot-Hawley team—see ten million campaign speeches—was wiped out. The authors of the tariff bill that was lambasted by the Democrats and defended by the Republicans with almost equal vigor will sit in Congress no more.

Representative Hawley of Oregon was eliminated by defeat in the primaries. Senator Smoot of Utah was snowed under in the Democratic election avalanche.

Incidentally, Smoot's defeat assures continuance of two Thomases on the Senate roster. While Senator Thomas of Idaho lost, Dr. Elbert D. Thomas came along as Senator from Utah. Thomas of Oklahoma continues undisturbed.

Neighbors Are Deceived As Editor Kills Himself

Los Angeles, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Neighbors rushed into the apartment of Lewis W. Liddy, 50, screen writer and magazine editor, after hearing what they thought was a shot.

Liddy was found quietly smoking. He said he had knocked over a heavy table. There was a second sharp report. Neighbors rushed in again—Liddy was dead, a new automatic pistol beside the body.

Special Session Is Urged.

Greenville, S. C., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Representative J. J. McSwain (Democrat), South Carolina, in a letter to President-elect Roosevelt today urged a special session of Congress immediately after Roosevelt's inauguration to enact "remedial legislation."

LOW BIDS ON 9 ROAD PROJECTS REVEALED

The projects and low bids included the following:

Route 16, Rappahannock County, bridge over Hazel River; M. S. Hudgins, of Roanoke, $4,614.50.

Route 31, Prince William County, from .15 of a mile south of Occoquan station to .93 of a mile north of Neabsco Creek; McGuire & Rolfe, $54,352.78 regular $71,883.78 alternate.

Route 31, Stafford County, from 59 of a mile south of Chopawamsic Creek to .185 of a mile south of Aquia Creek; Guilford Construction Co., of Raleigh, N. C., $58,959.26 regular, $66,853.08 alternate.

Route 31, Fairfax County, Snake Hill, Hyble Valley and Gum Springs revisions; McGuire & Rolfe, $44,758.68 regular, $51,181.98 alternate.

Oscar De Priest Wins Chicago House Seat

Chicago, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Oscar De Priest, only Negro representative in Congress, was one of the few Republican members from Illinois to be returned in yesterday's election.

De Priest, representing the First District, which includes Chicago's Loop, won with a majority of 5,000 over a Democrat and a Communist.

Dr. Barton Warns Drys Have Just Begun Fight

Wilmington, N. C., Nov. 9 (U.P.).—The drys have just begun to fight, according to Dr. Arthur J. Barton, pastor and prohibition advocate, who said today that prohibition was the major factor in results of Tuesday's presidential election.

"Restoration of the liquor traffic would be the greatest blow that could strike economic betterment," said Dr. Barton, who is president of the national conference of organizations supporting the eighteenth amendment and chairman of the executive committee of the Antisaloon League of America.

Woman Is Bonded In Kidnaping Case

Los Angeles, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Funds furnished by unidentified friends enabled Miss Ruth Borman, former Mason City, Iowa, resident, to be released on $600 bail today pending her trial on charges of kidnaping her own child, Nancy Ruth Buchanan, 3.

Miss Borman, who police said confessed stealing her own child October 26 from the home of Mrs. Violet Buchanan, wealthy divorcee and foster-mother of the child, was indicted by the county grand jury last week on a charge of child stealing.

When Miss Borman appeared for arraignment in superior court today a professional bondsman announced he had been employed by anonymous benefactors to furnish Miss Borman's bond.

Warm Springs Observes Holiday.

Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—A complete holiday was observed as Warm Springs celebrated the election of Gov. Roosevelt today. A parade, fireworks and a huge bonfire were on the program as returns came in last night. Roosevelt will be here for his Thanksgiving dinner, he said last week.

THE BATTLE OF HASTINGS—1066 A. D.
"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by J. Scott Williams . . . inspired by the surging fury of the Norman hordes under William the Conqueror, in their merciless onslaught against the English in the Battle of Hastings, October 14, 1066. "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes.
"Nature in the Raw is seldom MILD"

Copr., 1932, The American Tobacco Co.

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

EFFICIENCY ABOVE POLITICS.

Official Washington is always upset by a change of administrations. From Cabinet members to trench diggers a feeling of uncertainty prevails. Fortunately a large percentage of the Government employes may feel secure in their jobs because they are protected by civil service. But there are thousands in Washington whose jobs depend upon the will of the President or appointees of the President. Among this class the Democratic victory becomes something of tragedy.

One of the most constructive steps that have been taken in the administration of the Federal Government is the civil service system. Employes doing routine work for the Government ought not to be subjected to the whims of politics. The complicated affairs of the Departments of State, Agriculture, Commerce, Justice and the Treasury could not be carried on efficiently under the spoils system.

It is a source of regret that as many as 108,000 Federal employes throughout the country are not protected by civil service regulations. Some of these, of course, hold administrative positions which must necessarily be filled by appointees in harmony with the party in power. But a vast majority of them can well be kept within the Government service, for their work has no connection with politics.

Under the present administration jobs have been distributed with little regard for political affiliations in many of the independent agencies. Republicans and Democrats alike have been called to service in the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the Seed Loan Office, the Farm Board, the Board of Tax Appeals, and similar offices. There is no reason why these employes should be disturbed under the new administration because of party affiliations, even though they may not be protected by civil service rules. Efficiency and not politics should be the criterion applied to employes of this class.

No doubt there will be a considerable shake-up due to reorganization of the Government service. President Hoover will present plans for sweeping consolidations to the next session of Congress. President-elect Roosevelt has also pledged himself to a reduction of commissions and bureaus as part of his economy program. But it would be inexcusable to add to this reorganization a wholesale dismissal of efficient employes merely because they do not have the protection of civil service ratings.

CONTROL OF THE SENATE.

Control of the Senate during the short session from December to March 4 will probably remain in doubt until Congress convenes. When the Seventy-third Congress meets the Democrats will organize both houses with substantial majorities. In the short session of the old Congress the House will continue to be Democratic under the leadership of Speaker Garner. The Democrats had a good opportunity to extend their control to the Senate, even during the short session of the old Congress, but they may be frustrated by a blunder in Colorado.

Two unexpired terms were at stake in Tuesday's election. Apparently Percy H. Stewart, Democrat, has been elected to serve the unexpired term of the late Senator Dwight W. Morrow in New Jersey. In Colorado Alva B. Adams, Democrat, is leading Karl Schuyler, Republican, for the six-year senatorial term, but Mr. Schuyler is leading Walter Walker, Democrat, for the short term. The nomination of two Democrats for the Senate evidently confused many of the voters, and they neglected to cast ballots for Mr. Walker.

If the Republican is elected in Colorado and the Democrat in New Jersey, the Democrats will have a majority of one. But Senator Shipstead, Farmer-Laborite, is accustomed to voting with the Republicans on organization. Assuming that he will continue to do so, it appears that a vote on reorganization would be tied and that Vice President Curtis would break the tie in favor of the Republicans.

The elements of uncertainty extend further, however, than to the vote of Senator Shipstead. A number of Republican insurgents who hold important chairmanships in the Senate have been campaigning for Gov. Roosevelt. One of them might vote for Democratic organization on the promise of retaining his chairmanship. Or Senator Brookhart, lame duck from Iowa, may take a parting jab at his party by voting with the Democrats. Any one of a dozen insurgents could swing control of the Senate to the Democrats.

One of the most vital questions to be decided at the short session is whether the Democrats will continue their alliance with the insurgents, now that they have a majority of their own in sight for the Seventy-third Congress. When the Democratic reorganization takes place the leaders in the Senate must decide whether the insurgents who have helped them to win shall be penalized for doing so. Of course, the ranking Democrat on each committee will demand its chairmanship. Presumably the insurgents will be ousted along with other Republicans, and the alliance will be severely strained. The Republican party must also decide whether it will permit men who have contributed to its downfall to participate in its councils.

NOVEL PLANTING.

The great expense of reforestation is due largely to the fact that seedlings can not cope with grass, weeds and heavy undergrowth. They are easily choked in the struggle for survival. It is, therefore, usual to plant sturdy little trees three or four years old which have been grown in nurseries, or to transplant seedlings already two or three years old. Both methods require time and expense.

A Norwegian discovery promises to overcome the difficulties of both seedlings and saplings for reforestation. Small bricks of soil about the size of ice cubes are made in a machine at the rate of 2,000 an hour at little cost. These are dipped by the machine in paraffin so that five sides are covered. On the upper sixth side two or three seeds are placed and covered with a thin layer of soil. The briquets are then placed in frames and can be easily transported without need of special care.

The cubes may be set out at any season of the year, provided the ground is not frozen. It was found that a crew of three men could plant more than 1,000 briquets each in a day. In specially tilled ground as many as 2,000 can be planted in an eight-hour day. The efficiency of the method, as reported by the experimenters, is greater than any previously tried, and the chief merit is that it does away with the dependence on nurseries.

FOR THE COMMON GOOD.

EXPRESSIONS from men of all parties from all parts of the country show a gratifying attitude of good will toward the incoming administration of President-elect Roosevelt. President Hoover has congratulated his successor, wishing him "a most successful administration," and dedicating himself to all helpful effort in behalf of the common purpose of all. Gov. Roosevelt has replied appreciatively and joining in the promise of helpful effort for the common good.

Millions of Republicans voted for Gov. Roosevelt. Their support is a foregone conclusion. Other millions opposed him, and some of them are deeply disappointed, but apparently they take their defeat as the fortune of war and do not cherish the thought of attempting to raise political or partisan obstacles in the way of measures intended to end the depression. While the Republicans in Congress will, of course, reserve the right to support or oppose administration plans, there is a remarkable outpouring of good will toward the President-elect which gives hope that politics will not be injected into the economic questions that call for patriotic cooperation.

President-elect Roosevelt tells his countrymen that Tuesday's verdict means that the masses of the country believe that there is great and actual possibility of orderly recovery, and unbounded confidence in the future of agriculture and industry. This confidence is manifest in all parts of the country, as reflected by improving conditions. The most partisan opponents of the new administration can not but hope that the march of improvement will not be halted. There is no incentive to make political capital against the new regime which can justify obstructive tactics which might injure all citizens struggling to recoup their fortunes. Therefore, unless the new administration should sponsor proposals obviously unwise, it may be expected that the universal desire for better times will induce Republicans in Congress to co-operate.

Gov. Roosevelt said more than once during the campaign that he had co-operated successfully with an opposing party in the New York Legislature, and that he expected to obtain the co-operation of Republicans in Congress. Much depends upon personal relationships. In this regard President-elect Roosevelt may be more fortunate than his predecessor; and yet President Hoover succeeded in obtaining non-partisan co-operation in putting through all important emergency measures.

Although Gov. Roosevelt intimated that he was not satisfied with the methods employed by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, he expressly approved of the creation of the corporation and the objects to be achieved through its operations. As the corporation is the creature of law it may be expected to function as intended by the law-making power, without regard to the change of administration. Democrats are already fully represented in the directing personnel of the corporation.

Questions of taxation will arise next month. The Treasury deficit will be large in spite of the tax law enacted at the last session. President Hoover probably will recommend a tax measure. If the threatened bonus bill should be pressed it is possible that party controversies will be provoked which might delay or frustrate suitable tax legislation. Since the President-elect has made it plain that he does not favor prepayment of the bonus while there is a deficit, he may find it wise to exert his influence with the Democrats of the House in behalf of the postponement of bonus legislation. The mutual assurances of common effort exchanged by the outgoing and incoming Presidents ought to work for the public welfare by discouraging bonus legislation at this time.

The complexion of the expiring Congress has not been materially changed by Tuesday's election. Therefore the enactment of a bill to legalize stronger beer and wine is doubtful, although many Democrats in Congress may insist that the election is a mandate in favor of such legislation. President Hoover's position on the question of beer legislation for tax purposes has not been disclosed. Democrats are not united on the subject. The beer question may become involved in the general problem of taxation.

The possibility that partisan controversies in the expiring session may bring difficulties for President-elect Roosevelt is to be considered, but, on the other hand, it is to be expected that public opinion will demand reasonable cooperation for the sake of bettering business conditions. Republicans will be well advised if they endeavor to co-operate; and Democrats now in the flush of victory can well afford to bear in mind that their victory was made possible by Republicans who expect the new regime to do its share in co-operating for the common good. Extreme partisanship on either side will be a stumbling block on the path back to prosperity.

HARD TIMES FOR SCHOOLS.

Education Week is being given special attention this year because the depression has hit the schools. Many cities and rural districts are finding it extremely difficult to maintain their usual standards in education when tax receipts have declined and bonded indebtedness has grown to burdensome proportions. Many have been forced to reduce teachers' salaries, to forego new buildings, to postpone the purchase of equipment and in some cases to curtail their entire educational programs.

At the same time school enrollment has been increasing. Many young people are staying in school longer than they would in normal times because they are unable to find jobs. College students are loath to face the economic realities of life, if they can remain longer in school. The increased demand for education, on one hand, and the reduction of school budgets, on the other, create a serious problem.

No one favors a reduction in educational facilities. A free education is an important part of the heritage of every American boy and girl. Only the most critical emergencies can justify any reduction in the standards of education which this country maintains. Nevertheless, when budgets are low and the people are overburdened with taxes, retrenchment has to be made. In such cases the problem is to distribute the reduced revenue so as to maintain the highest possible standards with the money available. This is no time for frills in education. Experimentation can well be curtailed and extravagance eliminated.

One thing for which the schools can be thankful in this period of hard times is that they are not dependent upon the Federal Treasury for their maintenance. Federal revenue fluctuates far more than does the income of States and municipalities, because a large portion of it is drawn from incomes that tend to disappear in times of depression. The interest of the people in the schools of their own communities is the strongest guarantee that those schools will not be seriously neglected. If they were dependent upon Congress for support, the present drive for economy coupled with the sharp reduction in Federal revenue would jeopardize the position of every school in the land.

After the Battle!

POST HASTE

President Hoover went to California so he could get the election results by 9 o'clock.

At best, Mr. Hoover must have some private thoughts about those deception committees that met him at every station.

Will Jim Farley get the usual P. M. G. job or something moreish?

And the wise mouse, Col. House, will it be possible to drop him in the discard again?

Naturally, Young, Smith, Baruch, Baker, Davis come at once to mind, but what of those valiant Uhlans, Long, Wheeler and Dill?

Maine appears clothed in her right mind, but she still must explain that September morn episode.

Among Tuesday's superlative results will be one of the biggest lame-duck conventions Washington has ever seen.

It seems that when the lone maverick got ready to tell about the vote he left at Boise nobody was listening.

Our next moving picture of a March Senate visions Senator Johnson center-aisling McAdoo for installation as his Democratic twin from California.

Borah's Foreign Relations won't even recognize him after March 4, or sooner, but what about Judiciary Norris?

The worries of the President-elect will not come from Republicans, but from the importunities and dissensions of his own followers.

Possibly it was the sales tax heaving that big sigh of relief over the elimination of Representative Fiorello LaGuardia.

Josephus Daniels says progressivism is in the saddle. And he knows a good man who can ride the Navy.

"Control of the House held by Democrats." Except during a stampede.

Such wonderful newspaper unanimity! The only difference of opinion is whether it was a clean sweep, a tidal wave or a landslide.

And, curiously, the late news discloses that the rest of the world for the last two days has been doing business, such as it is, at the old stand.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

TWO FATHERS' VIEWS.

One father said: "The road to show,
To keep him in the path of right,
Secure from dangers grim;
His peace of mind I have insured—
From all the heartache I've endured
That boy of mine is shielded well—
No harm shall come to him.
I've guaranteed his food and drink.
He need not lie awake to think,
Nor rise at morning to a day
Of dreary dread and doubt.
As far as human mind can plan,
My boy shall be a happy man.
With not one dreary bit of care
To fret his soul about."

Another loving father said:
"No guide I've hired for him. Instead
I've had his mind and body trained
To face this world alone.
I have not hoarded gold to give.
I think he would not care to live
And miss the joy of working for
A fortune of his own.
The only thing I've guaranteed
Is that for every hour of need
He shall have wit and strength and will
To work and think and plan.
For when at last my flag is dipped,
That boy of mine I leave equipped
To cope with life's concerns and know

By ROBERT QUILLEN

PEOPLE in all lands love money. In that particular Americans are not unique.

But only in America is the getting of money a game, a passion and the goal of life. Only in America is money-getting a virtue and wealth the measure of social worth.

In that fact lies the explanation of all economic woes peculiar to America.

Now as always the love of money is the root of all evil. The evil is not in money itself, but only in the love of it and the consequent passion to possess it.

We scoff at that ancient truth, but our jeers do not lighten the penalty for disregarding it. It was the love of money, more than any other fault, that made us a Nation of bankrupts.

There is only one way to get rich. That is to take wealth from those who create it.

Wealth may be in the form of grain, manufactured articles or a golden voice, but the man whose energy creates it can not by his own efforts transform it into a fortune.

The wealth produced by one man is small. It is but one unit of a fortune. And the man who would be rich must find a way to assemble many of these units.

The money-getter does not create millions. He assembles them by taking wealth in small amounts from those who have created it. Thousands must labor and serve to produce millions for another.

There is no other way to build a great fortune. But it does not follow that the one who assembles a fortune takes it from others dishonestly. Almost invariably he gives them something in exchange—soap, breakfast food, automobiles, gadgets.

The less he gives, however, the quicker his fortune is built; and the love of money tempted Americans to give less and less until at last they gave nothing except a worthless sheet of paper called a stock certificate.

The passion to get money developed an ever-increasing tolerance of "shrewdness," until at last the means of getting was justified by its success and big business became a common swindle.

Would millions be insolvent today if no man had loved money more than honor?

Yet today, when we speak of better things to come, we do not mention higher standards or better men, but only more and easier money-getting.

We are paying a great price for a lesson, and we have it yet to learn.

THE AFTERMATH

Press Comment Upon Aspects of the Election and Its Effects.

Must Support Roosevelt.
Philadelphia Inquirer.

Mr. Roosevelt owes his victory to an upheaval that is traced directly to the economic situation which has afflicted the country—all other countries, for that matter.

The United States is a country in which the majority are supposed to rule. When a President has been elected, he becomes the President of all of the people. All good citizens, no matter what their disappointments and their misgivings may be, will loyally abide by the result. The prevailing desire unquestionably is that the country shall be restored to full prosperity. Mr. Roosevelt has preached that desire from one end of the United States to the other. Trust must be placed in him. It would be foolish to do otherwise.

Party Cooperation Needed.
New York Herald Tribune.

In a very real sense the country yesterday experienced a final upheaval from the World War. Remote as those destructive years are in time, their mark is still heavy upon the world. Fundamentally the whole world depression was due to its dislocations and yesterday's balloting was the depression's own child. What was recorded was a blind protest against forces of destruction that defied precise analysis and for which there is no simple remedy—save time. In the mood of yesterday's voting there was room for neither patience nor reflection.

A difficult four months lies ahead. The more cooperation there can be between the parties and between their leaders the better for the country. The national welfare must come first in this difficult winter. We hope that the bitterness of the late campaign will be buried promptly and that a united nation will carry on through these months of strain and want.

Saved From Radicalism.
Philadelphia Record.

The G. O. P., in a trying time, was afraid of radicalism, afraid of change, afraid of attack on cherished American traditions. But by its panicky standpatism it failed to relieve the nation. It failed to bow with the wind. It encouraged discontent. It aided violence. It made radicalism stronger.

So swiftly was radicalism growing that a victory for President Hoover yesterday would have meant President Norman Thomas in 1936.

The American people saved themselves from that. The American institutions, on which Republicans claimed to have a patent, were saved yesterday—by Democrats and liberals.

Went Down Fighting.
Baltimore Sun.

For the defeated President in this hour there will be only kindness. Most of the people, we believe, will remember that he went down fighting. Not always wisely, not always gracefully, but still fighting to the end. His party had reached a condition of stagnation which yielded little intelligence to aid him. His own temperament had further dissipated the reserves of party intelligence. In the end, he stood almost alone. Yet, solitary and helpless save for his own energy, he elected to battle to the very finish. Foes may take pleasure in remembering that.

John Barleycorn's Offensive.
Cincinnati Enquirer.

There are some who believe we'll get the shock troops of John Barleycorn out of the trenches by Christmas.

Fine, but Idealistic.
Detroit Free Press.

The answer to Governmental deficits is not more taxes, but more economy.

Foreign Policy Under New President May Be Changed—Newton D. Baker's Views.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In view of the election of Gov. Roosevelt and the possibility of a change in American foreign policy under a new Secretary of State, it may be interesting to your readers to note what was said by Newton D. Baker last May in regard to Manchuria and American relations with the League of Nations. In response to an inquiry by the League of Nations Association Mr. Baker said:

"In my judgment the Far Eastern crisis is not yet settled. I expect to find Japan presenting far-reaching plans with regard to China which will impose severe tests upon the statesmanship of the world. * * *

"The nine-power treaty seems to me to have been important because it is a specific pledge to which the United States is a party with regard to the maintenance of the territorial and political integrity of China. The covenant of the league and to some extent the pact of Paris express the same pledge, but, of course, the United States is not a member of the league and without its obligations under the nine-power treaty and the pact of Paris would not have been in a position to cooperate with the league in the crisis. If the United States is not to become a member of the League of Nations, or rather until it does become a member, it seems to me important that it should enter into agreements like the nine-power treaty. * * *

"I think the league has been handicapped in its efforts in the Far Eastern situation by the nonmembership of the United States. * * *

"The specific American contribution to the problem of the crisis, namely, the Stimson doctrine, is, of course, a better piece of cooperation than none at all, but I am quite sure it is not so good a contribution as could have been made if the United States had been a member of the league and the council had worked out a unified and united program. I am troubled about what is going to happen in Manchuria under the Stimson doctrine."

If Mr. Baker, who is highly qualified, should become Secretary of State, a decided change in foreign policy may be expected.

C. F. JAMES.

Increasing Number of Americans Going to Sea in Merchant Marine.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The following article should prove informative and interesting to those who have the welfare of the American seaman at heart:

"According to the Department of Commerce, the chances for an American to get a job aboard an American vessel are improving. This may be regarded as somewhat remarkable in view of the competition which American ships encounter in foreign craft manned by crews picked up from the ends of the earth. Something of this can be seen along the Fall River waterfront when foreign craft visit the port, as they do so frequently.

"It appears from the department's reports that for the year ended with last June, American born or naturalized seamen constituted more than two-thirds of the crews of American ships signed up by the United States Shipping commissioners at the fifteen largest ports of the country. The larger part of the other third was made up of Europeans.

"Not only is the proportion of American seamen large, but it has been steadily growing in recent years, having advanced 5 per cent since 1930. The fact is important in many ways, including the opening which is thus afforded by the growing mercantile marine for more employment for Americans whose inclinations lead them to the life of a seafarer.

"Another important feature of this situation is the training which is being acquired aboard ship by so many citizens whose services as a help to the Navy would be valuable for the defense of the Nation in an emergency. It is clear that the prestige of Americans on the seas, renewed by the creation of a fleet of merchant vessels, is being maintained and strengthened by American officers and crews, operating those vessels on the high standard provided for in the American shipping laws."

Citizen Is Sorry Campaigns Are Over—Thinks Country Will Continue to Progress.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There may be some people who really mean it when, following election day, they say they are glad that the excitement of a presidential campaign is over. I am not one of those. It warms my blood and, I believe, warms the blood and improves the health of the country at large. Every patriotic voter, no matter what party he belongs to, should feel some glow of satisfaction when, the morning after, he realizes how safely the machinery of the American system can operate under high pressure. Whatever party wins, the country progresses safely on the track of fundamental principles. Party spirit is a good thing. It is the breath of life of "these United States." There have been times when I was as enthusiastic a partisan as any one. But I hope I have never been what could be called an "offensive partisan." It gives me much satisfaction to reflect that I have never declared that the country would go to smash if the party I was opposed to was placed in power by the people.

ROOSEVELT VICTORY PLEASING TO WORLD

(Associated Press.)

The election of Franklin D. Roosevelt was greeted in capitals throughout the world with the hope that it might assist in restoring the world's business and that it might have a beneficent effect on the relations between the United States and other nations. Typical comment:

London—Mr. Roosevelt should supply "new vigor and new liberalism" to American national politics and American economic life. The stock exchange received the result favorably.

Paris—Government circles looked for an American cabinet composed of statesmen entirely familiar with European affairs. Norman H. Davis and Owen D. Young were cited.

Vienna—Brewery shares were in the van in an upward movement on the stock exchange. One paper said the "key to regeneration of the world" rested in Mr. Roosevelt's hands.

Berlin—An officially inspired publication summed up thus: "Words of gratitude to the outgoing and hopeful expectations concerning the incoming President."

Tokyo—Government officials and newspapers said no change in American policy toward the Orient could be expected. Business leaders welcomed the result as improving Japan's economic position. Commodity markets showed the strongest advance in many weeks.

Rome—Wine producers were jubilant. No hope was expressed for debt cancellation or revision. There was a general expectation of greater participation by the United States in the League of Nations, without formal entry.

Buenos Aires—South American papers saw important lessons in the election. A Rio de Janeiro journal said the Roosevelt victory represented "A peaceful revolution of great consequence, which exacted no sacrifice of life or property and offered a magnificent example to the nations of Latin America."

Vatican City—Observatore Romano, Vatican organ, said "the only victor in the election is the American people."

Havana—Cuba hoped for modification of the sugar tariff. One journalist hailed Mr. Roosevelt as "a sort of John, the Baptist, bearing who knows what good tidings for the world in general and Cuba in particular."

Election Unlawful, Virginian Declares

Shafer, 'Bonus Candidate,' Claims House Seat on Technicality.

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—W. B. Shafer, jr., self-styled soldier bonus candidate, claims a seat in the next Congress despite the fact that he polled only a handful of votes in Tuesday's election. In a formal statement he asserts that he is the only candidate who complied with the election laws.

"My legal advisers inform me," he said, "that I am the only candidate for Congress who can be legally elected. The law requires that the names of all candidates shall be printed on the ballot 30 days prior to election, or written on the ballot by the voter on election day, so it looks like they did me a favor by leaving my name off the ballot.

"The ballots were not printed 30 days prior to election as required by law, and such votes as I received were legally written thereon, thus giving me a seat in Congress regardless of the number of votes I polled."

Nurses Are Active In Helping Jobless

Mrs. William Marbury Is Elected to Board of Association.

Mrs. William Marbury was elected to membership on the board of managers of the Instructive Visiting Nurse Association at a recent meeting, it was announced last night. Mrs. Wilder D. Baker, a former member of the board, was reinstated.

A report of the work of the association during the last month showed that 35 per cent of the families carried by the visiting nurses were those of the unemployed. More than 15,000 visits were made to 4,519 patients during the month.

The president, Mrs. Whitman Cross, presided at the meeting and called upon Mr. Lloyd B. Wilson to discuss the Community Chest campaign of this year.

William Allen White Is Busy as 'Pallbearer'

Emporia, Kans., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—William Allen White, militant publisher and strong supporter of President Hoover, was pounding away at his typewriter in the Emporia Gazette offices.

"What are you doing this morning?" asked a staff member.

"Pallbearing," he replied.

Then he went on with his editorials about the defeat of the President and others on the party ticket.

OLD DRESS TAKES FOOD SHOW PRIZE

Mrs. James H. Stansfield Is Victor With Costume of 1854 Vintage.

The costume, including shoes, brooch and shawl, was the overwhelming choice of the audience which, as testified by its applause, recognized in the outfit the mellowing touch of years. The dress, a brown-toned plaid fabric, was lined with homespun linen, dyed with butternut. The collar and cuffs were of handmade embroidery done by the bride herself. The shawl was the gift of an old sea captain in 1850 to the then Miss Eleanor Bensley, who placed it in her dowry chest until she became Mrs. George Snyder four years later. A cameo brooch and shoes with pointed, turned-up toes, completed the costume the audience applauded.

Tonight's contest at the food show, which is sponsored by the District Grocery Stores, Inc., will be a pie-eating competition for girls. The prize will go to the girl who first eats a sizeable section of pastry.

The first of the show's matinees will be held this afternoon. The first of the daily popularity contests for babies also will be held at that time. Santa Claus himself will be at the show this afternoon and each afternoon thereafter until the close of the exhibition Saturday to give presents to little children in attendance.

Last night's opening session of the show was attended by more than 1,000 persons. Exhibitors and show authorities considered this figure high, in view of the wind and rain which pelted the city. An elaborate display of foods, food-preparation equipment and food-marketing devices was revealed in the 50-odd elaborate decorated booths. The program last night was enlivened by the distribution of foodstuffs at intervals throughout the evening, and this procedure will continue each night for the remainder of the exhibition.

E. Frank, 2142 O street, was the recipient of opening night's major gift of a 32-piece set of engraved rock crystal. Tonight's major gift will be a 69-piece set of china imported from Bavaria and sold in Washington at one of Connecticut avenue's exclusive shops.

Greater Protection Of Children Urged

The great necessity for more protective work among the children of the District was stressed at the annual luncheon meeting of the Juvenile Protective Association yesterday at the Y. W. C. A.

Two new directors, Mrs. Earl Baldwin McKinley and Edgar Gerlach, of the Department of Justice, were elected. The followin, whose terms had expired, were renamed: Mrs. George W. Cook, Mrs. Whitman Cross, Miss Mildred Clarke, Mrs. Edith S. Elmore, Mrs. Clarence Aspinwall, Arthur Carr, Joshua Evans, jr., and W. R. Willoughby.

Nearly 800 children were cared for by the association, according to the annual report presented by Miss Mildred Terrett, executive secretary.

Mrs. Florence Baughman, 57, 514 Nineteenth street northwest, suffered minor sprains and bruises yesterday when she was struck, at Seventeenth street and Pennsylvania avenue, by the car of John L. Lyon, 30, 3422 Garfield street northwest. She was treated at Emergency Hospital.

ROOSEVELT'S STAND ON RELIEF IS TOPIC

Aspinwall Tells Chest Gift Unit President-Elect Is Welfare Champion.

The views of President Hoover and President-elect Roosevelt regarding social welfare work were reviewed last night by Clarence A. Aspinwall at a meeting of the special gifts unit of the Community Chest. The meeting, in charge of Mr. Aspinwall, chairman of the unit, was held at the Mayflower.

Pointing to the fact that President-elect Roosevelt had joined in the national mobilization of welfare and relief, Mr. Aspinwall quoted him in a recent radio adddress as saying:

"It would be nothing short of a calamity to have private social and relief work collapse at this time."

The President-elect cited the functions of private social and charity agencies, Mr. Aspinwall said, and said that their work must be increased during the coming months.

Pointing to President Hoover's urge that every citizen support the Community Chest campaign, Mr. Aspinwall quoted him as declaring that "all who have jobs and a regard for the well-being of their fellow men should give to the full extent of their ability."

Dr. William Mather Lewis told the meeting that Washington must give the Nation leadership in charitable work. He declared "we have reached the crucial year," and urged that everyone double their efforts to meet the situation at hand.

Robert V. Fleming, president of the Riggs National Bank, speaking in behalf of the Community Chest over the radio yesterday, declared:

"The need this year in Washington is the greatest in the history of the city. Unemployment has increased during the past year and there are more persons with their resources exhausted and in need of care than ever before."

Auto's Occupants Fire at Policemen

Same Machine Is Sought in Two Attacks in Second Precinct.

Policemen R. L. Manning and H. H. Hodge, of the Second Precinct, were fired upon last night by occupants of an automobile believed to have been equipped with smoke-screen apparatus. As the shooting occurred near the spot where Policeman G. L. Carder was shot at Tuesday night, police are working on the theory that it was the same machine in both instances. Carder was shot at twice, and fired four times in return during a chase along Richardson street.

The car that fired upon the two policemen last night was described as a black sedan with New York license tags.

STALIN'S WIFE DIES; MYSTERIOUS FIGURE

Moscow, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Nadya Alliluieva, the wife of Joseph Stalin, most powerful figure in all Soviet Russia, but herself a retiring woman who lived plainly, died last night.

She was 30 years old. Only a few months ago she had completed a three-year-course at the All-Union Industrial Academy, which qualified her as an expert in the production of artificial silk and made her eligible to a high administrative technical post in an important section of the Soviet textile industry.

In addition to Stalin, their two children—a boy of 12 and a girl of 7—survive her. There also is a stepchild, Stalin's son by a previous marriage, who is 23 years old.

Father Aided Stalin.

Nadya, which is the diminutive of Nadejda, meaning hope, was, like Stalin, of Georgian descent. She was born in 1902, the youngest of two daughters of Sergei Alliluieva, who at that time was a locksmith. At the time of her birth her father already had embraced the Bolshevik faith. In later years, unknown to many as the father-in-law of Stalin, he was to hold a responsible post in the metallurgical industry.

In this man's house Stalin often found refuge in the course of his underground revolutionary activities in Tiflis, and, therefore, he knew Nadya virtually from childhood. At the time of their marriage he was 40 years old and she was 17.

Difficult of Access.

When Stalin attained the fullness of his power, his wife remained consistently in the background, so much so that even less is known about her by the public than about her husband, who has cloaked his private life so completely that only a few intimates know him well.

Virtually nothing was known about her personality until foreign newspapermen discovered last year that she was a student at the All-Union Industrial Academy. Even then her innate modesty, combined with her desire not to bask in her husband's prominence, made her difficult of access.

The last time she was seen in public by foreigners was International Youth Day, September 4, which was celebrated in Red Square.

Shortly after the first announcement of her death was made it was reported that she had been fatally injured in an automobile accident, but subsequently authoritative sources indicated she had succumbed to a normal illness.

Menocal Predicts Machado's Defeat

Miami, Fla., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Deploring present-day conditions in Cuba as "intolerable," Gen. Mario G. Menocal, former president of the island republic, today predicted the early overthrow of the Machado regime.

Gen. Menocal arrived here this week to take up winter residence in Miami with his two sons. Leader of the ill-fated Cuban revolution last August, Gen. Menocal has been in Paris and New York City since his release as a political prisoner.

"The situation in Cuba is more than domestic," he said. "It has international importance in the economical and political fields and has reached a tragic point. Everybody wants to know what is wrong with Cuba."

D. A. R. to Visit Mrs. Sterling.

The Thomas Nelson Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will meet at the home of Mrs. M. L. Sterling, 1327 Girard street northwest, tonight at 8 o'clock.

6 Prisoners, Released To Vote, Fail to Return

Sumter, S. C., Nov. 9 (U.P.).—Thorough celebration of election day by a trusty at Lee County Jail had officers seeking six escaped prisoners tonight.

The trusty, reported the officers, was delivering coal at the jail last night. Six prisoners told him they had not voted. He let them out with the suggestion that they vote. None of the six has been caught.

PARTY'S MAJORITY 129,983 IN MARYLAND

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 9.—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's majority in the Democratic landslide which swept Maryland in yesterday's election, with returns complete in the State's presidential vote, tonight reached a total of 129,983.

Senator Tydings beat his Republican opponent, State Senator Wallace Williams, by a margin of 153,305 to establish a record for majorities in Maryland.

President Hoover carried only 3 of the 23 counties—Allegany, Calvert and Garrett. The majority for the Democratic national ticket in Baltimore City alone was 80,956. Smith lost Baltimore to President Hoover in 1928 by 9,076 votes, and carried only two counties—Queen Annes and St. Marys—losing the State to Hoover by 77,853.

9,223 Votes for Thomas

Roosevelt carried Charles County by 439, Montgomery by 3,506 and Prince Georges by 3,779.

Incomplete State returns give Norman Thomas 9,223 votes, but indications are the total will go over 10,500, as against a total of 1,701 in 1928. It is thought that William Z. Foster polled approximately 1,000 votes in the State, complete returns in Baltimore City giving him 641.

Are Resting From Strain.

Maryland's congressional candidates, Senator Tydings included, seemed much more disposed today to undertake recuperation from the strain of their campaigns and the election than to map programs for the next session.

Senator Tydings, who campaigned more and harder than any of the rest—although he devoted most of his efforts to the national ticket and only casually mentioned his own candidacy—went to Washington early today to answer congratulatory telegrams.

He said he would not hold out too many promises, but he would not be surprised if beer is legalized at the short session of Congress, and added: "If it doesn't come then I feel sure it will win in the following session."

Kennedy New Member.

Maryland again will be represented in the House by six Democrats, five of its present members being re-elected. The State's new representative is Ambrose J. Kennedy, Fourth District. Complete House returns follow:

First District.

T. Alan Goldsborough	39,580

GEN. MALONE VALUES FORECASTING WARS

Rotary Club Diners Are Told Warnings Can Be Used to Safeguard Peace.

That great wars cast their shadows before them, and that the trained student of military affairs can forsee their approach, was asserted by Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone, commanding general of the Third Corps Area, in an address made yesterday at the Willard luncheon of the Washington Rotary Club.

In proof of this claim, Gen. Malone, who holds the Distinguished Service Cross, the French Croix de Guerre and numerous other honors, told how an officer of the French military staff, as early as 1911, predicted the actual strategy of the German army in the world war, even to the extent of referring to a hypothetical "Battle of the Marne," which a few years later became a tragic reality.

This ability to foresee military conflicts, the general said, should be of inestimable value in efforts to banish wars, which efforts will be successful when the ideal of equality of ecoonmic opportunity is realized for all nations. In this connection he commended the efforts of Rotary International to promote closer and more harmonious international relations.

Pending the realization of the ideal of economic equality, he said, all Americans should unite in upholding the integrity of the national defense act, which created our present National Army, with its various units, such as the National Guard, the C. M. T. C. and the R. O. T. C., all of which constitute the basis of an effective self-defense organization in times of national peril.

President Arthur C. Christie presided at the meeting, and the speaker was introduced by Daniel J. Callahan. A new member of the club, Marcy L. Sperry, president of the Washington Gas Light Co., was introduced by Edwin C. Graham. Secretary Thomas L. Eagan presented two resolutions of the board of directors, both of which were approved by the club, the first indorsing the "share-the-work" movement now being launched in the District, and the second indorsing the home modernization program of the national movement for industrial rehabilitation.

Three Judges Recalled By Los Angeles Ballot

Los Angeles, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Three superior court judges apparently were recalled in yesterday's election. The trio, who became involved in the affairs of the defunct American Mortgage Co., were Dailey S. Stafford, John L. Fleming and Walter Guerin.

The three judges were charged in the recall petition with unethical conduct, having allegedly accepted presents of clothing and having been entertained by the receivers whom they were instrumental in appointing.

La Follette Is Gratified By Roosevelt Landslide

Erie, Pa., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Senator Robert La Follette, of Wisconsin, is "highly gratified" with the results of Tuesday's election in the United States and his home State.

"I am highly gratified at the course taken," the Progressive Republican leader said tonight while here to deliver a lecture. "The Progressive Republicans will cooperate with the Democrats in everything constructive."

HOW TO STOP A COLD QUICK AS YOU CAUGHT IT

A New Method Doctors Everywhere Are Advising

FOLLOW DIRECTIONS PICTURED BELOW

Take 1 or 2 Bayer Aspirin Tablets. Drink Full Glass of Water. If throat is sore, crush and dissolve 3 Bayer Aspirin Tablets in a half glass of warm water and gargle according to directions.

Almost Instant Relief In This Way

If you have a cold—don't take chances with "cold killers" and nostrums. A cold is too dangerous to take chances on.

It is recognized as the QUICKEST, safest, surest way. For it will check an ordinary cold almost as fast as you caught it.

That is because the real BAYER Aspirin embodies certain medical qualities that strike at the base of a cold almost INSTANTLY.

You can combat nearly any cold you get simply by taking BAYER Aspirin and drinking plenty of water every 2 to 4 hours the first day and 3 or 4 times daily thereafter. If throat is sore, gargle with 3 BAYER Aspirin Tablets crushed and dissolved in a half glass of warm water, repeating every 2 or 3 hours as necessary. Sore throat eases this way in a few minutes, incredible as this may seem.

Ask your doctor about this. And when you buy, see that you get the real BAYER Aspirin Tablets. They dissolve almost instantly. And thus work almost instantly when you take them. And for a gargle, Genuine Bayer Aspirin Tablets dissolve with sufficient speed and completeness, leaving no irritating particles or grittiness. Get a box of 12 or bottle of 100 at any drug store.

A great new pastime, that has swept its way to popularity throughout the South, now makes its debut in Washington through The Washington Post. It is a blend of Ping-Pong and Yo-Yo; played with a paddle and ball, but with the ball attached to the paddle by means of an elastic cord. All sorts of tricks can be done with the Rick-Rack—with practice—but it is equally fascinating to the inexperienced.

White House to See Many Young Folk in New Regime

Four Sons, One Daughter, Son-in-Law, Two Daughters-in-Law, Grandson and Two Granddaughters Included in Family of Gov. Roosevelt.

(Associated Press.)

Administrations come and go, political complexions change, but the young folk in the White House keep right on appealing to the American people.

The election of Franklin D. Roosevelt assures, after March 4, plenty of energetic, individualistic youth to enliven the old mansion on Pennsylvania avenue.

Four sons, one daughter, a son-in-law, two daughters-in-law, a grandson, two grandmothers will constitute his contribution in the presidential family.

Not since the Republican Roosevelt, Theodore, advocate of large families, occupied the Executive Mansion in the early 1900's, has there been such a large group of young folk.

Theodore, distant cousin of Democratic Franklin D., and uncle of the next, mistress of the White House, had a tremendous hold on popular interest with one grown daughter, "Princess Alice;" a younger daughter, Edith, and four sons of the age to keep menageries on the south lawn and to have as many chums staying all night as could be crowded into the huge old Lincoln bed, sleeping sidewise.

As only niece of "T. R.," Mrs. Franklin herself shared in that quarter-century-ago limelight, the whole country reading what she wore at her cousin Alice's White House wedding, and what her cousin Alice wore at hers in New York.

Ever since their father declared his candidacy, the young Roosevelts have been hustling in his cause, working as a unit in Chicago, sharing his air-trip acceptance, riding his campaign train, cheer-leading, speech-making.

There's young James, the President-elect's "right hand man," slim 6-footer introduced across the country as "my little boy Jimmy." And James has a slim, pretty wife, Betsy.

There's slender, blue-eyed, vivacious Anna Roosevelt Dall, who, like her mother, combines homemaking with politics and philanthropy—and still finds time to help edit a magazine. Her husband is Curtis Dall, an efficacious Rosevelt rooter.

Elliott Roosevelt and his wife Betty make a third young couple, and then come the schoolboys, Franklin, jr., 18, and John, 16.

And to make things lively in that third floor nursery when holidays bring the children and grandchildren home, there'll be "Sistie" Dall, aged 5, whose name really is Anna Eleanor, like her mother and grandmother before her; her little brother, Curtis, aged 2, better known as "Buz-Buz," and wee Sarah Delano, the 8-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Roosevelt.

Roosevelt May Put Pool in White House

(Associated Press.)

A new departure in sports may come to the White House with Franklin D. Roosevelt.

His favorite recreation is swimming and persons who know him intimately are wondering if he will install a swimming pool in the Executive Mansion.

Mr. Roosevelt has found this type of exercise beneficial physically as well as a means of relaxation.

He has spent many hours in the refreshing waters of Warm Springs, Ga., and there won a partial recovery from the infantile paralysis which struck him down in 1921.

What Today Means to You

"SCORPIO."

If November 10 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this day are from 2 p. m. to 3:30 p.m., from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m. and from 11 p. m. to 11:45 p. m. The danger hours are from 9 a. m. to 10 a. m. and from 8 p. m. to 9:30 p. m.

Start this November 10 right and it will end right. The results that you will get from this day's activities will depend largely on yourself. Start out on the right foot and reap the rewards of right desires and right activity. Begin the day with a dismal, depressed and grouchy outlook and watch petty annoyances and difficulties pile up all along the way. It is within your power to make it a fruitful day.

Children born on this November 10 will be guided by impulses. Care should be taken to guard them against unwise ones. Habits formed early in life are difficult to overcome, and particularly is this true of these little ones. These children must be made to realize the value of promptness and punctuality. They must be taught to save money, but not to be miserly about it. Affectionate and loving.

Born on November 10, you have a flare for the dramatic. You most probably look upon life as a dramatic episode, and your happiness comes from your invariably seeing yourself as playing some role. You never visualize yourself as playing a minor part. You have an inborn conceit which is not at all becoming. You have few friends as a result, and those you do have often wonder just what it is about you they do like. Most probably they sense that deep within you is a really worth while person, kind and friendly, sincere and honest and considerate of others. Why not attempt to bring forth this suppressed self? You can do it, and the results will be conducive to much happiness.

A career on the stage would probably prove successful. You would do well in almost any field requiring powers of visualization and creativeness. Your love and understanding of children would enable you to successfully deal with them from almost any approach. You have keen but undeveloped powers of observation. Learn to study and observe the people about you, for you will find that a great deal of your success will depend upon your ability to profit from the successes and failures of others. Seek to lead a normal existence in every way; curb your tendencies to eccentricity in dress, actions and speech. Make your head rule your heart in affairs of sentiment.

Successful people born on November 10:

Alexander P. Moore, editor, Ambassador to Spain.

Winston Churchill, author.

Henry Van Dyke, clergyman and author.

Amos E. Dolbear, physicist and inventor.

(Department of Labor.)

Does your little boy eat the things you give him?

Or does he say "I don't like milk" or "I won't eat vegetables?"

A child likes to do what his parents do. He likes to say what they say. Has he seen father leave spinach on his plate? Then he, too, will not eat spinach. Has he heard mother say "I don't like oatmeal?" he, too, will say "I don't like oatmeal." These are bad food habits. You began them without knowing it. You can stop them. It is easy to start good food habits when a child is little. It is hard to break bad ones when he is big.

Prepare food that is good for children. The doctor will tell you what are good foods for children. The Children's Bureau in Washington, D. C., will send you directions for feeding your children if you write and ask for them.

Stomachs form habits like people. A hungry stomach makes a cross child. A stomach that has too much food makes a cross child, too. Feed your child at the same hours every day. See that his little hands are clean before he eats. Make the table look pretty. Call the children to the table. See that they sit down quietly. Serve each child a little of each food. Eat some of everything yourself. Show that you like everything. Never say "I do not like this."

Never ask your child or anyone else "Do you like this?" Before you ask this, perhaps a plate of food makes him think "I'm hungry; I want to eat." He does not think anything about like or not like. He only thinks "food—hungry—eat." After you ask this you make him think something new. "Perhaps I don't like it. No; I don't. I won't eat it." He does not think any more "food—hungry—eat." He thinks "food—like or not like—eat or not eat." Then the bad food habit begins. This is why we must never ask anyone "Do you like this?"

If the child says he does not like it, pay no attention. Do not talk about food at all. If he does not eat, pay no attention. Let him go off without eating. It will not hurt him to miss a meal. It will not hurt him to miss two meals. Do not give him anything to eat until the next meal. If he does not eat at the next meal, pay no attention. It will not hurt him to miss three meals. Do not be afraid. Soon he will be hungry. Then he will eat what you give him. Watch your child if he does not want any food. He may be getting sick.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

An evening gown in three shades of purple. The skirt is of bluish and deeper grape purple, the peplum of a decidedly fuchsia tone and the bands of the odd decolletage in royal purple velvet. (A Dare design.)

JUST what place has a raincoat in the modern woman's wardrobe?

Well, that's an easy one. It has just such a place that scarcely any one can afford to be without one—less she be a lovely and favored lady who steps out of her door into her limousine to go two blocks to meet her Prince Charming—but where, alas, is such a lady today? In memory and history, I fear, and not in actuality!

In actuality this same lovely lady has a lot to do, and plenty of rain in which to do it sometimes. Shopping, the housewife's daily, or at least thrice weekly, going out; club work, the active woman's interest, which takes her out in all sorts of weather; business and office routine for the business and professional woman, and campus tramping for the coed. Name me a profession that does not take us out into the rain!

And a raincoat one must have. Nor is it any trial, in these days of styles in raincoats. Why, even georgette has been processed so that it sheds the rain! And as to style, one has a choice of anything from an enveloping and striking George Sandesque circular black cape to a processed georgette dress that sheds water like a duck's back—and looks something like one, too, in its iridescence.

A tailleur for the business woman, or the out-and-out day in the rain, is made of supple chamois—yes, skirt as well as jacket, and the skin processed to shed water. This would be my choice if I had to spend the day in the open, but not if my rainy weather consisted of only going and coming in the rain. For this, then, I would prefer a raincoat in crepe de chine rubberized, for so supple and chic would this coat be from its tailored lines and high waistline to its scarf collar that I would yearn for a rainy day, positively!

Or if my activities, which they do, took me neither out all day in the rain nor to and from an office in it, but caused me to dress fairly formally as to frock and coat, then I would have a raincoat with big sleeves and shoulder openings, only loosely belted and otherwise free and ample, of rubberized or processed crepe de chine, in a beige or navy blue or dark red—and this would slip on over my dress coat and frock, and be left in the check room or in my car.

Choose your rainy weather wear, then, for your needs, and search until you find the new rainy weather wear—in all its new and fascinating material, cut and line. You'll love 'em!

• • • •

The purples that one reads about in the mode have not made much public appearance in evening wear; now, have they? But they should—and I do think they will, once we become convinced that the new purple purples are flattering, and not at all the harsh, regal and royal purple of autrefois. New purple tones are softly, flatteringly lovely, admixed with rose and red, or bluish, or fuchsia and dahlia shades. And they do so blend in harmonizing tones!

So, just for that I designed an evening dress in three shades of purple for myself and have sketched it for you today—the skirt of a bluish and deeper grape purple, almost black, and the peplum of a decidedly fuchsia tone—but one that blends beautifully with the skirt, you may be sure. Then the bands of the odd decolletage are of velvet, laced together to form an interesting line, and they are of royal purple. How do you like that?

• • • •

Clever Fingers makes herself shoe buckles this week, and has a pair, each different, for each pair of shoes in her shoe box! One is round and of cut steel—another pair is square and bronze, and for her satin slippers jet, no less! And she makes 'em all in a couple of hours, sewing the beads onto the mysterious squares while her beau is visiting. If you would like darling shoe buckles, every bit as smart as anything you could buy, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this week's illustrated leaflet, which tells you how to make them in your own spare finger time. Nice for Christmas gifts, you know.

Au revoir!

THE STRATEGY OF OVERCALLING OR NOT OVERCALLING—II.

THERE are certain intermediate hands where the opponents have opened the bidding with one of a suit and you hold about 2½ or 3 honor-tricks with a balanced hand. On this particular type of hand, unless your partner can take definite action, you have no hope of big things; in fact, it is doubtful that you will be able to make as much as a part-score. However, your main hope on this hand in order to get a plus score, is that the opponents get to a game contract which you can defeat. Naturally, an immediate strength-showing Overcall by you would not tend to aid them to reach this game; therefore, a pass is the best policy.

I have been speaking of balanced hands. However, even though the opponents are vulnerable and you are not vulnerable, and you have a fairly strong hand, or even an average hand containing a little over 1½ honor-tricks with an unbalanced distribution, including a good suit of your own, now is the time to overcall, either with a simple Overcall, Jump Overcall, or a Takeout Double, depending upon your distribution and exact amount of honor strength. Hands wherein you hold a long suit of your own, naturally are not as potent defensively.

Holding a strong hand with a fairly good suit of your own and hearing an opponent opening the bidding, do not fear to use the Takeout Double whenever possible, even though you have a suit sufficiently strong for an Overcall; if your hand is quite large and contains considerable defense, double first—of course, providing that the suit itself is not good enough for a Jump Overcall. When you double first and later support your partner's bid, or bid your own suit, you are letting your partner know that you are attacking and not defending, which a simple Overcall might indicate; you are telling him that you are really interested in a game which you think can be made, and not looking for a spot to take a sacrifice; you are telling your partner you will probably have sufficient strength to defeat an opposing game contract.

A word of admonition must be given against weak Overcalls, even when not vulnerable—that is, overcalling on hands with but 1½ honor-tricks and a very doubtful suit of your own. In other words, when making Overcalls on hands containing the minimum amount of honor strength—that is, 1½ honor-tricks—it is necessary to have a fairly solid or fairly playable trump suit of your own. This, of course, is covered elsewhere in mentioning the playing strength needed for both non-vulnerable and vulnerable Overcalls. But if part of your playing strength is in an outside four-card suit, your trump suit itself has to show good hopes of being able to clear the opponents' trumps if you are going to derive any benefit from the outside four-card suit.

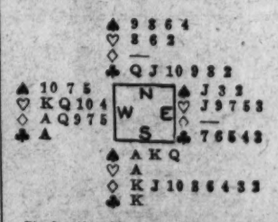
With better Contract players, the big penalties almost invariably come at low contracts, as by the time any fairly respectable team reaches a game or Slam contract, they have had plenty of opportunity to exhange all possible information and should not be in the wrong suit or more than 2 tricks too high. But when one makes a simple Overcall on a doubtful hand, without knowing whether his partner has anything in his suit or not, he is laying himself open to a set of 3 or 4, or even 5 tricks.

In short, learn to recognize the type of hand on which it is best to overcall for offensive reasons, the type of hand on which it is best to overcall for defensive reasons, the type of hand on which it is best to pass strategically for offensive reasons, or the hand on which it is best to pass for defensive reasons. Never be afraid to pass a doubtful holding with a good partner.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

South—Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.



Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

CONTRACT SCORE CARDS.

The new values for suits, tricks over book, undertrick penalties and overtrick values, when vulnerable or not vulnerable, are all contained upon a handy-sized card now being distributed by The Washington Post. . . . Ask for these cards at The Washington Post business office or they will be mailed to you upon receipt of your address accompanied by a three-cent stamp.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

LEARN THE WAY FIRST.

Dr. C. warns against the indiscriminate use of light and heat therapy. He tells of a young lady who hurt her instep and had a mild inflammation of the muscles and tendons. She used an infrared light. She overdosed herself and got an extensive inflammation of her foot, ankle and leg which required six months' treatment to cure. There were several months' invalidism.

He supplements with another story—one illustrating the folly of treating oneself unless one knows just what he is treating, just what to do, and just how to do it. A man was told that a peppermint solution was good for hemorrhoids. This informant had used it externally for external hemorrhoids. The man used it as an enema. He paid a great penalty for daring to go ahead without knowing what he was about.

ERUPTIONS ON FACE.

M. A. L. writes: Can you tell me the cause of an eruption on the face, of small watery pimples and redness when they dry up? I watch my diet and elimination carefully, and use creams on the skin very seldom.

REPLY.

There is always a suspicion that an eruption of this description is due to chemicals, though possibly you are giving a poor description of acne.

If yours is due to some chemical, have you considered hair dyes and face powders?

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

VIRGIL, I believe, said that Dame Rumor has wings, that's why she gets around so fast. She must also have feet to get so deeply rooted. In the matter of old-fashioned beauty notions, at least.

Superfluous Hair.

Superfluous hair is the first question that comes to my mind. Thousands of women are still under the impression that creams encourage the growth of hair on the face and for that reason refuse to use a cleansing cream or softening cream that might actually take ten years from their faces without adding any hair whatever. Every day brings many letters, the gist of which is:

"My skin is very sensitive to exposure and I have been told that a little protective cream and cleansing with cream would help, but I'm afraid to use cream because it might grow hair."

There is no scientific basis for this impression. As I have pointed out previously, the film stars in Hollywood are very faithful to their cream jars. So are the folks whose names appear in bright lights over the "legitimate" theater. And they certainly aren't suffering from the superfluous hair malady. And if it will help to convince you, let me tell you that I personally have used creams daily, and sometimes several times a day, and only the softest suggestion of down remains, no more than I was born with, I daresay.

Superfluous hair is now attributed to inheritance or glandular disturbances. But creams and cosmetics are not contributors to the cause.

While on the subject of superfluous hair, the question of supersensitiveness enters. Too many women mistake the natural, soft, protective down which was put on every face for a purpose. The face was not meant to be as free as the palm of the hand.

Women who possess a naturally misty, dewy complexion are fortunate. That is just what the normal skn should be. It is a mistake to construe it as oiliness and to scrub and powder to a hard, weather-beaten dryness.

Likewise with the hair. Oiliness is one thing. Gloss another. The first is sticky, unwholesome-looking, hard to manage, whereas luster and highlights are highly desirable and indicate healthy, cared-for tresses.

Not Harmful.

Under the heading of harmful, some women erroneously list rouge, powder and particularly eye make-up. Rouge and powder of the better brands are actually beneficial because they serve to protect the skin from sun and wind hazards. Eye make-up, getting into the eyes, may smart, but if it's good that's all the damage it can do (if you can call a minute's irritation damage). Women who shake their heads negatively when asked "a permanent, madam?" forget that science marches forward. The old prejudices against permanents have been overcome. With the new methods of testing, timing, controlling the heat and the use of tonic lotions in preparation, the permanent of today seldom leaves the hair the dry, straw-like mass the wave of yesteryear did.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

MGR. JAMES H. RYAN, rector, is making elaborate preparations for the national Catholic University broadcast from Washington on Sunday, November 20. This will be one of the most important broadcasts which have yet been attempted under Catholic auspices. Participating will be Cardinal O'Connell, Archbishop Curley, Archbishop Glennon, Archbishop Hanna and Archbishop Murray.

It will not be possible for his holiness, Pope Pius XI, to speak directly over the radio, but he has prepared a special message to be read by a special legate on this occasion.

The Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra will be heard in the first of five matinee concerts over WRC at 3:15 o'clock this afternoon. Arthur Bodanzky, Wagnerian conductor of the Metropolitan Opera, will direct. His program will include the Mahler arrangement of Bach's "Orchestra Suite With Organ and Cembalo" and two Mendelssohn compositions, the overture and "Wedding March" from "Midsummer Night's Dream."

The ceremony attendant to presentation of the 1932 gold medal for diction on the radio awarded by the American Academy of Arts and Letters to David Ross, C. B. S. announcer, will be broadcast this afternoon (WJSV, 3 o'clock).

Two leading English stage artists—Colin Keith-Johnston, star of the London and New York production of "Journey's End," and Jack Buchanan, now in America for the opening of his new moving picture, "Magic Night"—will be featured with Rudy Vallee and his Connecticut Yankees (WRC, 8 p. m.). Helen Broderick, of the "Vanities," and her partner, Lester Crawford, and Eddie Peabody, banjoist, will be heard on the same program.

The November meeting of the Washington Section of the Institute of Radio Engineers will be held tonight at the Kennedy-Warren. Dinner will be served at 6:30 o'clock. At 8 o'clock, Allen B. Du Mont will speak on "Cathode Ray Tubes: Their Characteristics and Applications."

"EAR by Ear," the work of 18 champion huskers representing nine corn belt States, will be described for listeners direct from the scene of the national corn-husking contest during the National Farm and Home Hour (WRC, 12:30 p. m.).

Capt. W. J. Stannard, leader of the U. S. Army Band, has arranged a special Armistice Day program for this afternoon (WJSV, 4 o'clock).

SPECIAL programs in connection with American Education Week will be carried over both chains today. H. E. Warner, president of the D. C. Education Association, will act as master of ceremonies for a half-hour broadcast, beginning at 6 o'clock over WRC. The speakers will be Louis A. Johnson, national commander of the American Legion; Frank Morrison, of the American Federation of Labor, and the Rev. Joseph R. Sizoo, of Washington.

Jane Addams will talk over WRC at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon in a special program for the colored race. The Howard University Choir will be heard at this time.

The George Washington University Glee Club, directed by Dr. Robert Harmon, will be heard during the Community Chest program (WMAL, 7:45 p. m.).

THE Nation-wide popularity poll sponsored by the United American Bosch Corporation, of Springfield, Mass., shows that men are more popular than women on the air. In comparison to the number of feminine entertainers' names received, almost three times as many masculine performers appear on the ballots.

Despite this fact, the first six places in the contest are held evenly by both sexes. Among the singers, Jessica Dragonette leads everyone. Lawrence Tibbett upholds the masculine end. Other favorites are Ruth Etting, Kate Smith, Arthur Tracy and Morton Downey.

LOUISE McNERNEY, pianist, will be presented in a 15-minute recital over WRC at 3 o'clock today.

There will be a description of tonight's wrestling matches on WOL at 9:30 o'clock.

"THE Postilion" up-to-the-minute news from The Washington Post may be tuned in on WMAL at 10 o'clock every night.

My Fellow Citizens of Washington: Can you . . . and will you, Face Facts?

Or do you feel that you must be spared the truth when the truth involves heartache and calls for sacrifice?

Upon your answer to these questions will depend the success or failure of this effort to reach your hearts and, ultimately, the success or failure of this year's Community Chest Campaign.

That campaign is about to begin.

As general chairman thereof it is my duty to report to you, in the role of a trustee reporting to stockholders, as to the picture with which the Chest is this year faced. It is a picture that, when seriously contemplated, will produce two effects.

It will, in the first place, sicken the soul of any compassionate man or woman.

It will, in the second place, inspire determination to meet the challenge of distress and suffering, hunger and despair, and triumph over the conditions from which that challenge comes.

Those are abstract words. I know the impossibility of bringing home truth by abstractions. Distress and suffering and hunger and despair, used in general terms, cannot paint the real picture. The mere statement that hundreds and thousands of your fellow citizens are today facing distress in the form of hunger and utter despair cannot carry its full significance to you unless you know, or have known, the meaning of hunger and hopelessness. It cannot carry its real significance to you unless you know, from personal contact, some cold and frightened child and in that child's eyes have read a story too tragic for words to tell. I know, for I have seen the almost unbelievable suffering of our neighbors.

I ask you to share with me the burden of that knowledge.

I know of a man and his wife and two small children who, until they were found, lived in an unventilated, inside room of a dilapidated tenement, without sanitation, with one bed and filthy cast-off clothes for covering. The mother was about to give birth to another baby. Stale bread and rice and water had been their food for weeks.

I have talked with the father of a family of nine who, until they were rescued, lived in a damp cellar. There was no stove. For months they did not have a warm meal. The children were in rags, held about them with pins, ashamed of their nakedness. The father said he didn't care what happened—they would all be better off, he cried, dead.

I know of a widowed mother of six—the eldest a boy; the next two girls, both deaf and dumb, and one of them half blind; the next two imbeciles and the baby suffering from infantile paralysis. They were found living in the outskirts of our city in a tumbledown barn. Their only food was the food they took from nearby farmers' fields.

I know of one man and have heard of several others who, for weeks, fed his family on refuse collected from the garbage cans of the northwest.

These are facts, terrible and true. They are typical of distress which has been going on about you, but from knowledge of which you have been spared.

It is my duty to tell you that the situation is growing worse. Every competent authority warns that no improvement can be anticipated this Winter. The improvement of business will not reach those who suffer for months, perhaps years. More than 22,000 of our fellow citizens are today registered as unemployed. More than 4,000 families are dependent upon our relief agencies. The number grows daily. The need, cruel and imperative, is here. You and I must face it.

Facing it, those in charge of the Chest campaign have set this year's goal at $2,419,787. This is the same amount actually pledged last year. A deficit of almost $300,000 will have actually been incurred by the Chest during the year, this additional sum having been borrowed. Our goal is the basic minimum amount needed, with every possible economy put into effect by the Chest and its member agencies.

We propose to raise this sum—$2,419,787—between now and November 24th in the most intensive campaign this city has ever witnessed.

We shall, in the main, follow old and well-tested methods. But we have adopted one innovation which will, we believe, enable every Washingtonian who is not himself jobless and destitute and in despair, to contribute substantially toward meeting the vital needs of the hour, without feeling the burden too heavily.

That plan is simply this: Whereas, in the past, we have asked every Washingtonian to give whatever number of dollars he could for that year's Chest, this year we ask him to give as many cents or even dollars, as he can—each and every day of the year.

Thought of in those terms, Chest contributions cannot seem so burdensome. Were I to ask each of you if you could find it possible to give twenty-five or thirty cents a day to support the sixty-five agencies of Washington represented in the Chest for a whole year—I know that many would not turn me down. Yet, the fact is that if one did give such a sum, or twenty-seven cents a day, to be exact, one would fall just a few cents short of contributing $100 for the year. If one gives but ten cents or five cents the total contribution would stand at $36.50 or $18.25, respectively.

I submit that, even after what we have all been through, a vast majority of our citizens can afford to pay at least the price of a candy-bar and a package of gum a day, in order that a neighbor's child may not go unfed, or remain cold and sick, that homes may be kept together, and that mothers and fathers may not face the agony and bitterness which, in far too many cases, is their lot today.

This, then, will be our method of solicitation!

How many cents or dollars will you give a day to the vital welfare needs of your city?

We propose to take that question to every Washingtonian. Not only to the heads of households, but to every man and woman—yes, and child, too. In offices, in factories, in stores, in government departments, in drawing rooms and pantries and nurseries and kitchens that question is going to be asked three or four hundred thousand times between November 14th and 24th.

We shall try to make it easy and convenient for every one to answer that question in terms which will insure meeting at least the basic Chest needs in 1933. We shall try to show how the pennies and nickels and dimes and quarters can be banked in a tin cup or a little box or a well-darned sock from day to day and week to week until at the end of each month the collected sum is forwarded to the Chest. We do, and we shall continue to understand that it is hard for many of us to see our way clear to giving large sums as a lump to the Chest this year. But we do and shall continue to contend that there are dozens and scores and hundreds of ways that citizens of Washington can save a nickel or dime or a quarter or even a dollar a day, if they feel that by so doing they can help to abolish the kind of unspeakable suffering of which I have told you—and much of which I have not spoken.

The campaign has been planned to meet the full needs of the hour. It contemplates the fact that the heroic efforts necessary to feed and clothe and house the destitute are not enough—that equally heroic efforts are essential to preserve, for them, through our character and morale-sustaining agencies, some semblance of their faith in humanity and in their country. Unemployment, which robs men of their bread and homes, also robs them of their security and balance and self-confidence and self-respect.

Unless, when the depression shall lift, we are willing to have upon our hands here in Washington and throughout America, thousands and millions of demoralized, discontented, fallen and pauperized citizens, we must translate compassion and sympathy into dollars contributed to the privately supported philanthropy of our nation. No thoughtful citizen can fail to realize that the reasonable and sensible solution of such changes in our economic and social structure as are bound to take place in the years just ahead will depend largely upon how we shall see our suffering fellow citizens through these black months.

The Community Chest is yours. Its success or failure is your responsibility. That you are familiar with its record, that you know of its accomplishments in improving local welfare methods and conditions is testified to by the fact that last year more than 120,000 of you contributed to its support. I say to you, with the sincerity of a profound conviction, that this year that number should be increased and that there is no man or woman in Washington who has a job and food and clothing and a roof for those he loves, who should not play his part in this great task before us. I pledge you my word as to the genuineness of the emergency.

The slogan for this year's Chest campaign is a phrase that is ages old. It has been whispered in the name of God by millions through those ages. It is worn smooth and beautiful as are the steps of an old cathedral. "Give unto us our daily bread." All that man asks of his God upon his knees is in that plea. Not just that hunger of the body shall be met—but that security and self-respect and peace of heart and all that makes life worth living may be vouchsafed to him. On behalf of your neighbors who today walk in a dark valley, and in His name by whom our prayers are heard, we voice that plea to Washington. God grant that your answer may be a compassionate and unanimous Amen.

Newbold Noyes

General Campaign Chairman.

POST CONTEST FILM FINISHES RUN TODAY

Free Trip to Paris Offered in Competition Based on "One-Way Passage."

SYNOPSIS

Dan Hardesty and Joan Ames meet in Hongkong's most famous international bar and fall in love at first sight. They are passengers on the same liner bound for San Francisco, but each hides from the other the sentence of death that hangs over them. Joan has an incurable heart ailment. Dan faces a death penalty at San Quentin.

Eluding officers, Dan has one glorious day with Joan at Honolulu. He plans to escape on a tramp steamer bound for Mexico. On the way to boat, he tells Joan of his trip. The shock brings another heart attack and Dan forfeits his chance for freedom in order to get the woman he loves safely back to the steamer. En route to the American coast she proposes that they meet New Year's Eve in Agua Caliente and Dan, hiding his grief, accepts with a cheerful smile. Later she learns from a steward what awaits him when he arrives. When he says good-by, they both repeat their pledges to meet below the Mexican border. At that supreme moment neither can say "good-by."

By the looks of yesterday's mail bags received by the "One Way Passage" Editor of The Post, Washington has found a new indoor sport. And that sport is writing interpretations of motion picture endings. Although contestants have until November 17 to send in their entries, many thousands are not waiting, but sending theirs in now before they forget in the last-minute rush of things.

A round trip to Paris, with all expenses paid, is the grand prize to be awarded the winner of the "One Way Passage" contest being sponsored by The Washington Post and Warner Bros.' Earle Theater. The contest is being conducted in conjunction with the showing of "One Way Passage," which ends today at Warner Bros. Earle Theater.

Kay Francis and William Powell, one of the most popular romantic teams on the screen, are starred in this picture, which has a very unusual and intensely dramatic ending, which can be interpreted either literally or symbolically.

It is for the most logical twenty-word interpretation that the round trip to France will be awarded. Expenses also will be paid for an escort chosen by the winner.

The winner and escort's happy days of pleasure will start with an air trip to New York on one of the hugs airliners of the Eastern Air Transport system. While enjoying a stopover in New York, they will make their home at the Edison Hotel.

The trip across the Atlantic to France and return will be on one of the best ships afloat, the S. S. Paris, of the French Line.

There are only a few simple rules which must be followed.

1. No employe of a Warner Bros. theater, The Washington Post, the French Line, Eastern Air Transport, or relatives of any employe of these firms is eligible.

2. The answer must be sent to the "One Way Passage" Editor of The Washington Post, postmarked not later than midnight seven days following the closing of the picture, that is, November 17.

3. It will not be necessary to see the picture, "One Way Passage." You may write your ending from the synopsis published in this issue of The Post.

Remember—the showing of "One Way Passage" ends tonight. Although it is not necessary to see the picture, the story on the screen will aid materially in writing your ending. The synopsis in today's issue of The Post will be the last one published.

Winner will be selected as soon after closing date as possible.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

RETENTIVE memories will recall that some weeks ago in this space the feature productions, stars and directors eligible for awards of merit at the annual awards banquet of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, to be held in Hollywood on November 18, were made known.

Now the awards committee of the Academy announces its nominations for short subject awards to be made in three classes on the same occasion. The nominated pictures are:

Comedies: "The Music Box," Laurel and Hardy; "The Loud Mouth," Mack Sennett; "Scratch as Catch Can," RKO-Radio.

Novelties: "Screen Souvenirs," Paramount; "Wrestling Swordfish," Mack Sennett; "Swing High," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Cartoons: "Flowers and Trees," the first of Walt Disney's "Silly Symphonies" to be executed in natural colors; "It's Got Me Again," Warner Brothers; "Mickey's Orphans," Walt Disney.

One short film in each group will be selected by vote of a special committee to receive the Academy's highest honor.

Following the reverberating crash of the Republican collapse, that heavy detonation you heard in all probability was Fred A. Marshall, big shot of Columbia Pictures' exploitation department, a frequent and welcome visitor in the Capital this season, popping off about "Man Against Woman," the latest of his company's productions to be scheduled for an important Washington booking.

This new Jack Holt vehicle rates attention on a variety of scores, prominent among which is the fact that it is being given its world premier at RKO-Keith's tomorrow. It is so hot off the griddle that special prints are being rushed from the laboratory on the coast to this city by special airplane and are expected to be still warm when Mr. Meakin takes the covers off the tin cans in which they are making the trip.

Then, for those with an eye to pulchritude, platinums and periphery, there is the matter of Lillian Miles' making her debut opposite Mr. Holt in this subject. Miss Miles is said to be a young woman who may be relied upon to make the wide-awake look twice.

As less immediate causes of celebration are cited the additional items of shrewd character work by that eminent actor, Mr. Walter Connolly, recently seen as the aging Senator Wylie with Lee Tracy and Constance Cummings in "Washington Merry-Go-Round," and direction by Irving Cummings.

Mr. Cummings, of course, all theater enthusiasts worthy of the name will remember as a former member of the stock company conducted by Monta Bell, who used to be a newspaperman himself, once, at the old Shubert-Garrick Theater—the one, if your recollections are getting a little hazy, who never knew his lines until the Saturday night the piece was coming off, and then wasn't sure!

Yesterday was mail day from dear old Lunnon.

Because it was a post card, the first piece picked up from the morning grist piled neatly in the middle of my desk (yes it was!) was a friendly message out of the past.

There must be people still living who remember when Viola Abrams, accomplished young harpist, was a prominent member of the Crandall musical organization in Washington and an habitual soloist on the air with the Crandall Saturday Nighters. Miss Abrams for many seasons now has been a member of a feminine harp ensemble that has achieved note on the concert and vaudeville stages. According to the card mailed in London on October 27, which happens to be the late President Theodore Roosevelt's birth date and my own, they are now playing a successful and proportionately enjoyable engagement in the British capital.

A little bulkier and all bound 'round with a woolen string was a parcel from Harry W. Crull, former manager of the Fox Theater in this city, containing a photograph of the entrance to Loew's Empire Theater on Leicester Square in London, over which he now presides as managing director—the whole theater, not merely the entrance. The picture was taken with the bright marquee lights vividly reflected upon pavements glistening with an apparently heavy rain and a London bobby in slicker and gum boots standing stolidly (this, I believe, is the way all Englishmen are supposed to do everything) at the curb.

From all appearances, the photo was taken about the time Harry might have been waiting for a midnight performance to begin. As a matter of fact, it was taken at high noon on Monday, October 24, in the midst of one of London's coal tar fogs.

Rather than permit your curiosity to drive you mad, I am dropping the picture into the Rotogravure section of The Post on Sunday, November 20, where you may gloat over the meteorological phenomenon to your heart's content—even frame it, if you like.

It is a pleasure to be able to refute another of those purely nebulous rumors that have wielded so pernicious an influence upon what few going attractions have been able to survive "the road" this season.

This particular canard has persistently attached itself to the revival of the late Flo Ziegfeld's "Show Boat," which comes to the National Theater—scene of its premiere some seasons ago—Monday night with virtually its original cast again in the roles which they created. Nobody knows where or how it originated, or why and and by whom it has been perpetuated, but the report has been tenacious that "Show Boat" was about to close and never would reach Washington. This, up to the moment of going to press, is a very elegant mess of malarkey, utterly devoid of foundation in fact.

The revival of his prodigious Ziegfeld triumph, if anything, is proving more successful than the original. It will be here Monday night, and in its cast will be Norma Terriss, Helen Morgan, Jules Bledsoe and practically all the others whose names have been inseparably linked with the translated Edna Ferber fiction, musicalized by Jerome Kern.

There is a good deal more to be looked forward to next week as well—Fritz Kreisler, the violin virtuoso; Burton Holmes, beginning a new series of travel lectures Sunday afternoon; Daniel Frohman, delivering his "Reminiscences of the Theater and Its Stars," and so on and so forth. No dearth of entertainment. Oh, yes, and the "Step Lively Girls" at the Gayety.

The enticements for the new week in the cinema—which got under way yesterday at the Metropolitan, by the way—will be largely after the manner of this: Earle, Joan Blondell, Ann Dvorak, Bette Davis and Warren William, in "Three On a Match," and Burns and Allen headlining the vaudeville; Loew's Fox, Cary Grant and Nancy Carroll, in "Hot Saturday," and William Demarest headlining the vaudeville bill; RKO-Keith's, Jack Holt and Lillian Miles, in the world premiere of "Man Against Woman;" Rialto, Chester Morris and Mae Clarke, in "Breach of Promise;" Palace, Lewis Stone and Boris Karloff, in "The Mask of Fu Manchu;" Columbia, Evelyn Brent and Lew Cody, in "The Crusader," with H. B. Warner and Ned Sparks; Metropolitan, Paul Muni and Glenda Farrell, in "I Am a Fugitive From a Chain Gang."

Even the best legal minds might be a bit perplexed in attempting to harmonize the seeming paradoxes of this item. However, it seems that Carl Laemmle, fils, has delegated Warren Doane to supervise the seventh feature in the "Cohens and Kellys" series in which George Sidney and Charlie Murray, both seen locally in the flesh during the past few months, have been the habitual stars.

The catch lies in the surprising announcement that both Mr. Sidney and Mr. Murray are costarring in "Abie's Irish Rose," being revived at the El Capitan Theater in Hollywood, while the "Cohen and Kelly" script is being prepared for their joint use.

But maybe the casual observer has forgotten the long drawn-out court battle that raged around Miss Anne Nichols' charges of plagiarism, involving the screen characters that she construed to be an infringement upon her original Hebrew-Irish creation. At any rate, no prejudice one way or the other seems to exist in the minds of the Messrs. Sidney and Murray. Both are pie for them in a lean year!

What! Thursday already and no legal beer?

"I AM A FUGITIVE FROM A CHAIN GANG." Warner Brothers' picturization of the story by Robert E. Burns, starring Paul Muni; with Glenda Farrell, Noel Francis, Allen Jenkins and Edward Ellis. Directed by Mervin Le Roy. Reviewed Wednesday night by Dorothea Lewis.

Months ago we sat through "Scarface" to see Paul Muni. Last night we sat through "I Am a Fugitive From a Chain Gang," to see Paul Muni. Each time, with a minimum leavening of romance, we have had to endure agony, brutality, ruthless realism. Each time we have felt repaid through the very perfection of Muni's acting, but it seems that the movies ought to be able to do a little better by this great young character actor and his stanch, but slightly squeamish, fans, in the sheer matter of the joie de vivre.

We, of course, have made a little vow to see everything Mr. Muni does. But it wouldn't hinder the keeping of that vow at all to get some heartening entertainment along with his acting. He can be entertaining and a good actor at the same time. We've seen him do it.

This picture isn't vivacious entertainment, not in any manner, shape or form. It is bitter, horrible, harrowing. It is ostensibly and probably, in fact, truth—that is one reason Paul Muni was glad to play the role. It will probably give you a "cause;" make a crusader out of you.

The picture is, however, regardless of its content, brilliantly played, excellently directed, well made. It has scenes so tense you'll want to shout with relief when they're over. It has other scenes that drag along slowly, as real-life scenes do.

James Allen, adrift after the war trying to find what he wants to do, is innocently involved in a robbery, sentenced to ten years in the unbelievable, medieval tortures of a Georgia chain gang, escapes, becomes a respectable citizen, is caught and sent back, escapes and may be hiding just around the corner somewhere today, an eternal fugitive. The superbly simple ending is unforgettable. It is going to worry us for days.

Paul Muni's absolute naturalness, without the sacrifice of dramatic effect, makes James Allen true and terribly, hauntingly tragic. There aren't any adjectives for him and they aren't really necessary. It is a role utterly different from Tony Carmonte of "Scarface," very different from anything he has ever played (except perhaps, James Dyke in "The Valiant"), that's the other reason he liked it.

The interesting Glenda Farrell is brittle and bitter as Marie; Robert McWade fine in a brief role, as is Noel Francis. Allen Jenkins and Edward Ellias help out, but it will take about four Clark Gablish ministers to make us forget the saintly Rev. Clift Allen, as played so self-consciously by Hale Hamilton.

There are only two possible reasons for experiencing this picture—one is to see this chain gang atrocity that you've heard about, talked about, read about; the other, and best of all possible reasons, is Paul Muni.

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

QUITE the most colorful individual now cavorting on Washington gridirons is the George Washington University guard with the odd name—"Zuzu" Stewart.

This department doesn't know the why or wherefore of the "Zuzu" monicker, but it seems to fit admirably, and I do know why he is playing guard.

"Zuzu" came to Coach Pixlee as a full back with a fair high school reputation. He was one of the coterie of back field men at Camp Letts early in the fall, and attracted the serious attention of nobody in particular. He was a plugger, but he couldn't break into the Colonials' back field.

Pixlee noted his earnestness at the same time that he noted his shortcomings as a back field man. But there was no place for Stewart in the back field with such talented individuals as Fenlon, McCarver, Carlin, Carter and Kriemelmeyer available.

Spurns Invitation To Play in Line

"Frankly," Pixlee told him, "you can't break into our back field. I like the way you go at your work and you can stick along with us. But if you honestly want to play football, there's a place open in the line. Why don't you try that."

But Stewart would have no part of line play. He was a back field man, and had been since the day he inherited his uncle's shin pads. The line was the spot for the truck horses and Stewart had a better opinion of his football ability.

Stewart was still a back when George Washington played its opening game, but after the first half he began to look for a soft spot on the bench that he had occupied from the opening whistle. The next week he was also an observer from the bench. Three weeks of bench warming and his mind was made up.

Makes Application For Guard Job

"Is that line job still open?" Stewart asked Pixlee quite meekly.

It was, and Stewart became a candidate for left guard, playing with the zest that had characterized his work in training camp and bringing welcome strength to the Colonials' forward wall.

The G. W. coaches pulled Bill Parrish into the back field the other day for a special play that would make him eligible for a forward pass. Stewart sought Parrish out in the locker room after the game.

"Listen here," he told Parrish, "you'd better keep out of that back field; they're liable to keep you in there. There's only one place to play on this football team and that's the line. They couldn't get me back in that back field if they offered me both teams as interference." Thus Stewart's conversion into a lineman was complete.

Able to Diagnose Foe's Plays

Stewart's value as a lineman lies not in the speed of his charge or the terrible havoc he wreaks on the opposition wall. As a football player, he is comparatively slow. But he has a remarkable concept for diagnosing the opposition's plays, according to Pixlee, and therein he makes his presence felt.

Rarely does he break through and throw an opposing back for a loss, nor does he stop the charge at the scrimmage line. But when the tackles are made with but a yard or two gain, Stewart is usually to be found at the bottom of the heap. An instant after the attack is slowed, Stewart is on the scene with an arm wrapped around the runner. He has outguessed the play.

Helmetless and apparently reckless, Stewart is quickly spotted on the field. He is there or thereabouts on every play, and the stands can't fail to notice his constant presence at the scene of action. He's wedded to his guard position and plays the way he does because he hasn't forgotten those three weeks on the bench.

Phil Perkins In Capital Tourney

British Ace Enters $2,500 Golf Event at Kenwood.

By DAVE HERMAN.

T. PHIL PERKINS, transplanted British star, who was tied with Bobby Cruickshank for second-prize money in the national open, won by Gene Sarazen at Flushing, N. Y., yesterday added his name to the long list of links celebrities who will battle for gold and glory in the $2,500 National Capital open at Kenwood Saturday and Sunday.

Always a serious threat in American championships, the former British Amateur title holder filed his entry from Farmville, Va., stating he would arrive a day in advance for practice rounds. His presence will lend an international flavor to the tournament.

The slim, bespectacled Briton, who turned professional for economic reasons, first leaped into the American spotlight by sweeping into the finals of the national amateur at Brae Burn, West Newton, Mass., in 1928. After disposing of the former District star, George Voigt, in the semifinals, Perkins went down to crushing defeat at the hands of Bobby Jones, 10 and 9, but became the first English finalist in 32 years of the tournament.

Fifth in U. S. Open Last Season

Competing in the national open at Inverness in 1931, Perkins, playing as an amateur, finished in a tie for fifth place at 297 with Walter Hagen and Mortie Dutra, five shots back of the champion, Billy Burke.

Perkins soared to new heights in the open classic at Fresh Meadow Country Club this past June. With a par-busting 69 added to his 76, he tied Jose Jurado, Argentine sensation, for the lead at the end of the second day, and, going into the final 36 holes, held a comfortable margin until the stocky Gene Sarazen came spinning home with a record-breaking 66 for a 286 total. Cruickshank's last two subpar rounds of 69 and 68 pulled him into a tie at 289 with the British ace. Perkins, it is recalled, assured himself of $700 prize money by ramming home a brilliant birdie 3 on the seventy-second hole.

Perhaps one of the most heart-breaking defeats of his career was suffered in 1931 at Hot Springs, Va., where he lost the Old Dominion invitation championship by 1 up to Billy Howell, former national amateur semifinalist. Perkins' wife is a Virginian.

19 Other Entries Also Received

The noted Briton's entry came in with 19 others, including such stars as John Kinder, of Greenbrook, N. J., New Jersey open champion; Francis Gallett, of Wauwatosa, Wis.; Ernie Shaver, of Akron, Ohio, and Freddie McLeod, veteran from Columbia. Other entries received yesterday by the Kenwood committee are:

Bill Carson, Anacostia; Leo J. Walker, unattached, Washington; Miles Cohen, New York; Richard W. Cook, Annapolis, Md.; Byrn Curtiss, Beaver Dam; Fred Dugan, Flushing, L. I.; Joseph Ford, Lakeville, Conn.; Len Gallett, Waukesha, Wis.; Alfred Johnson, York, Pa.; Joseph T. Lynch, Greenbrook, N. J.; Billy Malloy, Columbia; Herman Nama, Flushing, L. I.; J. William Platte, Beaver Falls, Pa.; W. Glenn Spencer, Baltimore.

With the 54-hole classic to open Saturday, the field now consists of some 135 entries, with a flock of names expected today and tomorrow. The Kenwood committee looks for close to 160 contestants by the opening 18-hole round.

Rain Keeps Pros Off Course

Rain forced closing of the Kenwood course yesterday, although a number of out-of-town pros came out to replay a number of shots in the locker rooms. Outstanding among these was Horton Smith, the tall "Joplin Ghost," who spent most of the day at the clubhouse. Paul Runyon, pro of the Metropolis Club, White Plains, N. Y., came into town and registered at the Wardman Park Hotel. Walter Hagen and Smith also are staying there.

With better weather today, the pros are expected to turn out in numbers. By tomorrow the course will hum with activity, as the visiting big guns, including the champion, Willie MacFarlane; Johnny Farrell, Billy Burke, are expected to blaze away in practice rounds. Walter Hagen was at Virginia Beach yesterday in an exhibition match, but the Kenwood committee stated he would be ready for practice either today or tomorrow.

TERRY A. C. MEETS..

The Terry A. C. will meet tonight at the service station at Seventh and G streets southwest, at 7:30 o'clock. After the meeting, a practice will be held in preparation for the game with the Frederick Pros Friday and the Centennials Sunday at Silver Spring.

G. U. GRIDMEN ARE KEPT INDOORS

Muddy Field Delays Preparations for Wesleyan Clash.

WITH its field a quagmire and showing no signs of an early conversion from mud back into firm earth, Georgetown is being badly hampered in its attempts to whip its team into shape for Saturday's important home-coming game with West Virginia Wesleyan.

Another heavy rainfall yesterday kept the Hoyas inside and confined their drilling to skull practice. It completely checked the attempts of the coaching staff to tune the team up to an offensive pitch which it must produce to turn back Saturday's big visitors.

The switch from the Notre Dame to the Warner-Hagerty-Little-New York Giants system of playing has had but minor effects on the actual roster of the first team at Georgetown. About the only boy who will see more service under the new regime is Louie Dee, 185-pound back, whose great leg drive can be used to good effect on power plays.

Georgetown feels that it has about an even chance with West Virginia Wesleyan, but the inability to get out and practice is militating against it daily.

Fans Predicting Tie Games in Contest

THE practice of predicting tie scores is becoming more popular in The Post's Football Selections Contests, according to the trend of selections submitted thus far in this week's bidding for the choice seats to the Catholic University-Duquesne game which will be the reward of the winners.

Fans are scenting tie scores in five games among the list of twelve which comprises this week's contest. Most frequently predicted as a tie is the Columbia-Brown game which brings together two of the East's four unbeaten teams.

The Ohio State-Penn game and the Vanderbilt-Tennessee affair are also often predicted as ties while the Princeton-Yale and Kentucky-Tulane battle have received a generous share of the tie score forecasts.

It is understood of course, that tie predictions are counted as losses in the event that the game does not result in a tie.

The simplicity of The Post's contest is proving exceedingly popular, it is attested by the returns which each week have reached a higher figure. Merely clip the list of twelve games attached below, insert the probable scores, add your name and address and forward your selections to the Football Contest Editor of The Post before midnight on Friday.

M'VEAN LOST FOR SEASON AT C. U.

Augusterfer Likely to Start Saturday in Providence Game.

CHARLEY McVEAN, former Gonzaga High School gridman, and for two years a mainstay with Catholic University, probably is out for the remainder of the season, an examination of his knee injuries having decided Coach Dutch Bergman yesterday.

The loss of McVean causes a number of switches to be made in the backfield assignments of the Cardinals, who meet a good foe Saturday in Providence, at Providence, R. I.

It will mean that Gene Augusterfer, Tom Oliver and Pat Montague, whom McVean has been keeping unemployed most of the season, will be able to get in their cracks in C. U.'s remaining three games. Augusterfer is believed to possess practically the same generalship of McVean, while Oliver and Montague have shown great skill at punting—one of McVean's stronger points.

Tom Whelan probably will take over McVean's passing job, the Cardinal flash having shown a keen interest in all around assignments this year, and Buster Sheary probably will have McVean's blocking jobs shifted on his already overburdened shoulders.

Coach Bergman spared both his team and its uniforms yesterday, but held a light limbering up workout in the vast zeppelin hangar Catholic U. calls its gymnasium. The squad departs tomorrow afternoon. Last year C. U. won 13-7.

Hockey League Teams Open Season Tonight

New York, Nov. 9 (U.P.).—That legalized mayhem-on-ice, big time hockey, makes its 1932 bow tomorrow night when six teams of the National League begin the drive that leads to the Stanley Cup playoffs and the championship of the world.

The opening night's schedule calls for the New York Rangers to meet the Montreal Maroons in Montreal; the Boston Bruins to tackle the Toronto Maple Leafs in Toronto, and the Chicago Blackhawks to oppose the Detroit Redwings in Detroit.

On Saturday the other three entries in the race, the Montreal Canadians, New York Americans and Ottawa Senators, will play.

The National League, always a money-maker, stands to do handsomely by itself this winter, depression or no depression. For in hockey, as in every other branch of sports, competition is the life of the box office. And it looks like a blistering fight right down to the playoffs this season.

Pitt Favored To Hurdle Nebraska

Pitt Must Also Meet Carnegie, Stanford and Penn State.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 9 (U.P.).—This Pittsburgh football team which is blustering across the Eastern gridirons with such abandon, makes another bid for national recognition Saturday in its first invasion of the West against Nebraska, leader of the "Big Six."

While the Cornhuskers apparently are among the strongest opposition remaining on Pitt's unusually robust schedule, they should not blemish the Panthers' unbeaten record. Then Carnegie Tech, Penn State and Stanford should fall prey to the Panthers in that order.

Nebraska leads its conference after Oklahoma's upset defeat last week by Missouri, but the Cornhuskers' record does not command the respect which is due to Pitt. Nebraska lost to Minnesota, 6 to 7, which is no disgrace, but it beat Iowa by the narrow margin of 1 point, an achievement which does not reflect great Nebraska prowess. Iowa has won only one of its six games this season.

Agree Pitts Team Is East's Best

Jock Sutherland's Golden Panthers will carry with them to Lincoln, Nebr., the reputation of being the strongest team in the East. Virtually all experts are agreed on this point after Pitt's hard-earned victories over the capable elevens representing Army, Notre Dame and Pennsylvania.

Their scoreless tie with Ohio State did not enhance the Panthers' record, but it did not detract noticeably from their prestige. On a day when the Ohio Staters click there are few teams in the country that can beat them—as was demonstrated Saturday when they trounced Northwestern's highly touted eleven, 20-6.

Army gained a host of admirers when it swept Harvard's Crimson forces to a 46-0 defeat. Some spectators were inclined to believe that were Pitt in Harvard's place that afternoon, the Army would have emerged triumphant from the struggle.

Notre Dame's Defeat Greatest Conquest

In beating Notre Dame, Pitt made its most difficult conquest of the season. This South Bend team is strong. And Pennsylvania, unbeaten in five previous starts, was no push-over.

Although it's too early for conservative experts to attempt to select the strongest team in the country, many already have indicated their choice of Pitt over Southern California, Tennessee, Vanderbilt, Colgate, Brown, Columbia, Michigan and Purdue.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 9 (U.P.).—Millard Draudt, star Princeton half back, who was injured in the Cornell game, will be unable to play against Yale Saturday because of a neck injury received in practice. Jack Bales will replace him.

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 9 (U.P.).—Army's varsity drilled in the rain today for Saturday's game with North Dakota State. The Dakota squad arrived and also took a workout in Michie Stadium.

3 Yale Players Hurt, Not to Face Princeton

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 9 (U.P.).—Hopes for a Yale victory over Princeton Saturday were dimmed tonight by the announcement that three regulars will be out of the game. Joe Crowley's injured arm won't permit him to go in at right half, and leg injuries will prevent Jimmy de Angelis and Vic Malin from joining the forward wall. In addition it is doubtful if Joe Johnson, center, can play because of a slight brain concussion.

Dorothy Poynton, Star In Olympics, Is Ill

Los Angeles, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Dorothy Poynton, Olympic games high-diving champion, was reported seriously ill in her home today and under the care of specialists who were treating her for a mastoid abscess.

Miss Poynton's father, Richard E. Poynton, said the infection developed in the Olympic games, but Miss Poynton refused to withdraw and went through the aquatic program to attain her title.

Her physician, Dr. Paul B. McCracken, said he was undecided whether an operation would be necessary.

F. D. Roosevelt, Jr., Hero in Line Despite 7-to-0 Defeat of Groton

He was Franklin Delano Roosevelt, jr., right tackle on the Groton eleven, and, incidentally, son of the President-elect of the United States.

Although Groton suffered its sixth defeat of the season, the score, 7 to 0, might have been greater if it had not been for young Roosevelt. Toward the end of the third period St. Mark's had the ball on Groton's 5-yard line and directed two successive reverse plays at Roosevelt's position. He stopped both without gain. St. Mark's touchdown was not made until the fourth period when Roosevelt was on the sidelines after playing through three full periods. He was sent into the game after the touchdown when Groton was trying feverishly to even the score.

An old-fashioned nose protector, of the type which is held in place by the teeth and covers all but the eyes of the wearer, gave the youth a grotesque appearance. He wore it to guard his nose, broken in practice two weeks ago, against further injury.

Roosevelt, who is 18, is tall, although not yet developed enough to be of an athletic build. His mates regard him as a consistent player. Groton is his father's school and the President-elect has visited him here twice since receiving the Democratic nomination.

Holy Cross Suspends Coach

McEwan Attempted to Discharge Trainer, Is Charge.

Dissension Following Defeat by Brown Is Cited.

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 9 (A. P.).—Capt. John J. McEwan, head coach of football at Holy Cross since 1930, today was suspended as coach by Rev. T. J. Phelan, moderator of athletics. In the notice of suspension, Father Phelan gave "interference with the proper working of our athletic department by an unauthorized though widely published attempt to discharge one of our staff" as the cause of McEwan's being suspended.

The "published attempt to discharge one of our staff" were accounts relating to Capt. McEwan's argument with Bart Sullivan, trainer, during the Brown game at Providence. Rumors of dissension spread after the game, which Holy Cross lost in the final minutes of play, 10 to 7, and Capt. McEwan was quoted as saying Sullivan had openly mutinied, and could no longer act as trainer for the football squad.

McEwan Declines To Comment

When asked for comment, Capt. McEwan said: "I have nothing to say whatever."

It was learned from reliable sources that Arthur E. "Bunny" Corcoran, who has been end coach for the past six years, will take charge of the team.

FOOTBALL BRIEFS

(Associated Press.)

West Point, N. Y.—Army turned over the Michie Stadium field to the North Dakota State squad for two workouts today while the Cadets held a single session on the regular practice field. Army held its first scrimmage of the week and all the ends were worked with the first team. Jack Lawlor made the best showing. The Bisons stressed their defense against Army's passing attack.

Princeton, N. J. — Mil Braudt, Princeton back who was hurt in the Cornell game, will not be able to play against Yale, it was learned today. The Tigers were forced indoors for the first time this season and canceled the week's only scheduled scrimmage. Offensive work was stressed in the workout.

Ithaca, N. Y.—Dick Beyer replaces Johnny Ferraro at full back for Cornell as Coach Gil Dobie decided the latter was not showing enough interest in the practice for the Dartmouth game. Walter Switzer had the call over Bob Grant at No. 1 back.

New York—Rain and high wind did not check New York University and Fordham in their preparations for Saturday's struggle. The Violets had an outdoor session, including tackling and a line scrimmage, while Fordham had a lengthy passing drill.

New Haven, Conn.—Yale held a long signal drill and a short scrimmage on defense against laterals and end runs. Injuries, which seemed unimportant yesterday, kept Vic Malin, center, and Jimmy De Angelis, guard, out of action.

Cambridge, Mass.—The Harvard line performed unusually well in a 15-minute scrimmage against the scrubs. Defense against Holy Cross formations was stressed.

Philadelphia—George Munger was named to start at full back for Pennsylvania against Ohio State, taking the place of Carl Perina, who was hurt in the Pitt game. The Quakers had only an indoor dummy scrimmage and signal drill.

Pittsburgh (A.P.). — The largest group of Pitt Panthers ever to invade an opponent's lair left tonight for Nebraska. Coach Jock Sutherland took 38 men with him, indicating he expects many substitutes will be needed to halt the driving Cornhuskers. Pitt will practice in Chicago and Omaha en route.

Evanston, Ill., (A.P.).—Northwestern's varsity scrimmaged for an hour and one-half today in snow flurries, sleet and rain. Coach Dick Hanley sent Al Kawal to left guard in place of Kinder, and indicated George Potter would start at quarter back against Notre Dame. Jakie Sullivan was slated for heavy duty in the back field.

Chicago, (A.P.).—For the second successive day, Coach Amos Alonzo Stagg worked his Chicago team in the fieldhouse, running off offensive plays against the freshmen. Two back field regulars, Pete Zimmer and Hugh Mendenhall, were back for duty and will start against Michigan, giving the Maroons full strength for the first time in three weeks.

Iowa City (A.P.).—The second day of rain and snow forced the University of Iowa football practice for Purdue indoors, the Hawkeyes taking a light workout in the fieldhouse.

Minneapolis (A.P.).—Jack Monders believes he may be able to play full back for Minnesota Saturday against Wisconsin. Manders was on the sidelines exercising his sore ankle.

"If it improves the rest of the way like it has since last night, I'll be in shape to play," he said.

SKULL DRILL ABSORBED BY G. W.

Players Take 5-Mile Hike; W. and M. Works in Rain.

WITH Griffith Stadium only fit for miniature yacht sailing, George Washington University's football team took up their training camp yesterday and compressed it into a skull practice in the Colonial gymnasium, followed by a run around the Speedway—a 5-mile hike in which the whole squad, including the freshmen, participated.

Down at Williamsburg, William and Mary's sterling 1932 squad, all eager to trip up the Colonials tomorrow night, worked out in a driving rain and held a long skull practice themselves tonight.

George Washington has had an advantage in its home night games this year because of the fact that its rivals were generally unaccustomed to playing beneath the arcs. Particularly was this so of Iowa, whose players had never seen a night game. But William and Mary boasts of a crew of old night hounds, for virtually all of their home games are played at night.

Soggy Field to Stop Speed Boys

The sodden condition of the ball park field may hurt both teams, for the two clubs pack many of these light-footed speed merchants who need a dry track to hit their ten-second gait. William and Mary's Shade, 145-pound ace ball carrier, should be slowed down, and this same speed depression should hit Nig McCarver, fastest and shiftiest of the local team's backs.

Given a break in the weather, tomorrow night's game, which is the feature of Armistice Night celebrations, should draw 15,000 football fans. William and Mary has a fine record this year, showing losses only to V. P. I. and the Army. It beat Navy in one of the big upsets of the year and has its finest team since the one that beat Harvard nearly a decade ago.

William and Mary probably will have the edge in punting, with Capt. Halligan, end, booting them to a fare-thee-well. Otts Kriemelmeyer, G. W.'s leading kicker, will see only occasional service, with Chris Doose back in uniform.

Tickets for the battle, which is the next to last game on G. W.'s 1932 schedule, may be purchased at Spalding's, French's, the ball park or the university.

'Golf and College' Night Listed at Fox Theater

Loew's Fox Theater will observe Golf and College Night tomorrow night, with a number of international links stars and the football teams of Georgetown and West Virginia Wesleyan as the guests of Manager Carter Barron.

Walter Hagen, Tommy Armour, Willie McFarlane, Johnny Farrell, Paul Runyon, Horton Smith and Al Houghton will be among the golf notables who have accepted invitations to sit in a special box at the F street playhouse. In addition to the golfers, Same Rice and Nick Altrock, of the Washington ball club, also will be present.

The golf stars and the football players will be introduced to the audience. Kirk Miller, local sports editor, will act as master of ceremonies. All of the golfers will participate the next day in the National Capital open at Kenwood.

Phil Lampkin, director of the Loew's Fox concert orchestra, has arranged a collegiate overture that will include the Georgetown and West Virginia Wesleyan college songs.

COACHES TO BROADCAST.

Coaches Jim Pixlee and Honest John Kellison, of George Washington and William and Mary, respectively, will be interviewed tonight at 6 o'clock over Station WOL by Dick Moore, sports editor of the Daily News. Moore will question the football leaders on the prospects of tomorrow night's game between the two schools, and other items of football interest.

Upset Victory Is Goal of OldLiners

Byrd's Back Field Will Be at Full Strength on Saturday.

Seeking Defense for Chung-Hoon, Star Navy Back.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

COACH CURLY BYRD fitted his still lithe form into a bathysphere ball yesterday and descended several miles down to where the good ship, The Old Liner Football Team, lay near the sandy bottom of the Southern Conference, her sides showing holes labeled Virginia (7-6), V. P. I. (23-0), Duke (34-0), and Vanderbilt (13-0).

Prof. Byrd adjusted a stethoscope to the barnacled sides and after noticing that a bulkhead here and there was still sound, particularly sections labeled Washington College (63-0), St. John's (24-7) and V. M. I. (12-7), decided that there is no reason why the old tub can not be salvaged and sent into battle with the United States Navy next Saturday at the Baltimore Stadium.

The game will be the third meeting between the two in a series which started in 1929 after a twelve-year intermission in athletic relations. Both teams have won by 6-0 scores, and Saturday's promises to prove something or other, the expectation being that it will prove, all over again, that Maryland's moratorium on important victories is still in effect.

Old Liners Drill With Wet Ball

Since it showed no inclination of ever stopping raining yesterday, Coach Byrd sent the Terrapins out into the swirling blasts late in the day to introduce them to a dozen wet footballs. Today's practice session will consist of defensive stuff, in which Maryland's secondaries will be, unless stopped by county police, equipped with Navy plays. And when they are decisively stopped, the press shall hear the glad tidings from the university news bureau.

Maryland will be in great shape for the battle. The manner in which Tommy Webb, former Western High School center, is conducting himself in the middle of the Maryland line is sending the nosey old grads into paroxysms of joy. Earl Widmyer, brittle sprinter-gridman, is o. k. again, and with Dick Nelson in possession of about the finest forward-passing arm in the vicinity, this pair looms as a tremendous scoring threat against Navy.

Maryland has three more downright good back field men ready to go against the Midshipmen—Ray Poppelman, Al Woods and Paul Kiernan—while Norwood Sothoron, substitute, hero of the Washington College game, is once more in shape to ankle around with a ball tucked in the crook of his arm.

Maryland's Line Named

Maryland's line Saturday will probably read Hines and Benner, ends; Farrell and Keenan, tackles; Rouser and McDonald, guards, and Webb, center.

Neither team will have a weight advantage. If anything, Maryland might be a little heavier. In the realm of substitutions Navy can outdo the quasi-locals by about 3 to 1.

Holding Columbia to 7-6 is about the best thing the Navy has done this year. They were bumped off by William and Mary, 6-0; by Ohio U., 14-0, but held Penn to a fine 0-14 score, tied Princeton, 0-0, and beat the honk out of Washington and Lee, 33-0.

Navy has a number of outstanding players this year. Gordon Chung-Hoon, Navy's great Hawaiian back field man, who can punt, pass and run with the best of them, shares ball-carrying honors with Waybright, the Olympic hurdler, who is as fast as Widmyer and has more drive. In the line Navy has two great players, Kane, 196-pound right tackle, and Pray, 160-pound right end, who were all but impregnable against Columbia last week.

VIRGINIA FORCED INDOORS.

University, Va., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Torrential rains forced Coach Fred Dawson to keep Virginia's varsity football squad indoors today. Instead of the usual Wednesday scrimmage the squad had blackboard drill in plays to be used against Virginia Tech on Saturday.

TRED AVON ROMPS TO VICTORY IN MUD IN PIMLICO FEATURE

Labrot Mare Draws Away With Ease

Ladino, Negopoli and Blondish Also Win on Sloppy Track.

By WALTER HAIGHT
(Post Staff Correspondent).

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Nov. 9.—Tred Avon, the game filly that beat Equipoise at Laurel, had little chance to display her gameness today because there was nothing in class A, of the Pimlico graded handicap, to extend her. Bobby Jones, who had the mount, had only to sit still in the stretch while Tred Avon took care of the opposition. Four lengths, the chartmakers called that long strip of mist and rain between the Labrot colorbearer and Glastonbury, which was second. Another half length away, came Marmion.

The contest was run under racing conditions at their worst. The track was oozing over with mud, and the small crowd huddled in the back of the grandstand, and in the betting rings, many not even going to the trouble of watching the races.

Risque and Helianthus, which did not run away today, hopped out in front at the break followed by Clotho and Tred Avon. They ran in this fashion for most of the trip up the backstretch but then Tred Avon made her move. Jones slapped her a couple of times with the whip and then settled down to ride home. The place battle was the prettiest part of the race with Glastonbury, Scuttle and Helianthus fighting it out. Glastonbury, of course, won it. In the meanwhile Jones was coasting on Tred Avon. He lost his hat at the sixteenth pole which was the only incident of note during Tred Avon's last quarter.

Fine Fibre graduated from the maiden ranks in the opener, leading home Corrymeela by a length and a quarter. Lower Ten, of the heavily played entry, was third, another four lengths away. Fine Fibre's chances were liked by some and he paid off with an $11.20 mutuel. Fine Fibre stayed behind the swift pace set by Corrymeela and then picked that one up in the stretch. R. Martin had the mount on the winner.

Bellizzi, on Portden, outrode Todd, on Butter Beans, and the favorite turned in a victory in the second, a 6-furlong sprint. Third money went to Hagerstown. Todd brought Butter Beans up in the stretch, but seemed too busy staying on the horse to do her justice. She moved up on her own courage, however, and just missed the decision.

The day's big mutuel came in the third race when Silent Shot led White Thorn and Burning Feet to the wire. This Under Fire colt rewarded the faithful with a $76.40 mutuel. Old Baldy set the pace, followed by Silent Shot, and when the Coe horse threw up the sponge he took the lead, never to be headed. The margin was recorded as a head.

Ladino, one of the three-horse entry sent to the post by Trainer Elmer Trueman, took the Class B of the Pimlico Graded Handicap from Haggerson and Swatter. The one-two horses were in front from the second turn to the finish.

Negopoli came back with a smashing race to take the sixth race from Sultry, a 55-to-1 shot, and Brandon Rose. Sultry led for the first half mile and then followed Negopoli home.

DEAR AL: PIMLICO RACE TRACK.

Jimmy Sullivan, Washington boy who has been making great strides in his campaign to be a jockey, is now under contract to Preston Burch. Jimmy's daddy, well known here as an A. A. U. official, visited this track and signed the contract. Burch now has Buddy Hanford under his wing. Jimmy rode his first winner, bringing Homework home at Laurel. A schedule has been mapped out for the boy and Burch expects him to be ready to take his place with the best jockeys next season.

James Simpson, jr., who owns horses and has ridden at Laurel and Pimlico, was elected to Congress from Illinois. C. V. (Sonny) Whitney, however, was defeated in his effort to gain a seat on the Hill.

BILL.

FIRST RASE—POINT BREEZE appears the best in this jumping race, in which gentlemen jockeys will have the mounts. This son of Man o' War is likely to draw Mr. McKimmey, and this pair will be hard to beat. FAIR BOB and DRAPEAU for the rest.

SECOND RACE—If SIR KENDALL doesn't beat these, I recommend a glue factory trip. However, McDONALD H. may provide a little surprise. I had this one given to me as a good thing last summer, but after running well on the half-milers he fozzled. CHLOEDAIR for the show.

THIRD RACE—ENACTMENT appears to be the class here. Has speed and mud form. SNAPLOCK is the one to fear. This fellow has a lot of finish ability and will show to advantage if not held too far back in the field. BABEE is dangerous in the mud.

FOURTH RACE—WALTER H. had a lot of tough luck the last time and may come sailing home in this. TRUE SWEEP has mud form to recommend and finished a bang up second last out. KATE has impressed and should be no worse than third.

FIFTH RACE—HYGRO appears solid in this. Beaten the last time, but gave a good account of himself. MASKED KNIGHT might improve a lot if he gets rid of that last rider. PILATE to take care of the others.

SIXTH RACE—Gilbert will have the mount on WAR STRIPES and I expect that pair to sail home in front of GOOD ADVICE, which appears to be the one to beat. KEGGY may threaten the top pair.

SEVENTH RACE—They bet on SYRIAC the last time, but I don't expect these craft horsemen to miss again. BLACK PATRICIA was badly ridden at the finish the other day and it may have been a come on. MERIDIAN QUEEN may wake up for the show.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FINE FIBRE, $11.20, $6.10, $3.30; CORRYMEELA, $8.40, $3.80; LOWER TEN (Brandywine Stable-Mrs. T. H. Somerville entry), $2.20.
FINE FIBRE, hustled to reach a contending position in the early stages, slipped through on the inside of CORRYMEELA when leaving the back stretch, and kept under strong urging outstayed the pacemaker. CORRYMEELA had good early speed, was steered into the fairest footing and held on willingly. LOWER TEN lost ground on entering the home stretch, was placed to punishment and finished gamely. LEZEV worked her way up steadily, but could not reach the leaders. PERNICKETY weakened when the real issue came. ACCENT was on the outside throughout. LIGHT RIPPLE was never a dangerous factor.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 1:35½. Off at 1:39. Winner, Linton Farm's b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—PORTDEN, $5.20, $3.00, $2.50; BUTTER BEANS, $3.00, $2.60; HAGERSTOWN, $5.10.
PORTDEN, outpaced for the initial furlong, was blocked when moving up on the inside leaving the back stretch, secured racing room on the inside thereafter and closing resolutely was up in the final strides. BUTTER BEANS, a strong factor and aided by the footing, gained a slight lead at the final furlong pole and fought it out courageously. HAGERSTOWN finished in resolute fashion. ROYAL PAST, used up trying to keep with KNIGHTS CAP and GRAND PRINCE, turned at the end. WISE COUNT, slower than usual, finished strong in the last half mile. GRAND PRINCE faltered after five furlongs. KNIGHTS CAP weakened early.

THIRD RACE—One mile and 70 yards. Purse, $1,000; allowances. The Potomac. For 2-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:06. Off at 2:07½. Winner, J. E. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SILENT SHOT, $76.40, $21.80, $10.50; WHITE THORN, $4.50, $3.50; BURNING FEET, $3.10.
SILENT SHOT, following close to OLD BALDY, wore the latter down when midway of the last turn, was placed to punishment and holding on stubbornly outstayed WHITE THORN. Latter, forced very wide at the first turn and kept wide thereafter, circled his field and closed with a belated rush. BURNING FEET, rated close to the leaders, saved a lot of ground and fought it out willingly. INDIAN BOY could not improve his position after moving into a forward position. JUNGLE KING showed a good effort the entire trip. CAPITALIST went evenly while losing ground. OLD BALDY flattened out after six furlongs. GALA TIME was never a factor.

FOURTH RACE—One mile and 70 yards. Purse, $1,000; Pimlico Graded Handicap (Class A). For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:35½. Two-dollar mutuels paid—TRED AVON, $3.70, $2.80, $2.40; GLASTONBURY, $5.50, $4.00; MARMION, $5.80.
TRED AVON, sent into a prominent position, moved up on the outside when going to the front, was shaken up mildly when entering the home stretch and drew out smartly. GLASTONBURY, saving ground where possible early, came determinedly when placed to punishment and finished on the outside. MARMION, unable to enter into a contending position in the early racing, circled his field and closed with a rush. SCUTTLE, hard ridden the entire trip, came willingly in the final half mile. HELIANTHUS and RISQUE were used up setting the pace. MR. SPONGE lacked early speed and could never threaten the leaders.

FIFTH RACE—One mile and 70 yards. Purse, $1,000; Pimlico Graded Handicap (Class B). For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 3:06. Off at 3:07½. LADINO, hurried to the front, was steadied along while resisting keen contention from HAGGERSON, came again after being overtaken and was command in the final sixteenth mile. HAGGERSON, close up from the start, raced into the lead when straightened into the home stretch, but weakened badly thereafter. SWATTER, outrun early, closed with good courage at the end. MOVE FASTER came to the outside and finished in game fashion. AVALON tired in the closing quarter mile. JOLLY PILOT, fractious, broke from the outside and was outrun. RACCOON quit. FLAMING MAMIE was not persevered with at any stage.

SIXTH RACE—One and three-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gate. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 3:30. Off at 3:40. Winner, G. C. Two-dollar mutuels paid—NEGOPOLI, $7.30, $4.20, $2.90; SULTRY, $27.70, $9.60; BRANDON ROSE, $2.40.
NEGOPOLI, well handled and allowed to settle in his best stride, entered contention midway of the back stretch; wore SULTRY down and drew out into an easy lead. SULTRY, showing good ability in the going, went into an easy lead, was kept in the firmest footing, but could not stall off the winner. BRANDON ROSE, carried very wide at the first turn, improved her position in the stretch run. DESPOIL, forced to hold a forward position while in the deepest footing, weakened in the final five-sixteenths mile. GENERAL COURT could not threaten the leaders. The others were outrun.

BLONDISH, badly outrun for the first six furlongs, moved up stoutly in the last half mile, came to the outside of GAY PARTY and in a hard drive was up in the final strides. GAY PARTY, a strong factor from the start, raced the early leaders into submission and fought it out with good courage. BOKIE B. went along in the thick of contention, gained a brief lead, but could not stay. BLACKBOARD weakened badly when reaching the final turn. WARD IN CHANCERY could not untrack himself early and was held safe. PIPE raced well. TRAFFIC JUDGE stopped. MERRY MACK was left when he refused to break.

BOXING CARD OF NURSERY COMPLETE

THIRTY-TWO rounds of boxing, with Eddie Burl, the hard rock from Jacksonville, Fla., and Johnny Brennan, Trenton, N. J., bantamweight, headlining the card in an eight-rounder, will be offered fistic fans Monday night at Portner's Arena in Alexandria.

The program, completed yesterday by Matchmaker Frankie Mann, brings into action the flashy 112-pounder, Sammy Sweet, of Cleveland, whose cleverness in stopping his Filipino opponent from Baltimore in the first round at Portner's recently, won the plaudits of spectators. Sweet is scheduled to box Harry Gunn, of Baltimore, in a four-round preliminary opener.

Lloyd Phelps, rugged 150-pounder, brother of Owen Cowboy Phelps, of Phoenix, Ariz., is slated to step six rounds with Roy Kid Manley, the hard-hitting Arkansas southpaw.

The supporting program to the main go between Burl, who scored such a sensational victory over Jimmy Mack recently, and Brennan, ranking bantamweight battler, shows Frankie De Angelo, Italian flash, and Joe Fino, Mexican bantamweight titleholder, scrapping in an eight-rounder, and Frankie Fullam, former national A. A. U. middleweight champion, opposing Sammy Britt in a six-rounder. Fullam, whipped into tip-top shape under the management of Joe Holman, has a great ring record to his credit. He has been beaten only once in 40 amateur fights and has not been defeated in his ten professional bouts.

Hitting the Headpin

WHAT is believed to be a non-competitive bowling record for the season in the District was rolled last night at the Lucky Strike alleys by John Perry. His single game total was 188.

Perry bowled with Everett Ballard and Will Shumaker in a friendly match, while his mates looked on in amazement. Starting with a ten, he smaked the maples for six spares and two strikes, and going into a second game opened with a strike.

Convention Hall turned back Georgetown Recreation in three games last night at Convention Hall, in the Men's District League, having a high team game of 665 and set of 1,832. White Litchfield, with 147—120—146—413, stole the night's individual honors.

In the National Capital League, Colonial Ice Cream Co., which recently lost three straight, came back with a punch to defeat Judd & Detweiler two out of three, rolling a 635 high game, and 1,822 set. Joe Pricci, of Colonial, had high game of 149 and a 393 high set. Paul Bryan, of the losers, shot a snappy 145 game and 354 set.

Reese's 129 won him individual high-game honors last night in the A. G. O. Men's League. Beech's 328 proved the highest set. Sell Service shot a 539 team game and Procurement 1,510 high set.

Columbia's leading girls whipped the Arcadia team at Columbia in the Ladies District League. Rena Levy, of the winners, had a high set of 336, and Capt. Bess Hoffman a 138 high game. The Columbia girls shot 1,636 team set to miss the season and all-time records by 6 pins, and posted a 590 high team game to come within 22 pins of the season's mark.

The new Mount Rainier team, rolling its second set, defeated the Lucky Strike quintet in two games, having a high game of 539. The champion Rendezvous outfit won three from Recreation as Lucille Young, of the former team, led the way with 339. Mamie Payne, of Meyer Davis, posted a 125 and 338 to lead her team to a two-game victory over Petworth. Georgetown Recreation took two from Convention Hall, Bess Ackman rolling a 122 high game and 315 high set.

The bowling in the North Washington League at Silver Spring was keen last night. Bazzuri Engineering Co. won three from Diplomat Coffee to retain its grip on first place. Wayside Market licked the Blisters in three, while Independent Oil swept Swan Service in a trio of games. Dudley and Keefer beat Rock Creek Service twice. Bazzuri's 1,664 and 586 led the teams, while Frank Proctor starred with a 358 high set and Dick Hall set the pace with a 143 single game.

Tyler, one of the Duds of the Dynamite League, rolled a 145 game, which is a season's record for this loop. In the same league Weisback, of Wrecking Crew, had a 358 set and the Tornadoes a 1,541 team set.

And the dear old Civic Club League saw Swope, of Rotary, roll 130 and 356 and Kiwanis 538 and 1,539.

While the Bankers League was marked with such rollings as Cullum's 158 game and Wile's 409 set. They roll for Washington Loan & Trust, which had scores of 590 and 1,670.

CELTICS TO PRACTICE.

St. Mary's Celtics, looking forward to the game Sunday in Richmond, Va., with the champion Arrow A. C., will practice tonight at 7:30 o'clock and Saturday at the same hour at the railroad terminal grounds.

Stocks Continue Heaviness, Resulting in 2.5 Points Loss

New York, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Financial markets were heavy today in the first "postelection" trading. Activity was very light in stocks, which led some brokers to feel that results of trading had not been entirely conclusive. In neither direction nor turnover did the markets vary greatly from many of these over the past month or so.

Leading stocks lost 1 to more than 3 points on total sales of 1,268,060 shares.

Wall street brokerage houses pointed out that the results of Tuesday's balloting had not been a surprise in many quarters. Several thought there should be real advantages to business in termination of the political campaign which, it has been said, had deterred expansion in some lines. Firmness of dollars against European gold currencies received considerable attention, the suggestion being made that Europe felt our money would not be affected by the impending shift at Washington.

Stocks began the day with a rally, which was quite in keeping with trading. However, the advance was short-lived and after advancing from a fraction to a point leaders reversed their course. After midday the market was stagnant, backing and filling so sluggishly that the ticker spent many idle minutes.

The "antiprohibition" stocks, which were bid up rather energetically just before election, held fairly well, displaying the firmest appearance of any group. Considerable pressure was directed against American Telephone on publication of telephone losses for October, although Wall street is expecting another regular dividend will be voted next Wednesday. The shares lost 3⅜ net. United States Steel, American Can, New York Central, Santa Fe, Allied Chemical, Union Pacific, Steel preferred, Harvester, Case and American Smelting lost 2 to 3 net, the average decline for 90 issues being just midway between those figures.

What the Stock Market Did

Advances	121	419
Declines	294	63
Unchanged	101	93
Total issues traded	516	575

Stocks

Heaviness continued, and the pattern of trading—early rally and closing loss—remained unchanged. The average decline on the selected list was 2.5 points. Volume of dealing stood at 1,268,060 shares. Leading stocks lost from 1 to 3 points. The election had little or no effect upon the market.

Bonds

Dull and irregular trading still marked the source of loans. Election post mortems were disregarded. The average loss was two-tenths of a point. The sales volume dropped to $7,604,000. Small gains appeared in speculative groups. Canadian governments were soft.

Curb.

Prices drifted lower. Losses were confined to fractions except in isolated cases. Only a few declines exceeded 2 points. The turnover approximated 180,000 shares. Profit taking was blamed. Some utilities dipped nearly 2 points.

Wheat.

Downward trends of securities and other markets affected wheat, sending prices 1¼ to 1¾ cents under Monday's finish. Corn and oats were down. Bearish crop reports from Argentina and 7,023,000 bushels of visible grain supply aided the decline. December wheat sold at 43¼ to 43⅜ cents.

Cotton.

Larger official crop and ginning figures caused selling, and prices lost 16 to 20 points. The original loss was about $1.50 per bale. There was a slight recovery on trade buying and covering. December closed at 6.06.

Compared with printed stationery, on the quantity you use, the difference in cost may be negligible . . . It is as necessary to keep up business "appearances" as personal appearance. BOND MARKET SAGS IN LISTLESS SALES

Indifference Still Prevails as Turnover Drops to $7,604,000.

New York, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Aside from some of the more speculative groups, the bond market today apparently paid scant attention to the numerous election "post-mortems" and prices generally followed their dull and irregular course.

The indifferent attitude of traders and investors was exemplified by the low sales aggregate of $7,604,000, par value, which was even under that of Monday. The average for 60 corporate bonds was off two-tenths of a point against a gain of four-tenths of a point on Monday.

There was an early run-up of 1 to 2 or more points in the more volatile classes and then, when buyers began to exhibit more reticence, quotations receded rapidly. The majority of listed issues, however, showed only fractional losses at the end of the session.

Outside of the presidential sweepstakes there was little in the news. Iron Age estimated a slightly lower steel production, but held out hopes for a better showing in the near future. The electric power output report, postponed until tomorrow, is expected in some quarters to show little deviation from the preceding week's figures.

Railway liens that receded fractions to 2 or more points, after an early upward flurry, included some of Allegheny Corp., Baltimore & Ohio, Canadian Pacific, Chesapeake Corp., Chicago & Northwestern, St. Paul, Rock Island, Erie, Great Northern, Illinois Central, New York Central, Nickel Plate, Reading, Southern Pacific and Texas & Pacific. The Missouri Pacific list held steady, while most of the higher grade carrier maturities maintained a fairly firm front.

There was little in the utilities and industrials. All of the American Telephones, except the convertible 4½s, which eased slightly, closed unchanged. Shell Union Oil loans improved, as did those of Western Union.

Canadian Government 4½s were again soft, dropping 1⅝ points. Canadian National Railway issues firmed and Canadian Pacific bonds drifted lower. The Australians and Germans moved up moderately, while British 5½s were fractionally lower. Polish loans, together with those of Saxon Public Works and Rhine Westphalian, advanced a point or more.

Latin-American Commerce Chamber Planned in Canada

Special to The Washington Post.

Rio de Janeiro, Nov. 9.—Efforts are to be made in Canada looking toward the formation of a Latin-American Chamber of Commerce, the purpose of which will be to develop trade with Central and South American countries. The main office will be in Montreal, but other cities, for example, Toronto and Vancouver, will have branches.

One of the main objects of the founders of the new chamber of commerce will be to arrange for the direct importation of Latin-American products rather than have them pass through the United States, as has been the practice heretofore. Shipment through the United States increases cost, not only in the matter of freight but also with reference to commissions.

With respect to Brazil the Canadian market is important. During the fiscal year 1931-32 our products were imported to a value of $982,544, and during the previous year to the amount of $1,349,124. The drop in 1931-32 was merely the result of the world-wide decline in prices. Exports of Canadian products suffered the same fate, falling from $2,799,567 in 1930-31 to $979,854 in the following year.

Our principal export to Canada is coffee, which has steadily increased from 19,410 sacks in 1922 to 72,550 in 1931. This was direct exportation. We must not lose sight of the fact, however, that a goodly quantity of coffee reached Canada from the United States.

The formation of the Canadian Latin-American Chamber of Commerce has great importance for us. In addition to coffee, we can sell rubber, fibers, oleaginous and other products. All that is needed is the proper mechanism to care for the business.

New York, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Monetary gold stocks of the United States were increased today by $3,151,900.

The New York Federal Reserve Bank's daily statement showed imports of $3,200,000 from India, $232,600 from England and $20,800 from Mexico. There were no exports.

A loss of $301,500 through a net increase in gold earmarked for foreign account was reported. While this was the first change of that nature in the earmarked account for many weeks, authorities explained that no importance attached as the amount being nominal in comparison with the huge sums which daily figure in the routine operation of the earmark account.

Cotton Crop Fixed At 11,947,000 Bales

Government Estimate Is 522,000 Above Last Forecast.

(Associated Press.)

A new Department of Agriculture forecast pushing the 1932 cotton crop estimate up to 11,947,000 bales yesterday was followed by breaks on the New York and New Orleans exchanges of $1 to $1.50 a bale. Part of the loss later was recovered. The estimate, which was based upon November 1 condition, was 522,000 bales above the October 1 forecast. Last year the production soared to 17,096,000 bales.

Ginnings up to November 1 were reported as 9,245,534 running bales, compared with 12,124,295 last year.

The indicated crop was larger than the forecast of a month ago in all the major producing States except Mississippi. The greater part of the increase, however, was in States west of the Mississippi River.

Weather conditions mostly were favorable for picking and ginning in sections where appreciable quantities remained to be harvested, the department said.

While there has been some lowering of grades by rains, it added, the loss so far in yield from this cause was reported very small.

CURB DRIFTS LOWER IN NARROW CHANGES

New York, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Stocks drifted lower on the curb market today. Most losses were confined to fractions, and only a few exceeding 2 points. Turnover approximated 180,000 shares, against 200,000 on Monday.

After the list's three-day advance of previous sessions, there was some profit taking. The course of prices was similar to that in the stock exchange. There was an initial rally, which gave out after the first few minutes of trading. Stocks reached their lowest levels in the middle of the day, and from then on dragged quietly through to the close.

Electric Bond & Share dipped more than 2 points, and American Gas & Electric was down nearly 2. American Superpower and Niagara Hudson Power confined their losses to meager fractions, and Cities Service closed the day unchanged.

The wide-swinging Aluminum Co. stock made an initial gain of about 2 points, but it then gave way under comparatively light selling. It closed 4 points lower.

Deere & Co., Newmont, and New Jersey Zinc yielded substantial fractions. The Ford issues were mixed, the Canadian and Ford, Ltd., shares receding slightly, while Ford of France gained a fraction. Swift International was a firm spot, gaining more than a point.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Transatlantic issues, which had improved in the forenoon, reacted on profit taking when opening Wall street prices were received on the stock exchange. Prices dropped below yesterday's closing quotations. Gilt-edged securities continued weak, but industrials, gold mining shares and brewery issues were steady. The closing was undecided to easy.

Paris—Awaiting the reaction of Wall street to the election results, prices on the bourse opened hesitant, but then turned heavy. Rentes were slightly lower and international issues were not sustained with the exception of Canadian Pacific shares, which were firm. The market closed heavy.

Wool Called Barometer Of Trade in Argentina

Buenos Aires, Nov. 9 (SIPA).—As wool goes so does the Argentine. This is the belief of many. Not that wool is the chief article of production, but it has been found over a long period of time that when wool begins to firm in price after a long depression, the probabilities are in favor of better times. Wool is beginning to firm and so are hopes.

As yet the situation is much the same as in the United States. No marked improvement in business, but a better tone all around and more nibbling at the fishhook of business in the shape of inquiries. Many people are convinced that no matter what problems still stand in the way we are on the up-grade.

In general the markets are bare of many lines. In the machinery branches the past two or three years have seen few orders for new items, much tinkering and repairing have been done and there have been little scrapping and replacing. But all this has its limit and the time is near when new things will have to be obtained. Two outstanding needs are automobiles and harvesting machinery. New orders can not long be delayed and when they come the United States will get the lion's share.

Dollar Again Firm In Money Markets

Strength Is Shown Against Foreign Gold in Post-Election Deals.

New York, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—The American dollar was again strong against the principal foreign gold currencies today, in postelection dealings. Foreign exchange dealers said that Europe was evidently satisfied that a change in the national Government would not affect the soundness of the dollar. Both parties, of course, had declared for balanced budgets and sound money.

Such currencies as the Dutch guilders and the Belgian belga dropped a couple of points, while the French and Swiss francs sagged fractions of points. All four of these currencies rose sharply against the dollar earlier in the year, when Congress was struggling with the budget and other financia problems.

The French franc was off ⅜ of a point, to 3.92½ cents, for cable transfers, or well below the point at which France could profitably draw gold from New York. Among the nongold currencies, sterling sagged ½ cent, to $3.30½ for cables.

WHEAT VALUES SINK ON SECURITIES DROP

Bearish Crop Advices From Argentina Aid Declines; Other Grains Cut.

Chicago, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Quickly taking the cue from downturns of securities and cotton, grain prices tumbled today, wheat to within 1¼ cents of the all-time low record.

An early show of strength in the New York stock and cotton markets had been more than wiped out before grain trading was begun, and no time was lost by sellers of wheat. Successive waves of orders to unload wheat holdings swept over the market, and despite active buying at times the latest dealings were at virtually the day's bottom.

Wheat closed unstable, 1¼ to 1¾ under Monday's finish; corn, ½ to ¾ down; oats, ¼ to ½ off, and provisions unchanged to 10 cents decline.

Factors in Decline.

Adding to downward momentum of wheat values were bearish crop advices from Argentina, together with announcement of 7,023,000 bushels in the world's wheat visible supply. Predictions of frost likely to damage the Argentine crop appeared to have turned out to be groundless, and indications pointed to a better than average yield. One unofficial estimate was for 285,000,000 bushels Argentine wheat production this season, compared with 219,000,000 in 1931.

Reports were current that much of the selling of wheat today came from sources with Federal Farm Board affiliations. An official statement, however, denied that the Grain Stabilization Corporation was selling its holdings of wheat futures, although nearby contracts were being liquidated and replaced in deferred positions in accordance with a policy not to let go of any holdings until after January 1. Advices that 1,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat were taken today for shipment overseas failed to stimulate the market here, and so likewise did assertions that heavy exports out of Montreal were looked for between now and the end of navigation.

Corn and oats reflected wheat weakness. There were some inquiries for corn for export, however, and weather over the corn belt was unfavorable.

Board in Montgomery To Check Votes Today

Montgomery County's record breaking vote of approximately 20,000 in Tuesday's election will be officially canvassed today by the county board of election supervisors. Members of the board are Laurason B. Riggs and Lloyd J. Jones, Democrats, and Richard C. Birney, Republican.

The board will meet at noon and organize by electing a chairman and secretary. It then will begin the task of counting the official returns from each of the county's 57 voting precincts. If the count is not completed today, the board will reconvene tomorrow and until it is finished. The vote this year was approximately 5,000 more than the former record.

Arlington County Board Withholds ZoneDecision

After taking testimony in the efforts to have the Arlington County Board reverse its recent decision in the case of an application of Harry Stewart for a rezoning of his property located in Ballston, from residential to commercial, the board, at its meeting last night, withheld its decision until Monday.

The case was reopened at the request of former Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth, counsel for the opposition. The board had granted the permit, having reversed the action of the board of zoning appeals.

SWEEP CARRIES ALL OF PRINCE GEORGES

G.O.P. May Have Gained Tie in Lanham District; All Others Lost.

The only bright spot in the cloud of gloom which surrounded Republican politicians in Prince Georges County, Md., yesterday was that they had held Roosevelt to a tie in Lanham District, normally Democratic, but this single spot did little to offset the loss of ten precincts the Republicans carried in 1930.

Even the Lanham cheer may be dissipated, according to Democratic leaders, who believe the official count of the ballots tomorrow may give the precinct to Roosevelt. Aside from Lanham the Democratic nominee carried all the districts in the county, some of them going Democratic for the first time in history.

In Tuesday's voting each presidential candidate received 220 votes in the unofficial returns from Lanham. In 1930, in the gubernatorial contest, Ritchie carried the district by 212 to 161 for Broening, his Republican opponent.

Two factors account for the practical loss of Lanham, according to the Democratic leaders there. One of them is the unusual number of Government employes living in the district, all of whom voted. The other is the corollary reason that many of the Democrats failed to come out and vote, accounting the issue already settled.

The Republican upset was most pronounced in Queen Anne district, which the Democrats lost in 1930, but which they carried Tuesday by a vote of 306 to 172. Democratic leaders, receiving the returns from this precinct, intimated that its leader had risen considerably in their respect.

The vote for Roosevelt and Hoover in Prince Georges County by districts was (R. marks precincts Republican in 1930):

ERROR IN WARRANT CLEARS LIQUOR CASE

Julia Schultz, of Colmar Manor, was freed on charges of possession of liquor in Hyattsville Police Court yesterday because the search warrant under which she was prosecuted was not the same one under which the search of her house had been made.

Attorney J. Wilson Ryon, appearing for the woman, brought out the fact that a word was missing from the first warrant and that a duplicate had been issued after the raid. Judge J. Chew Sheriff held that she could not be prosecuted on the duplicate.

Albert R. Myers, of Baltimore, was fined $150 for transporting a load of 50 gallons of alcohol. It was on behalf of Myers that State Senator Thurman C. Atkinson went to see Judge Sheriff several weeks ago, his visit resulting in the magistrate calling for police and having the legislator arrested for being drunk and disorderly.

William Shoemaker, of Laurel, was fined $75 for transportation of three cases of whisky which he said he was taking to his aunt and uncle as a present. When Judge Sheriff commented that they must drink a lot, Shoemaker explained that they had lots of company.

The oblong copper still was located on the second floor and fired by gas brought in a tank under pressure. Also on the second floor were 650 barrels of peach and prune mash.

MORE THAN 25 WARS HAVE BEEN FOUGHT SINCE THE WAR TO END WAR . . .

11-10-32

SINCE the World War—a war that was called the "war to end war" the world has seen no less than 25 other wars or armed conflicts. True, there were no declarations of war in most of these conflicts, but war is war whether the combatants formally declare it or not.

Among the armed conflicts since the World War are: Civil war in Ireland; Great Britain, France in Syria; Greece-Turkish Nationalists; Korean revolt against Japan; Georgia-Roumania; France-Morocco; Turkish Nationalists and Arabs in Mesopotamia; Poland-Soviet Russia; Baron Wrangle-Soviet in Russia; revolution in Egypt; Turkey-Armenia; Italy-Morocco; Soviet Russia-Persia; Soviet Russia-Japan; civil war in China; Fiume-Italy; Poland-Lithuania; Mexico; Nicaragua; Chinese-Japanese conflict; revolution and counter revolution in Spain; and various uprisings in South and Central American states.

For the farmer who is likely to have need for a small cannon while plowing in the field, a combination of these two is available in the device for which U. S. Patent No. 35,600 was issued, June, 1862. The inventor points out, in his application for patent, that the combination walking plow and field gun will come in handy for agriculturists who are attacked in the field. All one has to do is unhitch his team, swing the plow around toward his enemy, and fire.

Steel Yield Pick-Up Expected by Trade

After-Election Recovery Is Seen by Exports; Buying Predicted.

New York, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Iron Age, in its weekly survey of the steel industry, said there had been a slight reduction in the rate of production prior to election, but the lifting of the political uncertainties would undoubtedly bring a recovery in iron and steel buying.

"Preelection hesitancy," it said, "which has exerted a dampening influence on iron and steel buying since the middle of October, reached its climax in the last week of the presidential campaign. * * * While slight gains in steel production were registered at Cleveland and Buffalo, losses were reported at Birmingham, Detroit and in the Valleys, reducing the national average from 20 per cent to 19½ per cent of capacity.

"Undoubtedly a recovery in buying will follow the release of election tension." It explained that the steps thus far taken by certain automobile builders to increase their operations are one indication of such improvement. "Whether the gain will be sufficient to offset seasonal tendencies as the year-end approaches is still uncertain. Much depends on the rapidity with which railroad rehabilitation programs get under way, and structural projects, financed by public funds, are launched."

COTTON PRICES CUT ON LARGER OUTPUT

December Closes at 6.06 as General Market Sinks 16 to 20 Points.

New York, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Unexpectedly large official crop and ginning figures caused an early selling movement in coton today, but after showing maximum losses of about $1.50 per bale, prices recovered partially on trade buying and covering.

December, contracts after selling off to 5.91 right after the publication of the Government report, rallied to 6.11 and closed at 6.06, with the general market closing steady at net declines of 16 to 20 points.

After opening 2 to 6 points higher, prices worked off 14 to 18 points before trading was suspended to receive the Government report.

The increased crop figures brought in more general liquidation, and the break extended to 6.29 for May contracts during the afternoon, with the general list showing net losses of about 29 to 32 points. The decline below the 6-cent level for December, however, carried the market into trade-buying limits and there were later rallies of 15 to 20 points from the extreme lows.

Crop Outlook Greater.

The Government report placing the indicated yield at 1,947,000 bales was about half a million bales above the average expectations, and the ginnings of 9,245,534 bales were also above the average of recent private forecasts.

Liverpool cables said that trade buying had absorbed moderate hedging in that market before the opening here this morning, and reported a better feeling in Manchester, owing to the signing of the wage agreement in Lancashire.

The early selling here was accompanied by rumored indications of an easier spot basis, but nothing more definite developed in that connection and Southern selling here was said to have been less active than on Monday. Exports today, 32,864, making 2,399,071 so far this season. Port receipts, 40,512. United States port stocks, 4,427,440.

CHILE'S TRADE PLAN HAILED IN AMERICA

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Nov. 9.—Chile's proposal to swap some of her surplus nitrates for some of our surplus wheat and other commodities strikes us as highly constructive.

Without discredit to herself, Chile's foreign exchange machinery has broken down. The same thing has happened to three or four dozen other countries.

Thus, in immediate need of wheat with which to feed her people, and not being in position to manage the foreign exchange necessary for its purchase, Chile has offered nitrates to the United States in lieu of cash. She would make it a straight barter.

The United States, it so happens, still has on its hands a considerable quantity of wheat in Farm Board bins. It is sheer surplus—left over from other years. The exchange of some of this wheat, which is a distinct liability, so far as this country is concerned, for Chilean nitrate, an equally distinct asset, would seem a decidedly sensible thing to do.

Surplus wheat can only depress the price of the incoming crop. Every penny wheat sags costs the American farmer from $7,000,000 to $10,000,000. Every penny it rises increases his purchasing power an equal amount.

A few additional thousands of tons of nitrate added to the national defense reserves, and obtained at no real cost to the Government, would be so much to the good. Continued possession of excess wheat could only do harm.

Though nitrates are produced synthetically in this country, the proposed barter would not injure these interests. On the contrary, it would help them. For unless the farmer, the greatest peace-time consumer of nitrates, is able to buy fertilizers, he can not help nitrate producers very much. Opposition from this source, therefore, would be short-sighted.

Still another reason for welcoming the proposal is the effect it would have on the general world situation. It would tend to stabilize conditions in Chile, and a stabilized Chile would be a tonic to all Latin America.

Americans have $6,000,000,000 invested, in one way and another, in Latin America. Nearly $1,000,000,000 is invested in Chile. Furthermore, approximately $750,000,000 worth of American products are sold annually south of the Rio Grande. Anything that will held that part of the world would pay enormous dividends in dollars and cents to the American people.

Uncle Sam could do with more and better friends in Latin America. A helping hand now would be remembered later.

AVERAGE OIL YIELD.

New York, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Daily average gross crude oil production in the United States increased 7,100 barrels in the week ended November 5, totaling 2,103,700 barrels, the American Petroleum Institute's weekly summary indicates. Daily average production east of California increased 16,900 barrels, to 1,638,400 barrels.

Imports of crude and refined oils at principal United States ports totaled 742,000 barrels against 840,000 barrels.

Board in Montgomery To Check Votes Today

Montgomery County's record breaking vote of approximately 20,000 in Tuesday's election will be officially canvassed today by the county board of election supervisors. Members of the board are Laurason B. Riggs and Lloyd J. Jones, Democrats, and Richard C. Birney, Republican.

The board will meet at noon and organize by electing a chairman and secretary. It then will begin the task of counting the official returns from each of the county's 57 voting precincts. If the count is not completed today, the board will reconvene tomorrow and until it is finished. The vote this year was approximately 5,000 more than the former record.

Arlington County Board Withholds ZoneDecision

After taking testimony in the efforts to have the Arlington County Board reverse its recent decision in the case of an application of Harry Stewart for a rezoning of his property located in Ballston, from residential to commercial, the board, at its meeting last night, withheld its decision until Monday.

The case was reopened at the request of former Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth, counsel for the opposition. The board had granted the permit, having reversed the action of the board of zoning appeals.

Services for Garrison At Hyattsville Today

Garrison was killed Tuesday by L. C. Wats, jailer at the Hyattsville jail, as the climax of several weeks of bad feeling. An inquest into his death will be held next Monday night by Magistrate John A. Downing.

SWEEP CARRIES ALL OF PRINCE GEORGES

G.O.P. May Have Gained Tie in Lanham District; All Others Lost.

The only bright spot in the cloud of gloom which surrounded Republican politicians in Prince Georges County, Md., yesterday was that they had held Roosevelt to a tie in Lanham District, normally Democratic, but this single spot did little to offset the loss of ten precincts the Republicans carried in 1930.

Even the Lanham cheer may be dissipated, according to Democratic leaders, who believe the official count of the ballots tomorrow may give the precinct to Roosevelt. Aside from Lanham the Democratic nominee carried all the districts in the county, some of them going Democratic for the first time in history.

In Tuesday's voting each presidential candidate received 220 votes in the unofficial returns from Lanham. In 1930, in the gubernatorial contest, Ritchie carried the district by 212 to 161 for Broening, his Republican opponent.

Two factors account for the practical loss of Lanham, according to the Democratic leaders there. One of them is the unusual number of Government employes living in the district, all of whom voted. The other is the corollary reason that many of the Democrats failed to come out and vote, accounting the issue already settled.

The Republican upset was most pronounced in Queen Anne district, which the Democrats lost in 1930, but which they carried Tuesday by a vote of 306 to 172. Democratic leaders, receiving the returns from this precinct, intimated that its leader had risen considerably in their respect.

The vote for Roosevelt and Hoover in Prince Georges County by districts was (R. marks precincts Republican in 1930):

ERROR IN WARRANT CLEARS LIQUOR CASE

Julia Schultz, of Colmar Manor, was freed on charges of possession of liquor in Hyattsville Police Court yesterday because the search warrant under which she was prosecuted was not the same one under which the search of her house had been made.

Attorney J. Wilson Ryon, appearing for the woman, brought out the fact that a word was missing from the first warrant and that a duplicate had been issued after the raid. Judge J. Chew Sheriff held that she could not be prosecuted on the duplicate.

Albert R. Myers, of Baltimore, was fined $150 for transporting a load of 50 gallons of alcohol. It was on behalf of Myers that State Senator Thurman C. Atkinson went to see Judge Sheriff several weeks ago, his visit resulting in the magistrate calling for police and having the legislator arrested for being drunk and disorderly.

William Shoemaker, of Laurel, was fined $75 for transportation of three cases of whisky which he said he was taking to his aunt and uncle as a present. When Judge Sheriff commented that they must drink a lot, Shoemaker explained that they had lots of company.

Police Discover Still In Mt. Rainier Home

One of the largest stills ever found in a dwelling house in Prince Georges County, was located by Mount Rainier police early yesterday when they raided a house and seized a 150 gallon still, J. J. Jackson, who lived in the house with his wife and three children, was arrested for manufacture and possession.

The oblong copper still was located on the second floor and fired by gas brought in a tank under pressure. Also on the second floor were 650 barrels of peach and prune mash.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

SINCE the World War—a war that was called the "war to end war" the world has seen no less than 25 other wars or armed conflicts. True, there were no declarations of war in most of these conflicts, but war is war whether the combatants formally declare it or not.

Among the armed conflicts since the World War are: Civil war in Ireland; Great Britain, France in Syria; Greece-Turkish Nationalists; Korean revolt against Japan; Georgia-Roumania; France-Morocco; Turkish Nationalists and Arabs in Mesopotamia; Poland-Soviet Russia; Baron Wrangle-Soviet in Russia; revolution in Egypt; Turkey-Armenia; Italy-Morocco; Soviet Russia-Persia; Soviet Russia-Japan; civil war in China; Fiume-Italy; Poland-Lithuania; Mexico; Nicaragua; Chinese-Japanese conflict; revolution and counter revolution in Spain; and various uprisings in South and Central American states.

For the farmer who is likely to have need for a small cannon while plowing in the field, a combination of these two is available in the device for which U. S. Patent No. 35,600 was issued, June, 1862. The inventor points out, in his application for patent, that the combination walking plow and field gun will come in handy for agriculturists who are attacked in the field. All one has to do is unhitch his team, swing the plow around toward his enemy, and fire.

COURT FIGHT BEGUN TO BALK WARDMAN SALE RATIFICATION

Minority Note Holders' Body Counsel Calls Peyser as One of Witnesses.

Attorneys representing minority note holders of the Wardman Real Estate Properties yesterday began the presentation of testimony in their fight to prevent ratification of the sale of the properties for $2,800,000.

Attorneys Leslie Garnett, W. Bissell Thomas and William B. O'Connell, all representing persons who did not deposit their notes with the bondholders' protective committee, placed Julius I. Peyser, Arthur Hellen and Frank Stetson on the stand to lay the groundwork for their case.

Maj. Peyser's Testimony.

Maj. Peyser, one of the operating receivers of the properties, which were placed in receivership last year, merely testified as to the assessed valuation of the buildings. He was not permitted to state what the buildings were worth in his opinion.

Mr. Hellen and Mr. Stetson have been named as voting trustees, who along with a Baltimore banker, will have actual control of the properties under the plan of reorganization, providing Justice F. D. Letts, of the District Supreme Court, ratifies the foreclosure sale.

Would Have Full Control.

Both said they had been told they would have complete control, in that they would select the board of directors for the operating company. Their pay was to be $2,500 for the first year, after which it was subject to change.

The sale of the Wardman properties was ordered when a default in interest payment occurred. Bonds totaling $11,000,000 constituted the defaulting issue. The group of majority note holders who have secured control by the purchase of the properties at auction claim to have 93 per cent of the note holders in their ranks. They also say they have more than $10,000,000 of the issue represented by their depositors.

The trial is expected to last for several days.

TRAFFIC TOLL

TO DATE.

Maj. Ernest W. Brown, superintendent of police, yesterday warned motorists to exercise care in driving on wet streets. The falling leaves, which cause automobiles to skid, and blurred wind shields on rainy days, are additional reasons for reducing speed and being cautious in bad weather, he stated.

There have been 36 more deaths and 210 more injuries up to date than during the corresponding period of 1931. The total number of accidents has decreased by 430. The figures are:

Deaths	69	105
Injuries	3,094	3,304

ARMISTICE PROGRAM WILL BE IMPRESSIVE

Rites Tomorrow to Center at Arlington Cemetery and Cathedral.

Observance of Armistice Day in Washington tomorrow promises to be the most significant since the one eleven years ago when the Unknown Soldier was laid to rest in Arlington Cemetery.

A invitation was extended yesterday to President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt and Mrs. Roosevelt to attend the Armistice Day program in the Washington Auditorium. A special wire was sent the President-elect and his wife by Walter Johnson.

The interior of the auditorium will be transformed into a French village, with the enaction of scenes on Armistice night in France being a feature of the program.

Dedication Ceremony.

The resting place of the Unknown Warrior will again be the center of attention of the Nation, for the tomb—the monument which now completes the shrine—will be dedicated at a ceremony conducted by the American Legion.

The exercises at the tomb will be preceded by a parade at 10:45 a. m. of Army and Navy units and members of the American Legion. The parade will form on the Ellipse and move up Fifteenth street over Constitution avenue, past the reviewing stand at the rear of the White House, over the Memorial Bridge and into Arlington Cemetery.

Hurley Will Participate.

Gen. Perry Miles will be marshal of the parade. Gen. Amos A. Fries will be marshal of the patriotic section. The parade is scheduled to reach the cemetery at 11 a. m. when the ceremony will be opened with the placing of a wreath on the tomb by Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley.

The Rev. Irvin Q. Wood, national chaplain of the American Legion, will give the invocation. This will be followed by the reading of a message from President Hoover by Dr. George C. Havenner, chairman of the District of Columbia Bicentennial Commission.

A one-minute silence will then be observed, to be followed by the singing of "America" by the audience. Louis A. Johnson, national commander of the American Legion, will present Secretary Hurley, who will make the principal address of dedication. Maj. Charles Trowbridge Tittmann will sing "There Is No Death." The benediction, by Col. Julian E. Yates, chief of chaplains of the United States Army and the playing of "The Star-Spangled Banner" by the United States Army Band will close the ceremony.

Rites to Honor Wilson.

Wreaths will be placed on the tomb by various organizations between noon and 12:30 p. m. The proceedings at Arlington will be broadcast by the Columbia Broadcasting and the National Broadcasting systems. Each of the 10,572 posts of the legion throughout the country will listen to the exercises.

The District of Columbia Department of the American Legion will participate in the Woodrow Wilson memorial services at the National Cathedral. Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War in the Cabinet of President Wilson, will speak.

Solemn High Mass.

A solemn Armistice Day mass will take place at 12:15 p. m. in the Church of the Immaculate Conception, under the auspices of the Costello Post of the American Legion. The mass will be celebrated by the Rev. Francis J. Hurney, chaplain of the Costello post and wartime chaplain of the United States cruiser Charleston.

Miss Elizabeth Eastman will speak at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at 1 p. m., as part of a service by the seven wartime agencies. St. John's Lodge, F. A. A. M., will hold a former service men's night tomorrow night.

Tree to Honor Mrs. Helen Doocy.

A memorial tree will be planted as a tribute to the late Mrs. Helen Nelson Doocy, Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock, on the grounds of Nativity Episcopal Church, at Fourteenth and Massachusetts avenue southeast.

2 MEN ARE SEIZED IN HOLDUP SERIES

One of Cab-Driver Victims Is Said to Have Identified Both of Suspects.

Acting on descriptions given by six taxicab drivers who were held up and robbed, Second Precinct police last night arrested two colored men who they believed perpetrated all of the depredations.

The men, who said they were John Charles Wheeler, 21, of 134 Pierce street northwest, and James Madison, 20, of 1004 S street northwest, were said to have been identified by Robert Mangum, one of the drivers.

Mangum, who lives at 1415 Girard street northwest, said two colored men entered his cab at Ninth street and New York avenue northwest, and told him to drive to an address on Fairmont street northwest. En route they held him up and robbed him of $20.

Robbed of $3.50.

Joseph Phillips, of 1205 Rhode Island avenue northwest, reported a colored man entered his cab at Georgia avenue and Fairmont street northwest. He was told to drive to Fourteenth and V streets northwest, but on arrival there he was told to drive to Ninth and Barry place northwest. On arrival at the latter place, he said, the man flashed a rusty gun and took $3.50 from him.

William Phillips Sutphin, of 809 D street northwest, said a colored man entered his cab at Twelfth and T streets and told him to drive to Twelfth street between Clifton and Euclid streets northwest. On arrival he was robbed of $8.75.

Leon Harris, colored, of 1320 U street northwest, told police two colored men got in his cab at New York avenue and Pierce street northwest and told him to drive to French street between Ninth and Tenth streets. On the way he was robbed of $6.

Menaced with Gun

John Edward Dean, of 1805 Monroe street northwest, said he picked up a man at Eleventh and C streets northwest, and was told to drive to Center Market. On arrival he was told to drive to Nalyor Court. Then the man stuck a gun into his back, took a cigar box containing $4.50 and menaced him with the gun, he said.

Cummings Johns, of 115 C street northeast, told police a man got into his cab at Fourteenth street and Florida avenue northwest and gave an address on Euclid street. En route he flourished a gun and robbed him of $9.

They wrote Judge Schuldt that if their sentences were shortened they would promise to leave the city. Upon this promise, they were called into court and the remainder of their sentences was suspended.

Despondent Father Saved By Screams of Daughter

After being treated at Emergency Hospital for the effects of poison swallowed and gas inhaled, apparently in a suicidal attempt, Jack H. Schiller, 35, 2913 M street northwest, was transferred last night to Gallinger Hospital.

Police said Schiller had sent his 10-year-old daughter, Dorothy, to get him a package of cigarettes, telling her not to hurry. When she returned she found her father lying on the kitchen floor with an empty poison bottle beside him and the jets of the stove open.

Frightened, she ran screaming from the apartment. Neighbors who rushed to her assistance called the Rescue Squad.

It was reported that his wife and three other smaller children were away from home at the time.

Charging that the order of the Public Utilities Commission, putting into effect a 3-cent car fare for school children was a valid exercise of police power, Assistant Corporation Counsel William A. Roberts and Peoples' Counsel Richmond B. Keech yesterday launched a determined attempt to obtain legal ratification of the contention when they asked Justice Payton Gordon, in District Supreme Court, to dismiss a petition brought by the traction companies to outlaw the reduced fare.

The drive for arguments closed dismissal of the complaint jointly filed by the Capital Traction, Washington Rapid Transit and the Washington Railway & Electric companies was begun early in the day by the two attorneys. They concluded their argument just as court recessed, and Attorneys S. R. Bowen, George P. Hoover and G. Thomas Dunlop, representing the traction companies, will reply today.

Another point in the argument for a dismissal of the suit was the fact that the charters of the three companies are qualified so that they can be amended, altered, or repealed, and the order reducing the school fares was merely an alteration or amendment. Furthermore, Keech and Roberts asserted, the action of the commission in decreeing the fare was mandatory, for an act of Congress ordered them to take that action.

By Order of Congress.

One of the reasons cited by the traction companies, in protesting the reduced fare, was that the order was entered without a hearing by the commission. It is the belief of the commission, though, that no hearing was necessary, because the congressional action was directorial and conclusive.

This left the commission with no discretionary powers. The members simply obeyed the dictates of Congress, which, it was claimed, had a legal right to decree a 3-cent fare for school pupils.

Gen. Arthur to Speak At Planting of Trees

Brig. Gen. W. H. Arthur, U. S. A., retired, will deliver the principal address at a tree-planting in memory of Dr. John O. Himes, vice president of the board of directors. Mrs. Jouett Shouse of 2230 Massachusetts avenue is a member of the Women's Board of the Columbia Hospital, and Dr. Sterling Ragsdale is the present superintendent.

POLLUTED STREAMS HERE ATTACKED BY WALTON UNIT HEAD

The polluted condition of the Potomac River and Rock Creek were held a disgrace to the Nation by Dr. M. D'Arcy Magee, president of the District chapter of the Izaak Walton League, at a meeting last night at the Department of Commerce Building.

Dr. Magee's criticism of the sewerage conditions in the two waterways was the opening gun in a campaign to be instituted by the league to obtain adequate provisions from Congress for a sewerage plant near Blue Plains.

Will Go to Congress.

Dr. Magee declared that District officials are fully in accord with the need for sewerage improvement and that the principal work now left is to convince Congress of the importance of immediate improvement.

The league president contradicted the impression that the sole interest of the organization is to make waterways fit for angling. "Conservation is not our aim," he said, "but reclamation and obstruction of unfair use of our waterways by industry."

Dr. Magee singled out Rock Creek as particularly offensive because of waste discharged into this stream from Walter Reed Hospital. He said that not only is the local chapter demanding a remedy of local conditions but that the matter is being pushed by the national organization.

German System Praised.

The major part of last night's meeting was devoted to the showing of pictures of sewage plants in Berlin and other German cities. The pictures were presented by Vernon L. Dorsey, sanitary engineer of the Veterans Administration.

Dr. Magee referred to the German systems as an illustration of what could be done in Washington. Ammunition in the campaign will include a report from the Public Health Service, which described the bacteriological content in the waters of the Potomac and Rock Creek as constituting a menace to the city's public health.
